Planes Aid Jews Battling To Open Way To Jerusalem

2000 Haganah Men Reported Locked In Struggle With Arab Force of 7000

Jerusalem, Palestine, May 9 (U.P.).—Thousands of Jews and Arabs were reported battling on the Jerusalem-Tel Aviv highway 12 miles west of the Holy City tonight.

Planes of the Jewish Haganah militia have entered the action, unofficial reports said.

The reports were unconfirmed but flares reflected from the area were visible on the outskirts of Jerusalem.

It was asserted that 2000 Haganah militiamen were battling an estimated 7000 Arabs in an attempt to clear the Jerusalem-Tel Aviv highway.

Such an action would be designed to open the road in order to avoid acceptance of an Arab offer, under a Jerusalem truce, to deliver food to Jews in the city while the road remained closed to Jewish traffic.

Arabs Reenforced

Informants said the Palmach striking force of Haganah was attempting to blow up Arab road blocks with the aid of planes in the vicinity of Bab el Wad.

The original Arab force was strengthened by thousands, informants said. They reported that the fight was intensifying late tonight after a lull at nightfall while Haganah awaited reinforcements.

Other sources said troops of King Abdullah's Arab Legion had assumed full control of the vital Allenby "invasion" bridge across the Jordan River.

Jews were anxious over the Allenby bridge news in view of Abdullah's repeated open threats to invade this country. Last night, in his latest broadcast, Abdullah said:

"I shall march into Palestine immediately after the end of the mandate."

Official sources said here the exact time at which British authorities will declare the mandate ended is 12:01 a. m. next Saturday.

Walter Eytan, spokesman for the Jewish Agency, said, "If Abdullah invades Palestine we will consider that a hostile act and react accordingly."

Eytan said the Jewish Agency had been unable to attend a Jerusalem truce talk called for this afternoon by Gen. Sir Alan Cunningham, British High Commissioner, because its representatives were out of town.

Red Cross Offers Aid

The agency will try to get men here for a conference tomorrow morning, he said.

The Arab League announced that "limited" progress had been made in truce talks here with General Cunningham.

The league said that representatives of the International Red Cross, in a talk with King Abdullah and Abdul Rahman Azzam Pasha, secretary general of the league at Amman, Trans-Jordan, suggested the Red Cross be given supervision of the truce.

[The Associated Press reported that King Abdullah disclosed receipt of a telegram from King Ibn

Virginia Jailing More Than 4000 Drunks a Month

Richmond, Va., May 9 (AP).—Jail commitments on drunk charges in Virginia are averaging slightly more than 4000 a month, State Commissioner of Corrections Rice M. Youell reported today.

Commitments for being drunk and disorderly totaled 36,157 between July 1, 1947, the beginning of the fiscal year, and April 1, 1948, the report showed.

These figures, Youell said, did not include persons confined in overnight police lockups in towns and cities for which figures are not available. The largest number of offenders are between 25 and 29 years of age, the report showed. Juvenile commitments showed a decrease.

Count Sforza Named to Head Italy Republic

Career Diplomat Spent 18 Years Fighting Mussolini

Rome, Italy, May 9. (U.P.).—Count Carlo Sforza, 76, Foreign Minister and career diplomat who spent 18 years in exile fighting Benito Mussolini, was named majority choice tonight for election as President of the new Italian republic tomorrow.

Premier Alcide de Gasperi and his Christian Democrat Party, which holds more than half the membership in the Senate and Chamber combined, voted to back Sforza over three others, including independent President Enrico de Nicola. The Senate and the Chamber will hold a joint meeting for the election.

De Nicola, with whom De Gasperi often has disagreed, was opposed by the majority party and its right-wing Socialist and Republican supporters. Sforza is a Republican and long has been regarded as a liberal politician.

De Nicola, an unassuming, modest lawyer, never wanted to be chief of state but became provisional President in June, 1946. He has been maneuvered out of the running for reelection, but tribute was paid to him in the new constitution, which provides that he will be recognized as the first President of Italy as of January 1, 1948.

[The Associated Press said De Nicola announced he would not accept the post.]

Leftist parties demanded yesterday that De Nicola be given a unanimous vote on the first ballot, after which he could accept or reject. The Christian Democrat Party newspaper said De Gasperi would support only a "vote of homage" for De Nicola.

Sforza has directed Italy's policies so far toward the West that the Communist press said today "he had discredited himself with everyone at home and abroad and is a servant in an American uniform."

Other possible choices for President were Luigi Einaudi, 74, former governor of the Bank of Italy; Ivanoe Bonomi, 75, former Premier elected yesterday as Senate president; and Count Allessandro Casati, 67, liberal senator.

Spy Exposer Uses Alias In Canada

Ottawa, May 9 (AP).—Igor Gouzenko, key figure in Canada's spy trials, is living in a Canadian community under an assumed name and hopes his children will never know their true background.

The former Russian embassy cipher clerk makes that clear in his new book, "This Was My Choice."

Gouzenko is under constant police protection. Only a few Canadian officials know the family's whereabouts. For interviews in connection with editing of the book, Gouzenko was escorted to different meeting places in various cities. The book says:

"We have a lovely comfortable little home of several rooms, all our own, a lawn, a movie theater nearby to which we may go as often as we like. And, wonder of wonders, there are huge grocery stores with shelves groaning under their load of food such as we never imagined existed. Even today I walk into shops without any idea of buying anything—just for the sheer enjoyment of looking at things . . . Anne (his wife) still feels like crying when she sees large quantities of butter and eggs."

Both he and his wife have aliases and their children will not be told

Fast Use Urged As U. S. Cigarettes Rot in Germany

Frankfurt, Germany, May 9 (AP). Allied authorities urged German officials today to speed distribution of millions of American cigarettes rotting in German warehouses.

Last fall the Germans received 200 million cigarettes from surplus United States Army stocks. At least 10 per cent spoiled while German officials waited to distribute them as incentives to spur worker production.

Clarence L. Adcock, United States chairman of the British-American control group, questioned the ability of the Germans to handle huge imports under the Marshall Plan in view of their failure to distribute the cigarettes.

Story Just 'Propaganda'

Truman Denies, via Tydings, Peace Talk Overture by Stalin

Baltimore, May 9 (AP).—Senator Tydings (D., Md.) today quoted President Truman as categorically denying rumors that Premier Stalin has made peace talk overtures.

Tydings said a constituent asked about reports that Russia suggested a conference between Stalin and Mr. Truman prior to the Czechoslovak crisis. Tydings said in a speech for broadcast (WBAL) he was certain the report was not true, but he continued:

"In order that there might be no question about it whatever, I put the matter squarely up to President Truman.

"The President answered me categorically with 'no,'" Tydings continued. "He said there was absolutely not one iota of truth in the report. He said that neither Mr. Stalin nor anyone else representing Russia had made any such suggestion to him or to the American Government."

(Mr. Truman has told recent news conferences that he has no plans to meet with Stalin outside this country. He said that if Stalin wishes to come here he will talk with him.)

"Many of us," Tydings continued, "have heard this manufactured rumor about Russia wanting to meet with the President to work out a solution of European and world problems. We have heard it said that Mr. Truman would not confer with Russia. This is a sample of the propaganda that unfortunately confuses many of our well-meaning people."

Tydings said it is necessary only to look at Russia's record since the end of the war to know she is not interested in establishing world peace.

30,000 Hail Churchill's Unity Plea

Federated Europe Can Support Itself, Inspire Loyalty, He Says at Amsterdam

Amsterdam, The Netherlands, May 9 (AP).—Winston Churchill said today that a united Europe would permit the Continent to take her place as an independent and self-suporting part of a world organization.

Addressing 30,000 persons in Amsterdam's Square, Churchill declared a united Europe must be safe from foreign aggression or inroads and added:

"It must be a Europe in which men will be proud to say 'I am a European.' Where men of every country will think as much of being a European as of being a citizen of their own country." This he described as "the transformation of the Western world."

Britain's wartime Prime Minister and leaders from other countries have been participating in an unofficial "congress of Europe" at The Hague to promote the idea of a democratic federation of European Nations. The congress is scheduled to complete its work of preliminary organization tomorrow night.

"I am not an enemy of any nation," Churchill said. "I am not against any race or nation. It is against tyranny that we take our stand."

With Churchill as he spoke were many leaders from the countries of western Europe. Among them were former Premiers Paul Ramadier, Paul Reynaud and Edouard Daladier of France, and Anthony Eden, former British foreign secretary.

Dr. Henk Brugmans, head of the Dutch federalist movement, said: "Don't believe that the United Nations will bring us peace or that Marshall Plan aid will be enough to bring us prosperity. We need a drastic remedy to improve European national economies. We want more than treaties. What we need is a federation like Switzerland and the United States.

Earlier at The Hague the congress' political committee approved a policy of proceeding slowly and carefully in forming a European federation.

Reynaud was defeated on a proposal to call western European popular elections for a consultative continental assembly by the end of the year.

Two British delegates, R. W. G. Mackay and Harold MacMillan, cautioned against hasty action. Mackay said the former French Premier "is trying to make a fool of the congress or to make the congress the laughing stock of Europe and the world as a whole."

It is physically impossible, Mackay said, for the various parliaments to authorize elections

Russians Boast Of Superior War Machine

Ready to Give Foes Long, Hard Fight, Writers Declare

Moscow, May 9 (U.P.).—Russia has developed a "superior" war machine, and is prepared to give her enemies a long, hard fight if they force war on her, Soviet military writers declared today.

Maj. Gen. Nikolai Talensky, writing for Pravda, declared Russia's "modern, first-class army" has worked out strategy and tactics far superior to "the bourgeois theories of tank and air war, total war, blitzkrieg, etc."

Maj. Gen. Nikolai Zamiatin said in a Moskovski Bolshevik article that the Soviet army is ready for a hard and prolonged war.

Both articles were part of the Russian press observance of VE-Day—celebrated here one day later than in the west.

Numerous editorials and special articles emphasized the theme that foreign imperialists are intent on starting another war.

Say There Is Wide Gulf

Zamiatin and Talensky said there is a wide gulf between the desire of the "war incendiaries" to touch off a new conflict and their ability to organize it.

Talensky wrote that World War II had proved the correctness of Soviet military theories and the "inconsistency" of western ideas. He said that "bourgeois militarists" are dooming their own plans by depending on blitzkrieg, total war and similar theories.

"The modern military art does not tolerate sensations, no matter what they should be—either in the form of an aviation-tank blitzkrieg or an atomic-reactive war, behind which there often hide the advertising measures of capitalistic mo-

39 Dead, 17 Hurt, 142 Held

Communist Terrorism Marks Election in Southern Korea

Seoul, Korea, (Monday) May 10 (U.P.).—Communists spread terrorism and sabotage across American-occupied southern Korea today as Koreans went to the polls.

Reports reaching Army headquarters here during the last 36 hours listed 39 dead, 17 wounded and 6 missing. Police arrested 142 rioters.

Sharp fighting was in progress on Cheju Island, 50 miles south of Korea. Communist bands, striking from the hills, terrorized half of the election officials there into quitting. Ballots could not be distributed in some areas and voting may be impossible.

Sabotage disrupted telephone and railroad service.

The avowed purpose of the violence was to break up the election. Some eight million persons in southern Korea were registered to vote. Unless frightened away from the polls, they will elect a 200-man assembly to write a constitution to create Korea's first representative government.

[The Associated Press reported heavy voting in Seoul.]

[The New York Herald-Tribune said all the candidates are followers of a little group of men presently led by Dr. Synghman Rhee. Nearly all of this group have been educated in the United States or Europe and now control South Korea with American aid.]

The United Nations is sponsoring and observing the elections, which are limited to American-occupied southern Korea. Russia will not permit balloting in northern Korea, which is occupied by Soviet troops.

Communist propaganda broadcasts to southern Korea last night cried, "Smash the elections!"

[The Associated Press reported that the radio in north Korea told Lieut. Gen. John R. Hodge today, "You had better get out of Korea with your clothes packed." The broadcast advised the American commander to "give up your attempt to carry out a separate election."]

General Hodge ordered all American troops to be ready to assemble on 30 minutes notice if necessary. Seoul was placed under curfew.

At every corner Korean police, American military police and specially deputized Korean civilians challenged anyone attempting to pass. The deputies carried clubs and axes.

Some incidents had a "wild west" touch. At Kyongju, near the southeast coast, armed leftists entered a railroad roundhouse, stole a locomotive drove it out of town, then reversed the direction of the locomotive and leaped out. The engine plunged madly into the switchyard and smashed two other locomotives.

Midnight Talks Fail To Avert Rail Strike; Seizure Order Drawn

Highlights of Rail Dispute

Here are highlights of the railroad labor dispute which threatens Nation-wide tieup if not settled by Tuesday morning:

1. Three unions are involved, representing 125,000 employes who operate trains. These are the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers (independent), Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen (independent), and the Switchmen's Union (A. F. of L.) Two other operating unions and 16 nonoperating unions, representing 1,225,000 employes, have reached agreement with the carriers.

2. Employers involved are all the major railroads, terminal companies and some small roads. They are negotiating through the Association of American Railroads.

3. The issues are twofold: Wages and working rules. The unions demanded a 30-cent an hour raise with a $3 a day minimum, which a presidential fact-finding board cut to 15½ cents an hour. All but the three unions now negotiating accepted this figure, as did the carriers. The carriers maintain that a higher raise for the three unions would bring immediate demands from all others to equalize their scales.

The rules question is considerably more complicated. These rules determine working conditions, additional pay for special services, distribution of work, and the like. At first the operating unions demanded 44 rules changes, the same which caused the two-day strike of engineers and trainmen in 1946. Compromise with trainmen and conductors was obtained in the current dispute by agreement on eight of these and on five asked by the carriers, but the three holdout unions would not agree. The roads consider these changes "feather-bedding" and "make work" provisions; the unions deem them necessary to equalize pay for equivalent work in other industries and for other railroad crafts.

4. The present status of the dispute is that all voluntary negotiations have long since broken down, mediation under the National Mediation Act was not accepted by the three unions, and the White House has endeavored to bring the two sides together. Concurrent meetings have been going for two days at the White House.

5. The strike deadline is 6 a. m. Tuesday. Its result would be Nation-wide stalling of all traffic on trunk and branch lines and in terminals.

6. The alternative, should negotiations fail, is Government seizure of the roads. This could be accomplished under a 1916 World War I Emergency Act still in effect or perhaps under the Supreme Court decision in the 1946 John L. Lewis case that miners in seized mines were Government employes and could not strike against the Government.

Two Sides Refuse To Budge After Day-Long Parley At White House

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

Government seizure of the Nation's railroads appeared imminent early today when desperately long negotiations collapsed less than 36 hours before the strike deadline of three operating unions.

After more than 12 hours of almost continuous meetings at the White House, operators' and union representatives went to their hotels with nothing settled. Negotiations which began at 10 a. m. yesterday finally were broken off at 12:03 this morning.

The day had been one of alternate meetings of each side. At 10:45 union leaders were summoned to the White House for the fourth time and came out again at 12:03.

Stay Long Enough For 'No'

Operators had emerged from a meeting at 10:25 to which they had been called at 9 p. m. At 6:35 they had been called in and had remained only long enough to say 'no."

Shortly before that union heads had left their third conference with pessimistic views of any chance of settlement before their strike was scheduled to begin at 6 a. m. Tuesday.

"We've been talking all day with Dr. Steelman," said Alvanley Johnston, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, "and we haven't made any progress. We've been asked to stand by, but I don't know whether we're coming back."

Called Back Fourth Time

Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman, who had spent the day meeting with one side after the other, then called representatives of the carriers back for a fourth time.

Before that he went in to see President Truman. The President was reported ready to issue an order seizing the railroads for Government operation promptly if the final talk with the operators failed to produce a basis for settlement.

Steelman's fourth conference with the carrier representatives was brief and apparently bootless. Only two minutes after entering, they emerged again silent and unsmiling.

Roads Refuse to Budge

Late Saturday, after four hours of talks had resulted in stalemate, William T. Faricy, president of the Association of American Railroads, had said the roads would not budge from recommendations of a presidential fact-finding board.

This board, confronted with demands of the five operating unions for wage increases of 30 cents an hour and changes in 23 working rules, had recommended a 15½-cent increase and changes in eight rules. Two unions and the carriers accepted these recommendations but the three now threatening strike stood pat.

Fay May Use Best New York Gaming Curbs

U. S. Attorney Talks With O'Dwyer; Week Left for Master Plan

The more successful methods which New York City has applied to minimize its gambling have a good chance of being put to work in the District.

This was indicated yesterday by United States Attorney George Morris Fay, who has called for a special grand jury probe of Washington's rackets. Fay spent the weekend in New York conferring with his friend, Mayor William O'Dwyer, and other officials, seeking antigambling ideas.

He told The Washington Post by telephone the trip had been "worthwhile" but did not elaborate on any new methods he may have gleaned from New York.

One of the major weapons which authorities have in the investigation is possible income tax evasion by some of the 138 persons whose names as "known gamblers" have been submitted to Fay by police. But Fay, who says "we are going into whatever we can find," has made it clear that at present he is "not in position to discuss whether we will go into the income tax aspects of gambling."

Yesterday also brought comment from the Washington Criminal Justice Association's new president, Vincent Saccardi, that he is "in full agreement that gambling in Washington is widespread.

"But what we can do about it with existing laws is a question. Right now I don't know whether we have the right kind of power to get gamblers." Saccardi was elected at the association's annual board meeting which also disclosed

4000 to 5000 Use Rails Here In Commuting

Union Station Also Handles Up to 120,000 Other Passengers Daily

Four to five thousand Washington area workers will have to find new means of commuting to and from their jobs if the railroad strike materializes, a Union Station spokesman estimated yesterday.

Besides the commuters, average daily traffic at the terminal amounts to about 100,000 to 120,000 incoming and outgoing passengers, it was said.

The heaviest commuting traffic travels to Washington from Baltimore and points between, a spokesman at the terminal said. Other points are Brunswick and Frederick, Md., Richmond and Fredericksburg, Va., Harper's Ferry, W. Va. and intermediate stations on these lines.

Buses Are Alternatives

Such workers would presumably use buses, which operate from most of these areas, or arrange car pools.

As the railroad managements' and unions' representatives continued in a deadlock, two more railroads yesterday announced embargoes of perishable food shipments bringing the total to 84.

One of these was the New York Central, which also was among the roads announcing cancellation of crack passenger trains on runs that could not reach their destinations by 6 a. m. on Tuesday, the strike deadline.

The Pennsylvania Railroad remained the only rail carrier of the six serving Washington which had not embargoed perishable food and livestock.

Social Equality a 'Delusion'

Segregation in Mississippi To Stay, Wright Tells Negroes

Jackson, Miss., May 9 (U.P.).—Gov. Fielding L. Wright told Mississippi Negroes today that they should move out of the State if they do not subscribe to its segregation laws.

Fielding spoke on the eve of a South-wide States' rights conference to draw up battle plans against President Truman and his civil rights program. Over 1500 delegates from the 11 "Solid South" States are expected tomorrow for the one-day meeting aimed at halting the program which would destroy many Southern racial barriers.

The delegates will plan action to defeat the President if possible either at the Democratic convention or in the election.

The Southern revolters have insisted all along that their main opposition to the civil rights stand of the President stems from its alleged violation of States' rights and not its racial angle.

Wright said it again today in a State-wide radio broadcast to the Negro populace and also heard by large advance delegations to tomorrow's meeting.

"I am your friend," Wright told the Negroes, who make up half of Mississippi's population.

He promised the race they would always get fair treatment in the State, but urged that they reject "social equality movements" and be proud of their own people. He said they were recognized as citizens and would continue to get "equal and exact justice" in the Mississippi courts.

But Wright warned that nothing the President or Congress could

Capper Concedes Defeat in Fight To Keep Oleo Tax

By the United Press

Chairman Arthur Capper of the Senate Agriculture Committee yesterday conceded defeat in his fight to keep Federal taxes on oleomargarine.

The Kansas Republican said "it will be just a matter of days" before the Senate approves the House-passed bill repealing the 10 cents a pound Federal levy on colored oleo, as well as other taxes.

Southern Congressmen, who led the fight for the repealer, charged meanwhile that dairy-State Representatives already are striking back at them.

Representative Cooley (D., N. C.) said yesterday the "retaliation" has already begun. He pointed to a bill by Representative Murray (R., Wis.) to abolish a law which forbids the export of tobacco plants and seed.

Murray denied the charge.

Overton Reported 'Extremely Sick'

Senator Overton (D., La.), who underwent an abdominal operation last week, was reported by the Naval Hospital last night to be "an extremely sick man." Previously he had been reported as holding his own.

Anderson Leaves Agriculture Job Today After Welding Department Into Loyal Unit

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

When Clinton P. Anderson walks out of the office of Secretary of Agriculture today he will close one of the stormiest and also one of the most constructive periods in that office.

CLINTON ANDERSON

He entered the office a stranger in a strange land. His appearance was greeted with behind-the-palm remarks about "another businessman-Congressman farm expert."

He leaves this week with a department as completely unified behind him as any Agriculture Secretary has had in years.

Anderson's popularity with the employes of the department recently got a terrific upsurge as the result of a man who dislikes him thoroughly and has opposed him on nearly all of his proposals. That man is Representative August H. Andresen (R., Minn.), second ranking Republican on the House Agriculture Committee.

Anderson Defends Employes

On December 27, at the height of the turmoil over speculation in commodities Andresen issued a statement that he had learned from a "very reliable source" that 200 Government employes in Chicago had formed a pool to speculate in commodities.

Although Andresen didn't say so, the inference was that these Government employes had inside information about Government plans to purchase commodities, and profited by that inside knowledge. Naturally that meant employes of the Agriculture Department.

Anderson lost no time in a vigorous denial. In a suddenly called Sunday afternoon conference he released a blast at Andresen, challenging him to "put up or shut up," and accusing him of "going bear-hunting with an empty gun." His charges, Anderson said, were "shocking and unconscionable."

Employes Show Appreciation

"Honest Government employes are entitled to protection," he declared.

So far no reply except a repetition of the charges has come from Andresen. But the response from employes in the department was immediate. At last they had a champion. This reporter had calls from many old-time employes, praising Anderson and asking more recognition for his defense of his force.

Andresen, by his effort to get some of the headlines connected with the commodity speculation row, had given Anderson the opportunity he wanted to weld his department into a unit behind him It gave him a much-needed opening to overcome vast discontent among his field force—the old Agriculture Adjustment Agency workers. They had been aroused a year earlier over Anderson's proposal for reorganization of the Production and Marketing Administration. That program, the AAA feared, would center in Washington much of the responsibilities that had been in their hands.

Quiets AAA Revolt

It was one of the most widespread revolts the department had known in years. In formal letters the field force demanded resignations of some of Anderson's top-flight men. AAA State representatives in 40 of the 48 States signed the letters.

Anderson called them all to Washington, worked out a compromise that they agreed to. The reorganization plan, however, still rankled until Andresen came forward with his blast that healed all wounds.

The episode reveals Anderson at his best. He is glib, quick-witted and fast on his feet to take advantage of any opening.

Helped Halt Famine

To Anderson's credit will stand the remarkable job that America did to feed the world during the last three years. Those efforts halted the march of the greatest of the Four Horsemen—Famine—that after most wars takes a greater toll of life than the conflict itself.

He handled the enormous buying program that entailed without a suggestion of wrongdoing by any of the top-flight men in his department. The closest examination of congressional committees failed to tie any "leaks" to his department.

He has been a stalwart defender of what he sees to be the department's greatest aims. He believes in a price-support program, but with safeguards, such as Government goals for farm crops. Farmers not complying with those goals would lose their claims for price supports.

Conservation Advocate

He is a believer in soil conservation. "Some day, somehow, conservation must become second nature in us," he recently said—"in all those who use the natural resources and in all those who buy the products of these resources."

Soil conservation, he insists, must not be a football. He refuses to tie himself to any plan, urging only that "we must not break up our program into little segments under scattered control."

He formulated his "policy of organized, sustained and realistic abundance"—in other words a policy to get away from the old periods of surplus food piling up on farms and in warehouses without a market, while large numbers of the population are underfed.

Fought for Pay Increases

He has fought long and loud for better pay for employes—particularly those in top-flight positions. He has emphasized the strain upon the department of the early departure of its ablest men to better-paying jobs in private employment.

He has encouraged greater agricultural research, both in the production and marketing of farm products.

With anything but rugged health, he is remarkable for his energy, and his ability to work longer hours than he asks of others. As a youth in South Dakota he was stricken with tuberculosis, and for a time his life was despaired of. He moved to Albuquerque, N. Mex., and while fighting off that dread disease, built up a highly profitable insurance business. He later established his own company which is now the largest writer of compensation insurance in that State. He comments that "it feeds me well."

Headed World Rotary

At his New Mexico home he takes a wide interest in social activities. In 1932 he was elected president of Rotary International. Only 36, he was the youngest ever to hold that position. He worked on the Little Theater project in Albuquerque.

Another affliction, in addition to tuberculosis fell pon him—diabetes. How he controls those two serious ailments and carries on at the severe pace he sets for himself is the wonder of all who know him well.

He admits to one ambition, to be a writer. In his younger days he worked on newspapers in both South Dakota and New Mexico. While bedridden in his early visit to New Mexico, he says he "gathered a wonderful collection of magazine reection slips, and wasted a lot of money on postage." He claims as his chief hobby the collection of books, of which he is famed.

This reporter has had many an argument with the retiring secretary—sometimes angry ones. But he must say, as Anderson leaves the Cabinet to run for Senator from New Mexico, that he is a "damned good public servant."

Vandenberg 'Nominated' By 2d College

Oberlin, Ohio, May 9 (U.P.)—Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg triumphed over a field of tough competitors to win the Republican presidential nomination at the Oberlin College mock GOP convention early today.

The Michigan Senator, backed by ever-mounting support from the 1094 student delegates representing every State in the Union, Alaska and Hawaii, was nominated on the fifth ballot.

Senator Baldwin of Connecticut was named as his running mate on the second ballot.

[Vandenberg was nominated on the ninth ballot by students of Washington and Lee University, Lexington, Va., at a mock Republican convention April 21—Editor's Note.]

Three top aspirants to the presidency in real life, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio and former Minnesota Gov. Harold E. Stassen also ran.

Taft cornered 103 votes, Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon, 87, and Stassen, 76. Baldwin led all the way in the vice presidential balloting.

Two Southern Senators Won't Aid Truman

Two Southern Democrats added new fuel to the civil rights political revolt yesterday by saying they will not campaign this year for President Truman.

Senators McClellan (D., Ark.) and Russell (D., Ga.) said in separate interviews that they are rejecting what McClellan called an invitation from J. Howard McGrath, Democratic national chairman, to join in the national party campaign. McGrath wrote Senators a form letter offering to make available to them the facilities of the national committee's radio division.

McClellan told a reporter he intends to reply that:

"It would be inconsistent for me to attempt to defend the record of the present Administration when I so violently disagree with one of the most important aspects of the domestic program—that of so-called civil rights legislation."

McClellan, a delegate to the Democratic National Convention, said he had made plans earlier to take an active part in the national party's speaking campaign.

Russell said he intends to ignore the McGrath letter. But he added he has "no intention of campaigning for President Truman so long as he advocates these so-called civil rights measures."

Representatives from 10 Southern States are expected to discuss forming a Southern Democratic Party and of backing someone besides Mr. Truman for the nomination at a Jackson, Miss., meeting today.

The possibility of blocking Mr. Truman out, however, apparently is becoming more remote daily. The President now has 423 pledged votes and needs only 195 more to clinch the nomination on the first ballot at the July Philadelphia convention.

Socialists Name Thomas For 6th Time

Norman Thomas — Tucker P. Smith
Socialist Party Candidates

Reading, Pa., May 9 (AP).—Norman Thomas accepted today an unprecedented sixth presidential nomination by the Socialist Party and launched his campaign on the theme of "The Road to Peace."

"In the atomic ages there is not victory but death," the lanky 63-year-old New Yorker told 200 cheering delegates at the closing session of the twenty-sixth national Socialist convention.

America, he said, must accept universal disarmament as "the one hope of peace—then plant in the world the idea which no dictator can ignore or crush."

Nominated to campaign with Thomas as the vice presidential nominee was Tucker P. Smith, 49, of Olivet, Mich., a Detroit suburb. A former union official and American Friends Service representative, Smith was chosen by the convention over Mrs. Mary Donovan Hapgood of Indianapolis.

4-to-5000 District Workers Use Railroads to Commute

New York and other Eastern cities reported rising prices of meat and produce because of the transportation embargoes. Washington has "not yet" had meat price rises, according to Sidney Kolker, chairman of the wholesale meat division of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association.

Kolker said it was inevitable, however, that "what's here will bring a bit of premium" if embargoes continue. Freight officials said the stoppage of perishables, while already felt in producing areas, had not hit consumer Washington, yet, but the slowdown may begin to be felt today.

Washington's meat supply, both here and on the way, amounts to enough for a week or 10 days, he estimated.

Fears of "the worst food price gouge in history" due to the embargoes caused Mayor William O'Dwyer of New York to wire President Truman in protest. Declaring the embargo has resulted in wild speculation, he told the President the railroads should be compelled to move foods during the crisis.

West Coast Decline Expected

Unlike the Eastern cities, the West Coast and Florida are expected to see a drop in food prices as embargoes and the possible strike cut off outlets for the truck farms and citrus groves.

The local office of the Railway Express Agency has had some recent increases in shipments, which are handled "subject to delays," a clerk said, but hasn't been greatly affected yet by the embargo.

An Associated Press survey indicated that a lack of coal cars in the event of a strike would close the Nation's coal mines immediately. Coal dependent industries, such as steel, would run out of fuel in a short time.

A spokesman for Potomac Electric Power Co. here said the firm has coal on hand, for generation of electric power, to last about a month and the railroad strike probably would have no immediate drastic affect. However, if the strike should last for several weeks, it would seriously affect the company's operation.

Greyhound and Trailways bus line officials here said they were prepared to use every available coach and to increase working hours if necessary because of a strike. The Air Transport Association said the airlines would provide extra sections likewise, estimating that some 800 extra planes could be pressed into service over the Nation.

British Navy to Hold Maneuvers Off Norway

London, May 9 (AP).—Starting Thursday, the British navy will hold its most extensive exercises since 1939 in the North Sea off Norway.

The Foreign Office said the North Sea was chosen "because it is the logical place" and denied the selection had anything to do with reports of Russian pressure on Scandinavian countries.

Twenty-nine vessels will participate.

Midnight Talks Fail to Avert Rail Strike Set for Tuesday

neers, the Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen, both independent, and the Switchmen's Union, affiliated with the AFL.

Order Already Drafted

Effectiveness of a Government seizure can be determined only if it is carried out. Such an order, directing the Office of Defense Transportation to take over, has been drafted by the Justice Department and the ODT.

Johnston last night was noncommital about continuing to work under Government direction.

"I don't know," he said when asked about it. "That would have to be determined by our (wage) committee."

Attorney General Clark has informed the President he could take over the lines under a 1916 law which applies to interference with necessary services in time of war. Legally the United States is still at war with Germany and Japan.

In 1946 Mr. Truman ordered seizure of the railroads but they were stalled by a two-day strike anyway, which did not end until he asked Congress to draft the strikers into the Army. Johnston's Locomotive Engineers was one of two unions involved in that strike.

Talks Begin at 10 a. m.

Yesterday's negotiations began at 10 a. m., when the carrier representatives met with Steelman for one hour. The union leaders then went to the White House and remained until 1:15 p. m.

At that time the operators came back again and stayed with Steelman until 1:25. Steelman saw the union heads at 1:30 and talked with them until 3 p. m. The operators came back and remained until 4:30, when the union leaders returned once more and came out two hours later at 6:30. The brief session with the operators followed.

A few minutes after their second meeting with Steelman, the union heads issued a formal statement saying they were trying to help and accusing the operators of seeking discord.

"We are trying to help the Government find a basis for settlement of our dispute with the railroads," the statement said. "We recognize that the ultimate settlement must be one which will be fair to the public and at the same time give a proper adjustment of wages and working conditions to the men we represent. . . .

"Inflammatory remarks have been made and irritating statements issued by the carriers since these critical conferences began. If the railroads desire to build a fire of national discord at this time, that is a matter of their own choosing.

Not Adding Coals to Fire

"We will not add coals to their fire for the simple reason that we are seeking a peaceable solution to our differences and will not handicap the representatives of our Government who are assisting in that difficult task . . .

"If it becomes necessary to remove these discussions from the conference room we will place the full facts before the public . . ."

The union presidents did not enlarge upon their parting sally.

Though Steelman held seven meetings throughout the day, he was unable to bring the union and carrier representatives together at the same time. Until such joint meetings could be held it was unlikely any real progress would be made toward a settlement.

Strike instructions already issued by the three unions provide that crews may start with trains up to 5:59 a. m. local time Tuesday. But they may continue with them only to the first terminal where crews ordinarily would be changed.

It was expected many roads would cancel trains which might be halted short of their normal destinations.

do would end segregation in the State.

"With all frankness," he said, "I must tell you that regardless of any recommandation of President Truman, despite any law passed by Congress, and no matter what is said to you by the many associations claiming to represent you, there will continue to be segregation between the races in Mississippi.

"If any of you have become so deluded as to wante to enter our white schools, patronize our hotels and cafes, enjoy social equality with the whites, then true kindness and sympathy requires me to advise you to make your homes in some other State."

The Governors of two other Southern States, Ben Laney of Arkansas and J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, will attend Monday's meeting. Most other Southern States as well as a few border States like Illinois and Indiana are expected to send representatives.

Free Palestine Held Anti-Red Bulwark

A free, Zionist Palestine would be a bulwark against communism, Senator Charles W. Tobey (R., N. H.) asserted last night.

Tobey decried any Arab appeasement in a talk at an open meeting concluding a three-day Emergency Conference to Propose a United States Policy for Palestine and the Middle East."

The past has clearly shown that "certain Arabs are not bought, they are rented," he said.

Tobey, together with Senators Wayne Morse (R., Oreg.) and Dennis Chavez (D., N. Mex.), sponsored the conference at the Carlton Hotel for which "the American League for a free Palestine organized the technical arrangements."

The league supports the Irgun Zvai Leumi, variously called extremists or Irgunists, "the way the Lafayette Escadrille supported the French in World War I, or the Spanish Loyalist were supported here," a member later explained.

Other speakers on the program last night were Representative Gordon L. McDonough (R., Calif.) and Harry Louis Selden, chairman of the league's executive committee.

McDonough likened the Zionist struggle for a free homeland to that of the Irish republicans for an independent Ireland.

Selden urged a Middle Eastern recovery program that would embrace the following points: (1) Peaceful relations among the Middle Eastern states. (2) Economic cooperation in resources and water power, especially in the Jordan River valley, and (3) political and social reforms to permit depressed populations to participate.

Tobey expressed his thanks to Francis Biddle, former United States Attorney General, for his work as chairman of the drafting and resolutions committee, and Dr. Alvin Johnson, president emeritus of the New School for Social Research, who acted as chairman of the conference's working sessions.

Conclusions of the conference will be released the middle of the week, it was announced.

Tobey asserted that "aspersions and accusations" had been leveled against the conference to the effect that its conclusions were supposed to "coincide with the preconceptions of the organization which assisted in the arrangements," and denounced the charges as an "unjustified affront."

Communist Charge "False"

The league, he said, was willing "to place its trust in the free inquiry of untrammeled minds."

Tobey said propaganda had been spread for many years that a free Palestine would be of assistance to communism, and that it was false.

"During 30 years, Zionism has been illegal in Soviet Russia," he said, and "the fact that for considerations of power politics the Soviet Union adopted overnight a pro-Zionist attitude cannot deceive Palestine Jewry, who are politically highly sophisticated."

As for the Arabs, "the common formula for the policy of any Arab country has been always to take sides against the European power whose influence was dominant in that country," Tobey said, adding that during World War II "Rommel's attack from the outside was almost matched by the fifth column attack of Arab Nazis from behind Allied lines."

Britain, France May Pool Air Line Services

London, May 9 (NYHT).—Great Britain and France are discussing plans for pooling their aviation services as part of a general policy of fostering a closer political and economic integration of western Europe, it was confirmed here today.

The Anglo-French discussions have centered thus far on the South American run. Plans appear to be well advanced for pooling such facilities as ticket and booking offices, hotel bookings, scheduling and also bus and water transportation facilties at stopping points.

What the aviation policy makers have in mind is an eventual arrangement such as the Scandinavian countries have achieved. Norway, Sweden and Denmark have merged their European schedules, combined their sales offices and staffs and have pooled their technical facilities while keeping the national identities of their aircraft.

This is the pattern which eventually may be applied to the air lines of all the western European nations.

It was also disclosed that the British are discussing with the Eire government the purchase of five Constellation planes which were to have been used by the proposed Irish transatlantic service.

Polish DP Couple Finds Home On Northern Virginia Farm

The Washington Post

Marian Zielezinski, 35, Marion, jr., 1½, his wife, Irma, 23, and Stanislaw, 7 months

Marian Zielezinski, 35, and his wife, Irma, 23, aren't "displaced" any more—because of a Virginia farmer who talks about such things as "hope" and "humanity."

Paul E. Rhinehart, who lives at Peacock Station, near Vienna, Va., said he decided several months ago that he wanted to make a place for some European homeless.

"We people decided to get ahead of Congress," he explained. "We're really going to build a new world, sure enough . . . we're going to put hope back into humanity."

He contacted the Catholic Charities of Northern Virginia and later the Catholic Committee for Refugees in New York, and arrangements were made. Saturday afternoon the Zielezinski family arrived—their total belongings in two suitcases.

Rhinehart has given them a 5-room house, rent free, a vegetable garden, and the promise of $100 monthly in exchange for the help of Zielezinski and his wife.

"I haven't had a chance to talk to them yet, but later on they can rent or maybe take the whole place over . . . I don't know," Rhinehart mused.

This tall, lean, white-haired Virginian hasn't talked to his new friends mostly because they don't speak a common language.

But a little was learned, chiefly with the aid of J. M. Fasanko of College Park, Md., son-in-law of Rhinehart, who was born in Russia but hasn't spoken the language for more than 30 years.

Fasanko reports that the Zielezinskis met while both were working in a factory in Salzburg. They were married in 1945 and their only home since then has been a bleak room in a DP camp.

The Zielezinskis have come a long way—a long way from their native Poland, which is theirs no longer, from work camps that they knew under Russian bosses and from work camps that they knew under the Germans.

Behind them, too, is another kind of camp—a "displaced persons" camp in Salzburg, Austria, to which they were assigned after "freedom" came.

That's where their two children, Marian, who is 1½, and Stanislaw, who is 7 months old, were born.

But yesterday these camps, if not the memories, were far away.

In their stead was a beautiful 600-acre northern Virginia farm, with rolling land and a spring sun. And their new boss was a 76-year-old "genuine" Virginia farmer, who wishes they could understand when he says:

"This is your home . . . as long as you want it."

Discharges Postponed in Egypt's Army

Cairo, Egypt, May 9 (U.P.).—Official sources said tonight the cabinet had postponed all regular discharges from the army and appropriated 16 million dollars to finance fighting in Palestine.

National Defense Minister Mohamed Neider Pasha said the 16 million dollars was "only a first installment."

He said Premier Mahmoud Fahmy Nokrashi Pasha had agreed to arrange for other preparations for a war in Palestine in the future.

Today's appropriation will be used officially "to face the expenditure necessitated by the stationing of Egyptian forces on the Palestine border," informants said.

Unofficial sources said the Arab League was considering a recommendation that its member states break diplomatic relations with any country which recognizes a Jewish state in Palestine.

Spain Sends Delegates To Congress of Europe

Madrid, Spain, May 9 (AP).—A semi-official delegation is en route to the Hague to speak for Spain at the Congress of Europe, the first international conference at which the government of Generalissimo Francisco Franco has ever been represented.

The four-man delegation left yesterday after waiting for two days while Franco's government argued whether to send them.

The Spanish republican government-in-exile is also represented at the congress.

Lie Warns Blocs Cannot Prevent War

Prague, Czechslovakia, May 9 (U.P.).—Trygve Lie, secretary-general of the United Nations said today regional blocs can not prevent another war.

Lie, in a special article written for the Communist newspaper Rude Pravo, said the U. N. is the sole hope for holding the world together.

Lie said there is a tendency in the world today to blame the U. N. for current war fears.

"Our present difficulties do not spring from the United Nations Charter, nor from its instruments. The blame for our present difficulties must be laid where it belongs."

Lie did not state where the fault lay.

Czechs Adopt Soviet Type Constitution

Prague, May 9 (U.P.).—Parliament adopted today a new constitution which Communist speakers said will pattern Czechoslovakia after Russia.

"Without the Soviet Union," Communist Premier Klement Gottwald said, "this new constitution would not have been possible."

The deputies voted 246 to 0 for adoption. Fifty-four deputies were absent. More than a score have fled the country, dozens more are in jail, and three are now awaiting trial on charges of conspiring against the republic.

Communist Deputy Vladimir Pchazka said "we . . . wish finally to achieve that greatest social order, that which exists in the land of our great ally, the Soviet Union."

In three weeks Czechs will vote on a "single list" of parliamentary deputies, drawn up by Communist action committees. There will be no opposition candidates.

Seventy per cent of the new Parliament will be Communist. Deputies will be elected for six-year terms.

The new "model" constitution is so modern that it even mentions television, which is nationalized in Czechslovakia.

It guarantees freedom of speech, press and assembly, but as in the old constitution, "except where the law declares otherwise."

In London Czechslovakia accused the British of violating the Anglo-Czechoslovak cultural pact.

A news bulletin of the Czechoslovak embassy quoted the Czechoslovak writers union that the British Foreign Office has created "an impenetrable iron curtain" between the two countries.

Greeks Battle 1000 Guerillas In Macedonia

Athens, May 9 (AP).—Greek army troops engaged Communist-led guerillas today in heavy fighting in western Macedonia, a general staff communique said.

Supported by planes and artillery, the Greek Second Division was reported moving westward along a 30-mile semicircular front extending from north of Neapolis to south of Grevena. The northern end of the line was only 25 miles from the Albanian border.

The guerillas pounded Grevena last night with 150 mortar and artillery shells, killing five persons and wounding three others, the communique said. Grevena is 40 miles northeast of Ioannina.

Guerilla Chieftain Markos Vafiadies is estimated to have more than 1000 men, including some of his best units, in the battle area.

Briton Seen U. N.'s 'Mayor'

Lake Success, N. Y., May 9 (U.P.).—United Nations circles reported today that a British bank manager is likely to become the U. N.'s "emergency mayor" for Jerusalem.

The Briton is A. P. S. Clark, manager of the Jerusalem branch of Barclays Bank and a resident of Palestine for more than 30 years.

Arabs and Jews reportedly have agreed on Clark as the most satisfactory of several men being considered secretly here and in Jerusalem for appointment to the job of trying to run Jerusalem after Britain ends her mandate next Saturday.

The General Assembly agreed last week the "emergency mayor" should be appointed to provide U. N. authority in the Holy City when British rule ends.

Finn Moe of Norway said he would be ready tomorrow with a working paper embodying Britain's plan for the policeless "neutral authority" in all Palestine.

Pope Seeks to Save Holy Land Cities

Rome, May 9.—Pope Pius XII will send a personal representative to Palestine tomorrow in an effort to save Bethlehem and Jerusalem from destruction in the fighting between Jews and Arabs.

The Pope's representative, Archbishop Gustav Testa, will take up permanent residence in Jerusalem. He will "second" all international efforts to spare the ancient cities in which Christ was born and died, Vatican sources said tonight.

It will be the first time the Vatican has had a permanent representative in Jerusalem.

Archbishop Testa will have the high rank of apostolic delegate, the same as that borne by the Vatican's representative in Washington, Archbishop Amleto Giovanni Cicognani.

A United Press dispatch from Tel Aviv said that neither the Jewish leaders there nor the Arab leaders in Jaffa took Jerusalem truce negotiations very seriously. Both sides called British conditions for a truce unacceptable, the dispatch said. The feeling seemed to be the present temporary ceasefire might be broken at any moment.

A United States Navy detachment arrived today to set up emergency radio communication facilities at the American consulate general. Lieut. Herbert L. Robertson, USN, arrived with 12 men and 9000 pounds of equipment.

[The Associated Press said the Jews went ahead with their plans for proclaiming a separate Hebrew state May 16—the day after the British end the mandate. They opened an internal postal service today. At all postoffices in the Jewish quarter of Jerusalem stamps went on sale bearing a map of Palestine with the boundaries outlined in the November 29 decision of the United Nations to partition the Holy Land.

nopolies or the interests of militarized diplomacy," Talensky declared.

Now at Highest Stage

The Pravda writer said Soviet military science, by developing "harmonic unity in the theory and practice of the three branches of the military art—strategy, tactics and operation"—has reached "the new and highest stage of its development."

"The capitalist states are severely handicapped because they are incapable of totally utilizing their economies for war, and because they cannot count on the full support of their populations," Talensky added.

The Soviet army newspaper Red Star quoted Maj. Gen. Alexander Kotikov, Soviet commandant of Berlin, as saying his occupation troops are ready at every moment to "fulfill their sacred duty as soldiers."

Izvestia declared Russia is making rapid progress toward recovery from the war, despite western hopes that the nation had been exhausted by the conflict.

Austrian Oil Fields Seen Facing Ruination

Vienna, May 9 (NYHT.)—The Zisterdorf oil fields in eastern Austria will be ruined within two years if the Soviet occupation authorities continue the policy of exploitation and the large-scale removals of equipment followed by them since the war. Quiet Marks Heavy Voting In Panama

Panama City, May 9 (NYHT).—Panamanians turned out in record numbers today to vote in a national election, and government and police officials announced the balloting was conducted peacefully throughout the country.

As the polls closed at 5 p. m., it was believed the contest for President had narrowed to Domingo Diaz Arosemena, candidate of the United Liberal Party, and Dr. Arnulfo Arias, candidate of the Authentic Revolutionary Party. They were thought to be taking votes from the third major candidate, Jose Isaac Fabrega, on the basis of publicly announced defections from his National Revolutionary Party.

Dr. Arias said the question of American military bases in Panama "will be resolved as soon as possible," if he is elected. He was certain he would be.

"We will face our responsibility and not shirk it in the face of such a war as is coming," the Harvard-educated physician said.

Since the Panamanian Assembly rejected a proposed treaty last December, each country has wanted the other to make the first move toward starting new negotiations. On this point, Dr. Arias said, "if there is any delay, I'll start the conversations myself. It is to the benefit of my country and my people to work toward an early agreement."

The thrill show will be staged June 18 in Griffith Stadium for the benefit of the Masonic and Eastern Star Home, 6000 New Hampshire ave. ne.

28 of Bridge Pairs Qualify

At the half-way mark, 28 pairs qualified out of a field of 58 in the open pair championship of the City of Washington Bridge Tournament played at the Hotel Roosevelt.

Going into the finals with the highest carry-over score were William McDermott and I. Rottenberg, of Arlington.

Next ranking partnership was Mrs. J. R. Belt and Mrs. Margaret Fisher with 199 points. The third ranking pair is Arthur Westrich and H. R. King, with 185½. The fourth pair is J. M. White, of Washington and J. D. Boyd, of Arlington, with 172½ points.

Notable for Upsets

The game was notable for upsets. Some of the ranking players failing to survive.

Baltimoreans took the lion's share of national awards in the tourney's mixed pair event. The winner were Mrs. H. E. Whitaker and Edward Pierson, who maintained the lead established in the opening session, their total score was 264½ match points. Miss Margaret Hamilton and Charles Shapiro, also of Baltimore, ranked second with 259.

The best Washington showing was third place for Mrs. Frederick Eberson and Charles C. Johnson, 250 points. Johnson was chairman of the tournament committee which put on a good show, entertaining visiting players at a reception Saturday, the last session.

Others Sharing in Awards

Other local players sharing in the awardsthe awards were Mr. and Mrs. George Kathan, fourth with 248 points; Mrs. Edna Evans and W. S. Benedict, fifth, 246½; and two sectionleaders in the finals, Mrs. P. E. Henninger and James Lazerd, and Mrs. William Plum and D. G. S. Spellman. Defending champions, Mrs. Marianne Boschan and Miller Roberts, finished sixth.

Paul E. Golden, director for the Washington Bridge League, gave a convincing demonstration of efficiency by running both events unassisted.

is necessary to elect a President on the first or second ballot. This would be 586 votes of the total of 879.

The Christian Democrats hold 455 seats in both houses and the rightwing Socialists have 56, for a total of 511. A simple majority is enough to elect a President on the third ballot.

Police reported raiders fired on the Beano arsenal near Udine in three separate attacks, but were repulsed each time by guards. No casualties were reported. It was the seventeenth assault on Italian arsenals and ammunition dumps in northern and central Italy in the last month.

Big Four Deputies Meet On Italian Colonies

London, May 9 (U.P.).—The Big Four deputies will meet here Tuesday for what probably will be the final attempt to decide the future of Italian colonies.

The Italian peace treaty provides that if no agreement has been reached by September 15, 1948—one year after treaty ratification—the whole question shall be referred to the United Nations General Assembly.

The Western delegates are pessimistic.

The American, British, French and Russian deputies ended their last series of metings March 22 in a three-to-one deadlock over where and how to hear the views of other interested governments.

The same question will top the agenda at Tuesday's meeting.

Union Rejected As Bargainer for Factory Guards

By the United Press

The National Labor Relations Board said yesterday that the Taft-Hartley Act prevents it from recognizing AFL "Federal" labor unions as bargaining agents for factory guards.

It rejected the request of the Industrial Guards Federal Labor Union (AFL) to be certified as the agent for guards and the "Old Quaker" division of Schenley Distilleries, Inc. "Old Quaker" plants are at Lawrenceburg, Greendale and Aurora, Ind.

The board said the act specifically bars any labor union from being certified to represent factory guards if it is "affiliated directly or indirectly" with an organization permitting employes other than guards as members. It said the Industrial Guards Union, because of its affiliation with the AFL, is consequently barred from certification.

plans for opening of crime forums next fall.

Called for Next Monday

The special grand jury which Fay has called will be impaneled one week from today.

Thus, authorities have only this week in which to map a master plan before an anticipated scores of witnesses go before the jury. Among the jobs still incomplete is Corporation Counsel Vernon West's study to determine whether District income tax returns can be subpenaed for the probe. Authority exists under which Federal income tax returns are supplied on request from the Attorney General or United States attorney.

Ironically, District income tax returns have listed income from "games of chance" as well as deductions for expenses incurred through such income. And "it's all perfectly legal as far as we are concerned," says Allan F. Brooke, head of the income tax section.

Also still hanging fire and still up to the police department is the supplying of addresses on the 138 gamblers listed by police for Fay. The list contained only names.

Rep. Buffett Demands War Policy Statement

Representative Buffett (R., Neb.) yesterday demanded that the Administration say whether United States Foreign Policy calls for this country to go to war "for any reason outside of a direct attack on America."

He said in a speech prepared for House delivery today that Congress and the public "must be fully informed now of the exact commitments and views of "the executive branch."

Royall Urges Strong United States Army

Chicago, May 9 (AP).—Secretary of the Army Kenneth C. Royall said today that if war comes, America must have not the biggest—but the best Army in the world.

Royall

Royall, in a speech prepared for the Jewish Welfare Board, said:

"America does not need the biggest Army in the world. And in the event of a future war, it cannot expect to have the biggest Army in the world.

"... Yet, in the last analysis, the quality of the American Army is the most important factor. We must have—and we must continue to have—the best Army in the world."

By best, Royall said, he does not mean an army of aggression.

He said rather, the United States must be able to discourage any aggressor by its ability to resist successfully any attack. And even if such an attack should be made, he added, that best army must be able to "direct the scene of the battle back toward the attacking nation, and to defeat such nation on its own soil."

If the Army should not be equal to its task, Royall declared, "our war sacrifices might well prove to have been in vain—and our civilization and that of the world may well be endangered."

House May Hand President Task of Starting New Draft

By The Associated Press

Some support is building up in the House for handing President Truman the responsibility for actually starting the new draft program.

A Republican leader, who did not want his name used, told reporters yesterday there is a good chance the House will vote to make the draft effective only when the President proclaims it necessary.

"A lot of people are not sure there is a crisis yet that requires drafting men into the armed services," he said. "There is strong support outside the Armed Services Committee for getting the draft organization set up on just a stand-by basis."

Three-Way Split Seen

The committee has approved a bill to draft for two years men 19 through 25 years old. Drafting could begin 90 days after the bill became law.

Th GOP leader said there may be a fight to limit the draft to one year. As he sees it, the House is split three ways on the draft:

Against any legislation; give the Army and Navy anything they want; on the fence.

The House and Senate may stage simultaneous floor fights this week over military manpower.

The Senate Armed Services Committee meets today. Chairman Gurney says it will approve then a bill with draft provisions much like those of the House measure, plus a universal military training plan.

Proposed Training Program

The training program would require a year's instruction with regular military forces for 18-year-olds. Then the youths would go into the active reserves.

GOP leaders predict failure for any attempt on the House floor to cram a training plan into the draft bill. They are unwilling to forecast what will happen when Senate and House try to work out a compromise on military manpower.

Unified Press Setup Sought By Forrestal

By the United Press

Defense Secretary Forrestal has a program under way to get the Army, Navy and Air Force to talk the same language and tell the same story, his aides disclosed yesterday.

The program to unify the public relations activities of the three branches is expected to help soft pedal the interservice bickering that has aroused widespread criticism.

Forrestal is now having the heads of the Army, Navy and Air Force public information staffs meet with him or his public relations aide, Capt. Robert Berry, each Friday. These men air their gripes and iron out their differences, and attempt to agree on the stories they will tell the public, according to Berry.

Their newest project is to create a single press room for the three services in the Pentagon, where all press releases would be given out. They also are working on the possibility of combining Army, Navy and Air Force publicity staffs throughout the country wherever possible.

Schools to train public relations officers of the three forces will be combined into one August 4. It wil be known as the Armed Forces Information School and will take over facilities of the Army's Information School at Carlisle Barracks, Pa. An Air Force information school at Craig Air Force Base, Ala., will be closed.

To Address Rotarians

Representative Samuel K. McConnell (R., Pa.) will discuss the Taft-Hartley Act at the meeting of the Rotary Club Wednesday at 12:15 in the Mayflower Hotel.

Carpenters Union Scores Sen. Ball

New York, May 9 (U.P.).—Charles W. Hanson, president of the New York State Council of Carpenters (AFL), today charged Senator Ball (R., Minn.) with attempting to "unleash a new antiunion wave."

The union leaders said in a telegram to Ball that new labor legislation which the Senator announced would be taken under study soon is "unnecessary and provocative." He was referring to Ball's announcement that the Joint Labor Management Relations Committee would start hearings intended to broaden the scope of the Taft-Hartley Act.

Muddying The Water

Commissioner John Russell Young would have us believe that his sudden interest in the problems of enforcing the law against gambling in the District is an inspiration springing out of his solicitude for the public interest. It is a pity that a few obstinate facts cloud the impression he is trying to get over to the public. Those facts are: Attorney General Clark last week initiated a request for a grand jury investigation of gambling in the District. United States Attorney Fay made it plain to Police Superintendent Barrett that he did not wish to accept the latter's offer of police investigators. He wished to leave the grand jury itself free to call upon any law-enforcing and crime-detecting agencies for assistance in order to reassure the grand jury and maintain public confidence in the inquiry. The obvious implication is that the investigation must reach into the Police Department and that it would be unsatisfactory to have the police investigating themselves. Then came the report from Mr. Fay's office that the police had supplied him with the names and addresses of 138 "bigger gamblers" of Washington who are presumably still operating here.

In the face of this situation Commissioner Young assigned Assistant Corporation Counsel Daniel B. Maher to the task of studying the legal problems faced by the police in making gambling arrests and getting convictions. And he pretended to reporters that the appointment had absolutely nothing to do with the forthcoming grand jury investigation.

At any previous time in his long tenure of office Commissioner Young might have won applause by naming a special representative to see why the gambling laws are not being effectively enforced. But when he acts in the present circumstances his move can be interpreted only as an attempt to muddy the water or to counteract what the grand jury may be expected to do. It has the effect of throwing the influence of the Board of Commissioners against the inquiry and will thus encourage perpetuation of what Mr. Fay has described as a 100-million-a-year gambling racket in the Nation's Capital.

We think the obvious reply to Mr. Young is to press the investigation with greater vigor. Since the Commissioner in charge of the police is taking a hostile attitude, the logical step would be to bring in FBI investigators to serve the grand jury. If the grand jury should make such a request, we do not see how it could be rejected. Certainly the Attorney General, having initiated the inquiry, will not wish to see it fizzle for want of impartial investigators who can probe to the bottom of the disgraceful situation that the United States Attorney has described.

AEC Goes On Ice

It has long been evident that the task assigned to the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission was a hopeless one in the present international situation. For two years its democratic members have worked energetically to bring about genuine international control of atomic power, including weapons. At every turn they have encountered a blank wall of opposition from the Soviet Union. "As a result the commission has been forced to recognize," says its report of last week, "that agreement on effective measures for the control of atomic energy is itself dependent on cooperation in broader fields of policy."

We do not see how anyone can take exception to this conclusion. The United Nations' AEC has not failed because of the complicated nature or the novelty of its task; rather it has failed to date because the Russians have made a rigid practice of not agreeing to any major world policy sponsored by the democratic powers. So long as this attitude continues, the impossibility of making any progress toward world control of the atom must be conceded. Suspension of any further AEC meetings for the present, as proposed by the United States and six other members of the 11-man commission, will thus save everyone concerned from further needless wear and tear on nerves.

At the same time we hope that the commission will not be disbanded. Secretary Marshall described the United States' foreign policy before the House Foreign Affairs Committee the other day as if it were a holding operation designed to permit the world to recover its equilibrium and thus restore conditions in which the United Nations can successfully operate. It is no time for destruction of international machinery that may prove useful in the future. We think the Secretary's argument against undermining the U. N. as a whole, in an impatient effort to create another world organization with a more positive mandate to keep the peace, applies with equal force to the Atomic Energy Commission. It cannot now function successfully. But powerful forces are at work, including the European recovery program and the correction of disparities in military strength, that should make the world a more healthful climate for the negotiation of agreements as to control of atomic energy and other essentials of peace.

Reason Vs. Force

Last-minute attempts to effect a settlement of the railway wage dispute appear doomed to failure. In that event, the only alternative means of preventing a complete tieup of rail communications lies in Government seizure of the roads under a wartime act that was never intended to be invoked as a strike-breaking weapon. In the absence of legislative action specifically authorizing seizure of the roads and penalization of unions and union officials who defy Government orders to call off the strike, this almost forgotten relic of pre-World War I days is all that stands between the country and economic chaos.

Seizure alone, moreover, affords no guarantee that the strike will be called off; it may be necessary to resort to temporary injunctions against striking, while the courts decide whether a strike occurring while the Government is in possession of the roads is outlawed and the instigators subject to penalties for striking against the Government. The need for specific legislative authorization of seizure of facilities whose operation in time of war or peace is essential to the national health and safety is, we conclude, no longer debatable. Equally clear should be the right of the Government to end a strike in these circumstances.

Less than 10 per cent of the 1,350,000 employes of the railroads are involved in the current wage dispute. They are able and willing to use the enormous power they possess to enforce wage and hour demands that have been rejected only after months of negotiation and exhaustive investigation to determine the reasonableness of their claims. It is an intolerable situation and the time has come to face squarely the question of what is to be done to curb the power of those strategically placed union groups that recognize no law except that of self-interest.

The optimistic assumption that the force of an outraged public opinion affords sufficient protection against exploitation by minorities has repeatedly been shown to be unfounded. Public opinion had to be backed by restrictive and punitive laws in order to curb the excesses of industrial monopolies; and the fight to protect our industrial society based on the principle of free competition against monopolistic encroachment is still going on. Experience in that field of regulation has, however, resulted in the correction of abuses and has brought about a quickened public awareness of the necessity of curbing the power of industrial management to profit at public expense.

The country is confronted by a similar menace to the national interest from power-mad labor organizations. A free industrial society cannot survive for long if irresponsible labor groups are permitted to prostrate industry and bring suffering and losses to millions of Americans by force. However, Government intervention, necessary though it is, to prevent or end strikes that threaten national health and safety is essentially an emergency device. The oftener such emergency powers are invoked, the more evident it becomes that we are heading away from free enterprise toward reliance upon legislative coercion to solve our industrial and social problems.

Organized groups, whether they represent labor or capital, must learn to use the power they possess with restraint and with due regard for the public welfare. Otherwise the system of collective bargaining on which we rely for settlement of wage disputes will break down irrevocably over large areas; the Government will then have to resort to coercion with increasing frequency and the end result will be substitution of governmental wage-fixing systems for agreements brought about through peaceful private negotiation.

Palestine: A New Approach

Speculation on what is meant by the presidential reappointment of General Hilldring as Special Assistant Secretary of State in charge of Palestine affairs is world-wide. What's cooking now? would be the American idiom of the speculation. General Hilldring is a partitionist. He is a man without a trace of the military psychology which hampers the judgment of military men in dealing with the business of our public affairs. Ideally he should be appointed Ambassador-at-Large to the Middle East, where the United States is represented around Palestine by men of little minds, men steeped in either oil or their Arab-British environment.

Since the American backdown on Palestine in February the United States has gone from expedient to expedient. And it has always been too late. Such is the tempo of events that the Administration remains constantly behind the eight ball. History has been written not at Lake Success but in Palestine, and an entirely new situation has been created. The Jews have made a demonstration of their independence familiar enough in our own history. Palestine has been partitioned by Jewish arms and Jewish determination. In the struggle they have punctured the balloon of Arab power which was sedulously circulated by the anti-partition members of the State Department and the Foreign Service after the U. N. (led by the United States) declaration of partition policy, November 29.

These officials used to tell all and sundry that partition was criminal because the Jews were courting extermination, and would let in the Russians to save themselves. Now they are saying that the Arabs are in the same danger.

When they were not talking a crocodile humanitarianism, they were talking a phony strategy. The United States, they said, must protect Middle Eastern oil, particularly the contemplated pipeline from the Persian Gulf to the Mediterranean. Yet the pipeline has now been abandoned as plain silly; a couple of recalcitrant Arabs, a couple of recalcitrant Jews, could spike a pipeline. Tankers, it is now recognized, are the better, the more strategic, the more economical way of getting oil out of the Middle East. This is what the layman had been saying—before the diplomat, the oil man, and the general came to the same conclusion. But the oil argument had done its work in paralyzing American policy on Palestine.

The low estate to which American foreign policy has been dragged by all these maneuvers is pretty shocking. Equally disturbing is that our backing and filling has injured the United Nations. What is happening at Lake Success is a reminder of the Ethiopian dispute of 1936. That dispute killed the League of Nations. Palestine is strangling the United Nations. In Lake Success, talk; in Palestine, action. Every American has a vested interest in the United Nations. He must raise his voice against the State Department for degrading it.

Wisdom is said to be attention to realities, and the time has long since passed when we ought to catch up with realities.

We suggest that instead of lagging behind history, we get in front of it. That is to say, we should make history, as our world power requires. Events have shown that the situation is Middle Eastern, not Palestinian. The Arab League, which any hour was supposed to be blowing the trumpet of a holy war, is advertised as made of gingerbread. It is our guess that this revelation has had wide repercussions throughout the Middle East. Turkey, for instance, must be full of qualms. That country is weakened in its war of nerves with Russia by the military demonstration of this Arab no-man's land in the Middle East and must be wondering whether Russia will take advantage of it.

Another result is the bankruptcy of the Glubb-Clayton diplomacy. Glubb [Pasha] is the Briton who is King Abdullah's adviser. Without him Abdullah is helpless, and would not think of any invasion of Palestine. Brigadier Clayton is Britain's adviser on Arab affairs in Cairo. The Arab League is virtually Glubb and Clayton, dreamers of and 24-hour workers for a Pan Arabia under the British thumb. They have been trying to shake the tail of the outmoded empire that Wendell Willkie excoriated in One World. Their heads are in the nineteenth century. Glubb is the more forceful of the two. Like Cato, he decreed that the French were to be driven out of the Middle East, and he clearly wants to drive out the Zionists. Events have upset his grandiose scheme, and have exposed the impossibility of establishing a Pan Arabia on the Glubb-Clayton model.

How different these men from the Lawrences and Wingates who used to deal with Arab affairs! They worked for harmony instead of discord, construction instead of destruction. "I am decidedly in favor of Zionism," wrote T. E. Lawrence. "Indeed, I look on the Jews as the natural importers of that western leaven which is so necessary for the countries of the Near East . . . The success of their scheme will involve inevitably the raising of the present Arab population to their own material level, only a little after themselves in point of time, and the consequences might be of the highest importance for the future of the Arab world."

One of these days the Glubb-Clayton machinations will be obvious to the British people. The British will find, we think, that the duo have been operating without check from London. For it is our conviction that the Colonial Office in London has lost control. We have it on unimpeachable authority that the day before British reinforcements were returned to the Middle East, Colonial Secretary Creech-Jones was insisting at Lake Success that the withdrawal from Palestine would proceed as scheduled. Creech-Jones, a former partitionist, is an honest man. The inference is that he did not know what was going on.

The time has come to initiate a Middle East diplomacy of our own. We must stop being the tail of the Glubb-Clayton kite. Let us find a contact with the Arab League other than through this medium, preferably, as we say, by appointing an ambassador-at-large. The object should be to lay the foundation of a Mediterranean confederation, including Turkey and Iran. After all, this country precipitated European federation. Why cannot the idea be explored, beginning with the Arab League, of a Mediterranean union? There is hope of some imaginative approach in the appointment of General Hilldring. He has never faltered, as the Administration has, and he has the only equipment, in our knowledge, among the President's Middle East advisers that is capable of statesmanship.

THE CLIFFS OF ENGLAND

They guard the cliffs of England
With dark eternal swords:
The Saxon kings, the Druids,
The high-nosed Norman lords.
The men who once were England,
Who long are in their graves—
They march tonight, all starlit

There see mighty Arthur
Among his noble men:
Alfred and Coeur-de-Lion
Come back to fight again.
The changing clouds reveal
St. George, returned to England,
Starlit in his steel.

"Inconstant Consistency"

In your May 2 editorial on British foreign policy entitled "Inconstant Consistency," you convey the impression that only in the period between 1930 and 1939 has Great Britain failed to follow its traditional policy. Why not mention the period between 1801 and 1803? The pusillanimous conduct of the Addington government during the Peace of Amiens should ever stand as an example of what not to do.

This peace began well enough. Great Britain and France badly needed a breather after eight years of war. Soon, however, trouble developed. France under the untiring Bonaparte used the peace to strengthen its position in Europe; and it displayed unmistakable signs of imperial ambitions in Louisiana and Egypt. The British viewed these developments with dismay. But the inept ministry knew nothing better to do than to cling to the island of Malta—in violation of the Treaty of Amiens.

Finally Bonaparte at a Tuileries reception violently upbraided Lord Whitworth, the British Ambassador. He demanded Malta or war. Not for two months did he get the latter. And how did the British envoy employ those two months in the spring of 1803? By trying to bribe Bonaparte's entourage with a view to retaining Malta. The Foreign Secretary gave him permission to distribute 100,000 pounds for this purpose. Whitworth thought it would be economy to spend a million or two, considering the cost of a single month of war. He was willing, it seems, to pay any price for peace. The balance of power principle was in abeyance.

Bonaparte, of course, improved the shining hour by selling Louisiana to the United States and recalling the Decaen expedition to India. After war was resumed the British backbone regained its customary stiffness. In the end Great Britain prevailed over France. But, as the late Prof. J. Holland Rose properly pointed out, the eventual victory should not permit us to overlook the harm caused by Addington's sorry policy. Apparently the British cabinet did overlook it in the 1930s. Resisting Communism

The success of the forces working for democracy in the Italian election can be attributed largely to President Truman's Administration. Secretary Marshall's move to return Trieste to Italy (the great majority of the inhabitants of Trieste are Italians anyway) and the request made by our representatives in the United Nations to admit Italy to the United Nations made friends for us among the Italians. When Russia opposed these moves, her political agents, the Communists, lost ground correspondingly in Italian public opinion.

Diplomatic opposition to Russian aggression is not enough, however, to stop the advance of communism, and President Truman and his advisers are aware of this fact. We have to make our own country more genuinely democratic. A true democracy need not fear communism. Communist propaganda can make headway among us chiefly because racial discrimination and serious economic inequality and insecurity combine to make our democracy far more imperfect than it should be.

President Truman, through his urgent speech to Congress to adopt the recommendations contained in the report of the President's Committee on Civil Rights, has been trying to remedy the racial discrimination which mars the American ideal of true equality of opportunity for all. He is also trying to get from Congress the legal power needed to prevent runaway inflation, and thus is trying to reduce economic inequality and insecurity. The Republican majority in Congress is responsible for the failure to strengthen our democracy and our economy in the ways that are necessary to immunize us against Communist propaganda successfully.

Deaths In Action

I wish to refer you to the item in The Washington Post of May 4 which relates that Lieutenant Lehman, 30, a paratrooper, died in France in 1944.

It seems to me that if Lieutenant Lehman was killed in action, your reporting, in this instance, only serves to stimulate and encourage the kind of forgetfulness which leads to the present coddling of Nazis and more war.

In February, 1945, the United States informed my mother that my brother had been shot down in flames in his fighter plane and had been "killed in action"—not that he had merely mysteriously died. Fortunately for my brother he was destined to be killed for his country on the field of battle and not in a German POW camp by starvation or some inhuman "scientific experiment." It is my hope that when he is reinterred, the newspapers will accurately remind his fellow citizens that he was "killed in action" by Nazi antiaircraft fire.

This might make it a bit more difficult for our Government to forget how and why Lieutenant Lehman perhaps and my brother were forced to leave this life before their time; and then maybe Mr. Truman's conscience would deter him from calling a halt to all trials against the known Nazis in Germany. Dubious Heroism

I was rather shocked to note in The Washington Post on May 4 the headline description of British Capt. Roy Farran as a "hero."

Captain Farran has the dubious distinction of having been personally responsible for the torture and death of the 16-year-old Palestinian Jew, Alexander Rubinowitz, last year. The captain was definitely identified by eye witnesses as the boy's abductor, and his hat was discovered near the scene of the crime. Only upon the insistent demand of the community was he brought to trial, and his full confession, in the form of a complete account of the deed in his diary, was refused by the court as evidence. He was acquitted, and subsequently returned to England and promoted.

When Germany called its Goerings and Goebbels "heroes," an outraged America cried out that they were criminals against humanity. Is torture and murder any less a crime when it is committed in the name of His Majesty's government?

Streptomycin For All

This present drive to find all cases of tuberculosis is a wonderful thing for all, but its purpose will be defeated if all the found cases are not assisted to regain their health.

We do not have the facilities for all cases to have hospital care, but I am sure there are many cases that can be cured at home with the aid of streptomycin. Why should not funds be appropriated to the District for streptomycin so it may be within the reach of all who can be benefited by this wonder drug? This would be a cheap investment in the good health of our citizens.

Enlistment Bonus

I was surprised, yes, even shocked to read about the amounts of cash suggested as an award to men if they enlisted in the armed services. I hope this measure will never go through. When the men of America have to be attracted by money to serve their country, it's a sad state of affairs, indeed. Wait till Stalin's propaganda boys get going on that one. "American men bribed to enter service." "Set price on freedom."

I shipped over in the Marine Corps because I believe in the weight a strong America will have in enforcing the peace that will mean that my children will never have to see a war.

When the Marine Corps was born, men were given money to join up, but that was in the days when America was suffering growing pains and only the far-visioned men readily volunteered. We have developed that into a proud heritage and we have not lost our far vision.

We could use a pay raise, though. Some of us have a tough time making ends meet. Just don't give the money away that could do so much good if in the form of a general pay raise to the services.

Crippled Child Care

At a press conference on May 4, Mr. James C. Dulin, jr., vice president of the District of Columbia Society for Crippled Children, Inc., was asked if it were not true that the services for crippled children had been interrupted by the recent controversies to the point the children were being deprived of necessary treatment. Mr. Dulin has asked me to answer this question by describing the nature and extent of the services which have been, and are still being, given to the children at the society headquarters.

The clinic for cerebral palsied children conducted by Dr. Winthrop M. Phelps, a nationally recognized specialist, has continued uninterrupted for five years. Psychological testing, research and counseling of parents has likewise continued uninterrupted for the past 3½ years. The nursery school and kindergarten have been in session without one day's loss of time because of change in personnel.

One hundred thirty treatments have been given in our speech division by a speech pathologist and five volunteer students of speech from George Washington University during the past three months. This group of therapists started treatment within several days of the cessation of services by the former speech therapist.

Since the physical therapy service was a recent development within the society and considerable time was necessarily spent in obtaining proper equipment for the department, physical therapy treatments did not really get under way before the first of this year and only eight children were receiving treatments during January and February. At the departure of the physical therapist the parents of five of these children were contacted and advised to apply for services at the treatment center at Children's Hospital pending the reinstatement of services at our center. The parents of two of the remaining three children have been receiving instruction in training by the physiotherapist at Dr. Phelps' center in Baltimore. The parent of the other child over a period of several years has been trained to give the necessary exercises, and will return this youngster to our center when services are resumed.

The personnel committee of the society has been asked to review applications which have been submitted by physiotherapists. On the appointment of a qualified person, this service will be available to all patients referred by a physician.

AEC End Quest For Controls

By Ernest K. Lindley

What Next?

AFTER MORE than 22 months of work, a majority of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission have reluctantly concluded that the quest for effective world-wide controls of atomic energy might as well be suspended. The immovable obstacle is the Soviet Union.

If the Soviet Union would agree, there is little doubt that an effective system of international control could be worked out and put into operation. Month after month of study has confirmed the basic soundness of the plan presented to the commission by Bernard M. Baruch, which was based on the Acheson-Lilienthal report of the spring of 1946. Month after month of study has shown that nothing less offers reasonable protection for all peoples against surprise assaults with atomic weapons and so would permit the turning of research and development in atomic energy into peaceful channels.

Under this plan, atomic energy throughout the world would be placed in trust under an international authority, which would manage or control all stages of its production and use. That this would be an infringement on national sovereignties was fully understood by the United States Government. That it would result in putting at the disposal of all the people of the world our technical knowledge and facilities was understood.

No more generous offer has ever been made by a great nation. It was made, however, not out of generosity but as an act of statemanship, for the purpose of relieving the dangers which all people must fear from a race in atomic armaments. It was made also in the realization that while we might be able to maintain superiority in atomic weapons, we could not long maintain a monopoly, and that when our monopoly ended we would become exposed to the terrible possibility of a staggering surprise assault with atomic weapons.

The main outline of the American plan commended itself to all the members of the U. N. Atomic Energy Commission except the Soviet Union and its satellites. Elaborate technical studies have buttressed and elaborated it. The commission was instructed to proceed with the drafting of a treaty. But it has been stymied by the Soviet Union. It can go no further unless the Soviet Union accepts the main structure of the plan which the non-Soviet nations approve and have satisfied themselves is indispensable if the fear of sudden atomic death is to be lifted from the world.

Whether the non-Soviet world can now afford to wash its hands of the whole business is gravely doubtful, however. Inaction, lack of effective control, are what the Kremlin obviously wants.

The first Soviet objective was to achieve the atomic disarmament of the United States without the substitution of any air-tight system of international control. The Soviet Union could then arm secretly with atomic weapons and perhaps arrive at a point some years hence where it could conquer or force its will on the entire world.

The next most favorable situation from the viewpoint of the Soviet Union is one in which, even though the United States retains atomic weapons, the Soviet Union can build them without outside interference until it has enough either to launch a devastating surprise attack or to retaliate effectively if we should resort to the use of atomic weapons.

The non-Soviet world obviously would take immense risks in letting such a situation develop. The proposed international atomic treaty would recognize a serious violation, such as the attempt to divert atomic energy secretly into armaments, as an international crime calling for the instant use of force by other nations to prevent aggression. Should not the refusal to accept a system of international control of atomic energy agreed to by a great majority of the nations of the world be considered as evidence of an intent to commit aggression? This question deserves the earnest consideration of the governments and peoples of the non-Soviet world.

Freedom From Want

It is sadly evident that freedom from want has never been a reality anywhere in the world, not even in the United States, because as a result of avarice and greed, uncontrolled individualism has made quite clear that it does not intend to provide an equitable socio-economic way of life. Two world wars have not altered selfish individualism that holds more than half of the world's population in poverty and ignorance.

Where the true economic state begins, there ends avarice and greed in the economic system. Democracy in a planned economy is an honorable system wherein the sovereign power is the will of the people, as leadership is composed of all social strata to share in the planning. Totalitarianism in a planned economy differs from that of democracy in that it is a closed, oligarchic monopoly based on coercion. Personally, I have no fear of losing my liberties in a democratic planned economy. On the other hand, I stand, as do millions, to gain freedom from want in addition to enjoying my other guaranteed liberties. Otherwise, I would fight to the death to regain my liberties. It all depends on the kinds of controls and the democratic methods of their exercise.

Today And Tomorrow

By Walter Lippmann

On Not Doing Things

Lippmann

ALONG WITH the positive things that needed to be done—above all ERP and rearmament—there are a number of negative things which it is extremely important not to do. There are at least three lines of action—each with considerable popular or bureaucratic support—that need to be discouraged if the general situation, which is slightly better but still critical and very dangerous, is not to become very much worse.

The first of these negatives is the movement to "strengthen" the United Nations by threatening to dissolve it in order to organize a new U. N. without the veto—and without Russia and without the Russian satellites and without the neutrals. The second negative is the pressure in Congress and in some of the bureaus to break up trade between eastern Europe and the western world. The third negative is the pressure for a German government to be set up formally this year in Frankfurt.

All these have this in common—that they are self-defeating.

THE PROPOSAL of the 16 Senators, if it really became American policy, would not only not strengthen the U. N. It would destroy it. Not only would it destroy the U. N. No other U. N. could then be organized. The result, as Secretary Marshall said, "would be a dispersal of the community of nations, followed by the formation of rival military alliances and isolated groups of states."

Surely it is evident that if Russia went out of the U. N., she would take with her all the nations of eastern Europe. But not all those nations which did not go with Russia would necessarily, or even probably, go with us into "the revised U. N." It is as certain as anything can be that the Scandinavian countries would become, as Mr. Marshall said, an "isolated group of states." If the question were put to the French, they would note that in "the revised U. N." they, along with the Chinese, are to be demoted—that their voting power is to be half that of Britain and America. It would take some doing to sell that to the French nation.

As for the British, they would probably think twice before they entered a revised U. N. which had incurred the mortal enmity of Russia and of eastern Europe, could not conceivably enlist the united support of France and Italy, and was shunned by Scandinavia.

ALL OF Europe would say that Wilson founded the League of Nations and the Senate refused to make it work, that Roosevelt founded the United Nations and that the Senate now wants to destroy it, and create a third international organization,—to be known as the Disunited Nations—which it will support until it gets interested in creating a fourth international organization—consisting of the more or less United States of America.

EXCEPT FOR its effects abroad, where it may be taken more seriously than it is here, the movement to make a new U. N. will almost surely peter out. But it reflects a condition of mind which expresses itself more practically in the attempt to prevent the revival of trade between East and West and the movement to set up a central German government in western Germany. It is the condition of mind of those who would make the break between East and West irreparable, who want to widen and deepen the chasm, and to destroy all the bridges across it.

Diplomatic contact between East and West is meager, almost suspended; pushing Russia out of the U. N. would be tantamount to a rupture of diplomatic relations. Economic contact between East and West is thin. But it exists. And because it exists, and because there is a mutual interest in increasing East-West trade, the actual relations within Europe are not quite so hopelessly bad as the diplomatic and propaganda war make them appear to be. Moreover, all the calculations of ERP will collapse if East-West trade is not encouraged.

And as regards Germany it is evident that if we go the limit in Frankfurt, our position in Berlin will become legally and morally untenable. For if we proclaim Frankfurt to be the capital of Germany, for what purpose will we then wish to stay in Berlin?

THE BEST thing to do about strengthening the U. N., about East-West trade, and about a German government is, for the time being, to do nothing, or as little as possible, letting nature take its course. For the course of nature is being powerfully assisted by the constructive and beneficient efforts of the ERP, and of taking a firm stand against military aggression, and of the demonstration, confirmed in Italy, that Europe cannot be conquered by a cold war. But there must be time for the full effects to develop and mature.

Let us not, like an overanxious gardener, pull up the seedlings to see whether we cannot make them grow faster.

TEW Housing Bill a 'Fraud', Says Spokesman for Builders

By the United Press

A building industry spokesman yesterday called the Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing bill a "fraud on the veteran, on the public and on the Congress."

Douglas Whitlock, chairman of the Building Products Institute, urged the House Banking Committee to hold "adequate" hearings to "expose this unhealthy measure to the test of intelligent criticism."

The House committee begins its second week of hearings on the T-E-W bill today. Officials of the Veterans' Administration are to give their views on what they think it will do for veterans.

Chairman Wolcott (R., Mich.) has promised to give all interested persons a chance to air their views on the Senate-approved bill, which seeks to achieve the building of 15 million homes during the next 10 years.

Whitlock said the Senate Banking Committee had "refused to hear any witnesses from the private building industry" when it revised the bill this year.

He said the building industry, if given a chance, could show "without question" that the present bill is a "fraud" which "would not produce one additional home in the next two years."

The measure includes a disputed provision to build 500,000 low-cost public housing units at Government expense during the next five years. Whitlock said those who claim the act will provide 1,500,000 homes a year for 10 years "overlook the fact that private enterprise is now building homes at the rate of about one million a year without the aid of the T-E-W bill."

Congress Due To Act on Arms Lend-Lease

Secretary of State Marshall and Senator Vandenberg (R., Mich.) are expected to ask Congress soon to approve a limited military lend-lease program for western Europe.

At the same time, Vandenberg probably will introduce a joint resolution which would put Congress on record as favoring the regional defense plan drafted by five western European nations a Brussels.

The Administration is pointing toward the short-term, limited lend-lease military program, although it is all but committed to a longer and more far-reaching plan.

No one in authority now believes, however, that a full-pledged military aid program to back up the western European union will be ready for consideration until fall. The presidential elections probably would mean that it would not come up until the new Congress convenes in January.

Therefore, Marshall is concentrating on a so-called "ERP insurance" program—military backing for the European Recovery Program. Under it, President Truman, with certain strings attached, would be authorized to send some military supplies to Europe if they are necessary.

The proposed joint resolution merely would express congressional approval of the "Western Union" defense plan. It probably would point out that such pacts are permissible under the United Nations Charter and cite the inter-American defense plan laid down at Rio de Janeiro as precedent.

Harriman Departs For Europe, ERP Job

New York, May 9 (U.P.).—W. Averell Harriman, Marshall Plan roving Ambassador to Europe, left New York by plane at 5:14 p. m. today for London and Paris.

The former Secretary of Commerce said he had great confidence that the European Recovery Program will "do the job."

"This program is on the initiative of the 16 member nations (of ERP) and our function is to assist, to make effective their programs of recovery," he told reporters at La Guardia Field.

Harriman said he would remain in Europe for a week or 10 days to line up his tasks as ERP Ambassador. He will return to Washington briefly and then fly back to Europe.

Harriman is schedultd to reach London at 7:45 a. m. tomorrow. He said he would meet Lewis W. Douglas, American Ambassador to Britain, at the London airport. They will confer briefly on ERP before Harriman leaves by plane for Paris.

Health Plan Survey Cites Doctor Dearth

By The Associated Press

There aren't enough physicians to meet all demands to be made under a compulsory health insurance system, a study made for a Senate group said yesterday.

The report was made and issued by the Brookings Institution, a private research organization. It contended:

"Additional requirements imposed upon the present active medical personnel could only lead to deterioration of quality of medical care."

This country has made great strides in health conditions, the study observed.

It noted that 40 years ago the United States was "completely outclassed" in health by leading nations. Today, health of the white population is ahead of health of larger nations of western Europe, and is "virtually as good" as that of small nations with best records, the study observed.

Although conditions among Negroes are less favorable than those of whites, this is due primarily to economic and social factors rather than lack of medical care, it was stated. Improvement among Negroes is even greater than among whites, it added.

The proposed joint resolution was prepared by Dr. George W. Bachman and Dr. Lewis Meriam. It was conducted for the Subcommittee on Health of the Senate Labor Committee, and is entitled "The Issue of Compulsory Health Insurance."

U. S. Sponsors Sales Drive on Plentiful Food

By the United Press

The Agricultural Department is trying out a new wrinkle today in its campaign to save food. Shoppers in York and Lancaster Counties, Pa., will be the guinea pigs.

The idea is to get housewives to buy foods which are plentiful.

About 1500 stores in the two Keystone State counties will put on a drive to sell 18 specific food items of which supplies now are good. They will be called "banner buys."

The items will be placed in special displays with a symbol proclaiming: "Banner buy—a plentiful food." Along with these will go free Agriculture Department recipe and menu books on money-saving dishes. If the plan is successful it may be adopted nationally.

The current list of plentiful foods includes citrus fruits, cabbage, cauliflower, celery, lettuce, Irish potatoes, canned citrus juices, canned peas of the lower grades, canned sweet potatoes, canned tomato products, dried fruits, fruit spreads, honey, peanut butter, fresh and frozen fish, chickens and eggs.

Loyalty Board Defers Action On Taking Over Condon Case

By the United Press

President Truman's loyalty review board has decided to forgo, at least temporarily, action on a Commerce Department request that it take over the loyalty case of Dr. E. U. Condon, it was revealed yesterday.

Board officials said they had agreed to set aside the request until after the House Un-American Activities Committee completes its investigation of the scientist.

The House Committe has accused Condon, director of the Department's Bureau of Standards, of being "one of the weakest links" in the Nation's atomic security. It said he had "knowingly or unknowingly" associated with alleged Soviet agents.

The committee plans to hold hearings on its charge later this month.

Soon after the committee's allegations were made public, the Commerce Department asked the loyalty board—the court of last resort in the Administration's loyalty check of Federal employes—to take over the case.

It asked specifically that the board give the Department an advisory ruling on Condon's loyalty. The department's own loyalty experts had given the scientist a clean bill.

Board officials said the decision to ignore the department's request for a while was prompted by the belief that the committee investigation would disclose some additional evidence that might have an important bearing on the case.

Chrysler, Union Refuse to Budge

Detroit, May 9 (AP).—Neither party in the Chrysler wage dispute showed any signs today of altering its bargaining position on the eve of a meeting scheduled by Federal conciliators.

The meeting was arranged in an attempt to avert a strike of 75,000 Chrysler employes due to start Wednesday.

The CIO United Auto Workers broke off negotiations Thursday, declaring that bargaining was "hopelessly deadlocked" on their demand for a 30-cent hourly wage boost.

Concert at Langley

The Langley Junior High School Boys Glee Club, conducted by Reba Will, will give a musical program before a meeting of the Sibley Hospital Alumnae Association at 1150 N. Capitol st., at 8 p. m. tomorrow.

HAPPY HOBBIES HATCH A HARVEST

Maybe you're a camera fan; a collector of stamps, first editions or rare prints; a builder of model ships, trains or planes, or perhaps your hobby is just relaxing while you listen to good music. It doesn't matter, because there is lots of fun and pleasure in any one of a hundred hobbies.

There is one hobby, however, that is not only full of pleasure and fun to follow, but it also pays dividends. It's the happy and profitable hobby of building a Savings Account.

No workshop, blueprints or tools are needed. You can start today with a five dollar bill. Once you start nothing more is necessary except the determination to set aside a definite part of your earnings each week or each pay day.

As your savings grow (aided by compound interest) you'll soon realize that no hobby can give the satisfaction or be more valuable than the happy—dividend paying—hobby of building a Savings Account at the Union Trust Company.

See how quickly your Dollars Grow in a Union Trust Savings Account.

One on the Aisle—

Sibyl Nominates Two Dark Horses

By Richard L. Coe

SHOW FOLK: "Vaudeville's not dead," says Capitol Headliner Sibyl Bowan. "The thing's just got a new look . . . All those radio programs put on a half-hour or so of vaudeville before going on the air to get the audience in good humor. Night clubs depend on the vaudeville approach and television's going big for the old vaudevillians . . . Sure, there are only about 12 good top theater spots across the country where you get vaudeville as people were used to it, though you can work a lot longer by going out to the one nighters and split-week spots with the name bands . . . And speaking of top spots," continues Sibyl, "the Capitol here is it, because you still get to rehearse with the band and your act isn't cut to ribbons to fit the length of the picture . . . It takes some minutes to build an act with an audience and too many places have messed up the four-a-day by getting performers to cut their acts to five or six minutes . . . I ask you: What can anybody do in six minutes? . . . You just get warmed up and you're off . . . That's one reason why American artists like to play England and Australia, where I've just been . . . They're treated as acts, not filler for a movie, and they're treated as human beings, too . . . F street's one of the few spots left where you find clean dressing rooms, carpets on the floor and light bulbs in the sockets . . . Not cold, clammy cellar rooms . . . That's why I say F street's Carter Barron and Gene Ford for President and Vice President on the Vaudeville Actors' Ticket."

SIGMUND ROMBERG, besides being the composer of more hits than a caterpillar can shake a baton over, also has an endless store of jobs . . . He's a well-upholstered chap who loves to laugh and it's too bad his Constitution Hall benefit Tuesday night for the Variety Club's Welfare Fund doesn't include jokes as well as his chunes . . . Rommy's a great calory expert, having recently been shocked to learn he put on 30 pounds in a three-month tour . . . He saves up his 1500 calories each day so's to splurge at dinner, Ida Jean Kain notwithstanding . . . Though Ida will be interested to know he thinks "to drink alcohol is to waste calories" . . . If Rommy ever lost his royalties, his rollicking good humor would make him a swell rival to comic Bowan.

ANITA COLBY'S unique in that she seldom meets the public even via the screen, but she tours the land holding court like Marie of Romania . . . Anita's a beauty all right and she never fails to grab space, even a few inches like this, by telling the press boys what a great picture suchnsuch is . . . She arrives at the Statler Tuesday night and Senate and Bill have tied her up for their Brunch program on WQQW at noon Thursday.

BING CROSBY paves Anita's way with a four-paragraph letter. . . . Among other things Bing, who'll be here himself for the golf tournament Saturday, scribbles: "It be of goods concerning a piece of colhooves me to inform you for I realize that she doesn't know many people and I must prevail upon the kindness of your nature to listen to her pitch. Because, pitch she will. She will sweet-talk you, charm you, will attempt to sell you a bill orced celluloid called 'The Emperor Waltz,' which, when held up to a strong light, reveals your obedient servant in this or that histrionic attitude. . . . Take a tip, man," winds up Bing, "better not try to hold out." . . . That guy Crosby, wotta word artist. . . . He signs himself "President, Bob Hope Fan Club."

THE GAYETY closed its forty-second season as a burlesque house Saturday night. . . . "It was, as I said it would be," beams Manager Bernie Ferber, "a forty-week season." . . . Now Bernie's off to Atlantic City and the boardwalk's Globe till the Gayety re-opens, August 13 to be exact.

ROBERT ALDA, Ilka Chase's co-star in the National's "There Goes the Bride," is the Robert Alda you saw as George Gershwin in that memorable "Rhapsody in Blue" . . . Tough times in the '30's sent him from an architect's board and New York University, to "other talents." . . . He found he could sing, won a radio contest, took to burlesque, the borscht circuit and night clubs . . . As an unknown he won the choice Gershwin role and has been fighting ever since to live down just this introduction he's gotten here . . . Sorry, Bob.

THE DUNCAN SISTERS made a sentimental journey the other day . . . They went out to the "new" Friendship to see the piano they used to play when they'd entertain Evalyn Walsh McLean's guests . . . The lively Duncans, who're doing "Topsy and Eva" at the Club Cairo these nights, will double at George Washington University, of all places, Tuesday for a fashion show benefiting the university's new hospital . . . Ilka Chase will join them for the afternoon show at 2:30 and the Duncans also will be on at 8:30.

THE CAPITOL screen Thursday will reveal a film of awesome stature . . . As Bob Bruskin told you yesterday in his story about "The Iron Curtain," this picture is based on the Canadian spy trials and will open simultaneously at 500 theaters across the land . . . Nothing so strongly suggests the power of the movies . . . Everything in the film has been public knowledge two years, but most of the country probably is pretty vague about the case . . . Now millions will see on the screen what few took time to read . . . And what they will see is unprecedented: the film report, officially backed by a friendly government's records, about another friendly and specific government's espionage activities . . . When this record speaks, terrifying seeds will be sown in millions of minds . . . You might do some advance reading in "The Soviet Spies," by Richard Hirsch, published by Duell, Sloan and Pearce in a one-dollar, paper-bound volume . . . Figuratively the word is used by loose-minded ad writers to describe romantic rehashes, but literally the word for "The Iron Curtain" is dynamite.

THE LUNTS OF 1968? Mr. and Mrs. John Agar, better known as Shirley Temple and her husband, who act a romance for his screen debut in "Fort Apache," the John Ford western opening Tuesday at Keith's

E Bond Cash-Ins Top Purchases

Cash-ins of Series E savings bonds nosed ahead of new purchases in April for the first time this year.

But for 1948 as a whole, more money has been invested in new bonds than has been taken out by cashing in old ones.

Redemptions during April ran $26,000,000 higher than new purchases, Treasury records showed yesterday. New purchases totaled $320,000,000 for the month.

April 15 marked the opening date of the Security Loan drive, an intensified campaign to sell savings bonds, but officials said the April figures are too early to show the results of the new drive.

The seminar will be held at 7:30 p. m. in Pierce Hall, 15th and Harvard sts. nw.

Smoking Plane Plunges Into Water at N. Y.

New York, May 9 (AP).—A Pan American World Airways Constellation plane, returning from a night training flight, plunged into the water off LaGuardia Field early today.

The four crew members aboard escaped serious injury and waded ashore.

Airline officials said the plane overshot a runway as it was coming in for an emergency landing ordered by the pilot after he saw smoke pouring from a forward compartment.

The pilot cut the ignition and the plane came to rest with one wing submerged.

The four crewmen were Robert D. Postlewaite, 38, pilot, of New York City; Marion E. Sprout, copilot, 28, Franklin Square, N. Y.; Edward Spring, 35, observer, New York City, and Davis A. Murphy, 31, flight engineer, East Meadow, N. Y.

2 Navy Planes Collide Over Ocean, 1 Missing

New York, May 9 (U.P.).—Two Navy fighter planes on a routine training flight collided in midair, about 20 miles out over the Atlantic today.

One plane was missing. The other returned to Floyd Bennett Field with a wing slightly damaged, and its pilot, the only man aboard, uninjured, the Navy said.

Woman Fishing Hooks Man's Body

The body of a man, about 45 years old, was found floating in the Potomac River just above Memorial Bridge yesterday afternoon.

He was identified last night by a daughter, Mrs. Mildred Evans, 509 9th st. nw., as James E. Coleman, 2310 L st. nw.

Police said his body was hooked by Marthia Taylor, 29, of 1366 Kenyon st. nw., while she was fishing.

Lord Inverchapel To Be Honor Guest At Army Event

Lord Inverchapel, Ambassador of Great Britain and a former private of the Scots Guards, famed British regiment, will be guest of honor at Army ceremonies to be held at Fort Myer Wednesday.

At that time the United States Army's oldest regiment, the Third "Old Guard" Infantry will parade at the post at 4:50 o'clock, concluding their parade with the retreat ceremony. The United States Army Band, formed in England after World War I by General of the Armies John J. Pershing, will take part in the ceremony.

The "Old Guard," identified with all major phases of the Nation's military history, is stationed at Fort Myer for the protection of the President and the Nation's Capital, is charged with guarding of the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, and provides escorts for important dignitaries entering the Capital.

Tropical Medical Groups Meet Here

About 2000 delegates from all over the world are expected to be on hand here today for the opening of an eight-day meeting to pool and enlarge existing knowledge about tropical diseases.

Officially named the Fourth International Congresses on Tropical Medicine and Malaria, the meeting is being held jointly by the International Congress of Tropical Medicine and the International Malaria Congress.

Sponsor is the United States Government through its State Department and six other agencies. Cooperating are 15 national professional societies and a number of intergovernmental agencies. Invitations have been sent to 150 societies and 60 governments.

About 180 papers will be presented during the conference by outstanding scientists from 37 nations. For the convenience of those attending, the meeting halls will be provided with the simultaneous interpretation system so that speeches and papers will be heard in English, French and Spanish.

Sessions will begin today at 11 a. m. at Departmental Auditorium, Constitution ave. between 12th and 14th sts. nw. Subsequent meetings through May 18 will be held at Departmental Auditorium, Commerce Department Auditorium, 14th st. between Constitution and Pennsylvania aves. nw., and the National Museum Auditorium, Constitution ave. at 10th st. nw.

With 2000 delegates expected to attend, as many as four meetings will be held simultaneously. The scientific program has been organized in 12 sections. Last international congresses were held in 1938 in Amsterdam.

U. S. Chamber Group Criticizes ITO Charter

A special committee of the United States Chamber of Commerce proposed yesterday that the United States try for a rewriting of the proposed International Trade Organization charter.

As things now stand, it contended, the United States should "withhold acceptance" of the charter. It was written in an international meeting at Havana and is designed to build freer world trade.

It said the Havana charter is not consistent with principles of "free and competitive enterprise."

Gas Station Aide Critically Hurt By Pistol Bullet

Lewis Lester, 23, 703 Carroll ave., Takoma Park, Md., was in critical condition last night at Washington Sanitarium with a bullet wound over his heart.

According to Takoma Park police, Lester told friends that he was going to write a letter. He walked over to a desk in his home, police said, pulling out a .32-caliber revolver from a drawer. The gun exploded, a bullet entering his body just above his heart.

Police had been unable to talk with Lester to learn the exact circumstances of the shooting. His condition was described as extremely critical last night. Lester is a gasoline station employe.

To Beat Strike

Circus Train Arrives in D. C. Early

Vanguard of the "greatest show on earth" arrived in Washington yesterday.

As a precaution against the threatened rail strike, a 40-car Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey circus train, with its crew of more than 200 men, was sent up early from Sarasota, Fla., W. L. Carr, a circus executive, said.

W. L. Carr

The circus concluded its 33-day run at Madison Square Garden, New York, yesterday and moved on to Boston. It will not move under canvas until it opens at the Bennings rd. and Oklahoma ave. grounds 10 days hence.

Yesterday's train — 8 coaches, 30 flats and 2 stock cars used for storage—contained only tents and other physical equipment, Carr said.

Is Its "24 Agent"

Carr is the circus's "24 agent," a job comparable to beachmaster in an invasion. Arriving in advance of the performers, he directs unloading and setting up of the migratory camp, "weather or no weather. It's got to be pretty bad to stop us."

Carr, "born and raised in New Harmony, Ind." is a veteran of 45 years of circus life.

"I was a printer by trade," he said yesterday at the Bennings Freight Station, "working in a New Liberia, La., shop when a circus print car came along and wanted a young boy. So I went."

Puts Up Advertising

A "print car," he explains is a railroad car that precedes the circus to put up advertising. Such cars move three, two and one week in advance.

Carr finds his work busy but routine. "I've seen animals jump out of cages once in a while," he says. "They get tired and scared. But it is not a difficult job to get them back again. I never heard of one getting away permanently, or of one having to be killed."

As for the performers, "they are all pretty even tempered, used to traveling. They all lead pretty clean lives, too. Their work calls for clean living. Much of it is pretty dangerous, you know."

"We've got a great show this year," Carr said, an advertising gleam coming into his eyes, "though I haven't had a chance to see it."

Reports from New York bear him out. A circus spokesman said the show had experienced an all-time record in attendance, 924,000 persons, and gate receipts, $1,500,000, during its 33-day run.

9 Groups to Perform In City Folk Festival

The Washington Folk Festival is to be held Friday and Saturday evening at 8:15 o'clock in the Roosevelt Gymnasium, 13th and Upshur sts. nw.

The festival is sponsored by the D. C. Recreation Department. Nine groups will perform each night. At the conclusion of the evening performances, the audience will be invited to join in square dancing.

Nats Pull Into 4th Place by Beating Browns, 3-1

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

THE CONDOLENCES that were extended to Zach Taylor when he was sentenced to the management of the St. Louis Browns, now appear to have been more than somewhat premature. The Browns aren't doing badly, Taylor is not unhappy at all, he thinks it's a nice job and his ball club hasn't rolled over and played dead for anybody.

POVICH

It didn't look like a nice job back in December, when Taylor got it. The Browns' front office, hat in hand, persuaded him to come out of the security of a Pittsburgh coaching job to take over the tattered remnants of an eighth-place ball club.

The Browns had traded away everything except their franchise. Their best ball player, Shortstop Vern Stephens, and their best two pitchers, Jack Kramer and Ellis Kinder, were sold to the Red Sox. Walt Judnich, their only first baseman and Bob Muncrief, another pitcher, were ransomed from the bankrupt Browns by the Cleveland Indians, who also paid over $50,000 for Second Baseman Johnny Berardino.

Taylor inherited an eight-place club that now had all the earmarks of the sorriest collection that ever paraded in major league uniforms.

AND WITH IT he went out and won half of the Browns' first 12 games of the season. "Everybody has been wonderful," says Taylor. "Wherever we've been—Detroit, New York, Boston—there's been a lot of sentiment for the Browns. In Yankee Stadium the other day, the fans almost tore the place down when we got a bad decision on a foul home run that licked us."

In a couple of positions the Browns are a better ball club than they were last year, says Zach. "We didn't have a first baseman all last season. I was watching the Browns' lineup from Pittsburgh and I never could understand why they were playing John Witte and Walt Judnich at first base. Witte couldn't field and Judnich was an outfielder, not a first baseman. It baffled me because I knew they had Chuck Stevens at Toledo.

"We brought Stevens back this year. He never should have been away from the Browns. He's one of the better first basemen in the league, and we have no worries there. Nor at second base, either. I never knew Gerry Priddy was such a good ball player. We were lucky to get him from Washington."

TAYLOR IS HIGH on Priddy. He's suspicious now of all the stories that Priddy was a trouble-maker with the Nats, and has been won over to the school of thought that Priddy got a bum rap from Bluege and Clark Griffith.

"Priddy has put a lot of hustle into our club. I never have seen a man who wants to win ball games as much as he does. He's always mad about it when we lose, unlike other guys who can get philosophical about it. Show me the guy who doesn't like to lose and I'll show you a fellow who is always hustling. I hope he's around with the Browns a long time."

Priddy himself thinks he got a bum deal from the Washington club. "I'm glad I got away from 'em, because the Browns are a nice outfit to be with," he says. "But I didn't like the idea of leaving under a cloud. Ossie Bluege gave me the works with Mr. Griffith because he thought I had designs on his job."

INEVITABLY THE BROWNS in their pregame dugout palaver got around to asking about Larry Doby's tremendous home run of Saturday to the top of the centerfield fence. Al Zarilla surveyed the distance and said, "I've seen a long one." He was talking about Charley Keller's drive in Yankee Stadium in 1946.

"The ball Keller hit went into the third deck in Yankee Stadium, over the bull pen," said Zarilla. "I was playing right field and it cleared my head so quick I thought I was playing first base."

That comment registered with Chuck Stevens, who noted "I was playing first base that day, and my first thought was 'suppose it had been a line drive at me.' I never did like the idea of playing first base when Keller was up, especially if there was a man on and I had to hold him close to the bag. Keller's bat always seemed to be looking down my throat, and my wife's and daughter's, too."

Bums, Pirates Trade Games

Pittsburgh, May 9 (AP).—Two home run blasts by Ralph Kiner gave the third-place Pittsburgh Pirates a 10-to8 victory over Brooklyn in the nightcap of their double-header today after the Dodgers ran away with the opener, 14 to 2.

The largest crowd of the season, 40,797, spilled over onto the playing field and ground rules were in effect.

Tribe Wins Twice, Takes Lead; Keltner Has 3 Homers

Boston, May 9 (AP).—Cleveland's Indians took over the American League lead today by twice defeating the Boston Red Sox, 4-1, in 10 innings and 9-5, before 34,298 cash customers.

Ken Keltner clouted three home runs for the winners, two in the opener, the second starting off the visitors' tenth inning three-run victory rally. Ted Williams walloped two for the Sox, one in each game.

Keltner now has nine home runs and Williams seven.

The victory in the opener was the third of the year for Bob Feller who was replaced by lanky Russ Christopher after one was out in the tenth.

The twin victories boosted the Indians into first place by eight percentage points over the surprising Philadelphia Athletics.

Doby Hit Homer Again

Larry Doby, Cleveland's Negro outfielder, also poled a four-bagger, a 400-foot drive into the bleachers in dead center field near where Keltner deposited his third round-tripper.

Joe Tipton, rookie Cleveland catcher, drove his first homer of the campaign high into the screen in left center for three runs in the seventh inning of the nightcap.

Williams' first four-master in the opener's fourth inning gave the Sox a shortlived lead, for Keltner drove out his first homer of the day, his seventh of the season, in the next inning.

The teams remained deadlocked until the tenth when Keltner whacked his second and the Indians added two more runs on three singles, a walk and a sacrifice.

Keltner Again

After the Sox hopped on Indian starter Don Black, for three runs in the initial inning of the second game, Keltner slammed his third homer of the lengthy afternoon in the fourth with Ed Robinson aboard.

The Indians scored three more runs in the seventh, Doby's homer accounting for two of these, and exploded for four in the eighth, three of them on Tipton's four-base belt.

Things You Didn't Know About Celebrities Program

SOME THINGS YOU would like to know about the National Celebrities Golf Tournament and the Edgar Bergen-Charlie McCarthy broadcast with Bing Crosby as guest star, May 16, next Sunday—

Mike Uline is making his arena available free of rental charge for the Bergen-McCarthy NBC (WRC) broadcast with Bing Crosby as guest star.

The generosity of Tenderleaf Tea and Royal Puddings, sponsors of the Bergen-McCarthy broadcast, makes it possible for this show to be held here.

All notables appearing here pay their own expenses, 100 per cent.

FIGHT PROMOTER Gabe Menendez was the first person to purchase tickets for hospitalized war veterans. He bought $50 worth.

The Columbia Country Club makes its entire facilities available without charge for the golf tournament, and club members do a tremendous job helping to run off the event.

With the unstinting assistance of innumerable other individuals and organizations, this all adds up to city-wide—yes, Nation-wide—support of Attorney General Tom Clark's efforts on youth opportunity.

Both the golf tournament and Bergen-McCarthy broadcast are under the auspices of The Washington Post.—BUS HAM.

Yanks Blast Four Homers As Shea Blanks Chisox, 8-0

New York, May 9 (AP).—Frank Shea pitched hitless ball for 6 2-3 innings and went on to shut out the Chicago White Sox, 8-0, for the New York Yankees. Charlie Keller, Billy Johnson, George McQuinn and Tommy Henrich homered to account for six runs.

Shea, working smoothly toward his second triumph, allowed only four men to reach base until two out in the seventh inning. All were on walks. A line single to center by Bob Kennedy spoiled Shea's hopes of a no-hitter and brought a groan from the crowd of 33,059.

The White Sox gathered two more safeties in the eighth and another pair in the ninth. Shea fanned eight.

Barron Wins Goodall Golf, Locke Second

New Rochelle, N. Y., May 9 (AP). Staggering in the final round, Herman Barron of White Plains, N. Y., hung on gamely to outlast onrushing Bobby Locke and win the Goodall Round Robin Golf tournament at Wykagyl Country Club today.

After watching a seemingly safe lead melt away under a blistering assault by Locke on the first nine of today's final round, Barron fought off his pursuer on the way home and salted away first prize of $2000 with a final "plus" total of 38 points.

Locke, who won the bizarre event a year ago with 37 points, had to be contented today with second place at 32. In today's final burning challenge the foreign ace gained 15 points on the faltering Barron, but it wasn't enough.

For the first time in four days of brilliant golf, Barron slipped two strokes over par when he required 74 shots. His five rounds—three of them shot under terrible weather conditions—read 70, 69, 71, 71, 74.

Locke, always a dangerous competitor, picked up 16 points on Barron in today's first nine. As they turned for home he needed to gain only five more to tie the stocky American veteran. A gallery of perhaps 5000 whooped along after the foursomes in which the two leaders were playing.

But, as it turned out, Locke had shot his bolt. He slipped two strokes over par on the nine and lost two points to Lloyd Mangrum, Chick Harbert and Jim Ferrier, his match play opponents.

Following are final standings, with today's medal score in parenthesis:

Herman Barron, White Plains (74)	+38
Bobby Locke, South Africa (72)	+32
Ben Hogan, Hershey, Pa. (74)	+16
Bob Hamilton, Landover, Md. (76)	+16

A's Tumble To 2d After 2 Victories

Philadelphia, May 9 (AP).—The amazing Philadelphia Athletics pounded out a pair of victories over the Detroit Tigers today, 10-5 and 5-3, to run their consecutive victory streak to eight, longest for the A's since their last pennant-winning year of 1931.

The Athletics, even though winning twice, dropped out of the league lead.

Cleveland, who also won a double-header from Boston, is now eight percentage points ahead of the A's.

The Athletics clung to a half-game edge over the Indians, but dropped back due to a peculiarity of scoring.

The first game was, to all intent, over after the Mackmen had scored six runs off Dizzy Trout and Ted Gray in the first inning. Joe Coleman went the route for his second victory, scattering nine hits along the way.

But it was the second contest that furnished the drama. Mack sent lefty Lou Brissie, the war hero who survived 23 operations on his left leg, to the mound to face side-armed Art Houtteman. Trailing 3-1, the A's came up with a four-run eighth to win.

Three Washington teams gained the semifinal round of the Maryland State four-ball championship yesterday at the Army-Navy Country Club and the fourth set of semifinalists, playing for an Annapolis club, are also from Washington.

Jerry Hart and Ralph Bogart, the youthful District golfers, representing Annapolis Roads, scored the most convincing victory of the day, downing the Eddie Johnston-Ken Scales combination from the Country Club of Maryland, 4 and 3.

Hart and Bogart also notched the day's low scores. Hart came in with a 73 and Bogart a 74, while the other players were having trouble keeping their scores down in the high winds.

Washington Golf and Country Club, with two of its teams scoring victories, became the only club to advance all of its entries into the semifinals.

Claude Rippey and Jim Gardner, Washington's number one team, downed Bob Jones and Jesse Dowling, jr., of Hillendale, 3 and 1. The other Washington pair, Harold Hare and Eddie Steptoe, downed Indian Spring's Jim Huntt and William McFerren, by a close 2 and 1 margin.

Indian Spring put one of its teams in the round of four, however, as Eddie Ault and Buddy Sharkey trounced Eddie Meyer and Sid Schwinn, Country Club of Maryland, 4 and 2.

Next Sunday's semi-finals will take place at Five Farms, in Baltimore, with the finals being held the following Sunday at Prince Georges.

R. E. SABEAN and J. G. Martenson finished in a deadlock for the Don Chamberlain Trophy in yesterday's 36 hole final round of match play against par at Kenwood. Sabean had an 81, 81—162 and his 29 handicap left him one down to par, even with Martenson, who shot 79, 76—155 with a handicap of 12 strokes. Second place was split between 15-year-old Don Dudley, jr., 83, 92—175, and a 32 handicap; R. H. Hart, 83, 80—163, and an 18 handicap and L. E. Imhoff, 78, 73—151 and a 6 handicap, all of whom finished 3 down to par . . .

KENWOOD'S BLIND bogey was split five ways, with L. Phillips, 100—22—78; H. G. Fieldscher, 90—12—78; A. P. Rudder, 88—10—78; Chester Hennenger, 90—12—78; and Dr. E. B. Frank, 96—18—78, finishing first. Second was divided between H. D. Barker, 93—18—75; Dr. Fred Sanderson, 99—24—75 and L. W. Perce, 87—12—75 . . . Anacostia also had a blind bogey, with George Parker, 78—11—67; Carl Steele, 72—5—67 and Wilbur Seay, 78—11—67, dividing the top prize . . .

MARIE WALPER and Lillian Young tied for the Ladies Board of Governors Trophy at Prince Georges yesterday. Mrs. Walper turned in a 43, 46—89 and Mrs. Young a 46, 43—89. Low net prizes went to Catherine Shrenk, 107—35—72, Marion Russell, 93—18—75 and Enda Kinder, 98—23—75 . . . Dr. William Wolf of Inlian Spring, just missed getting one of the longest aces of the season when his drive on the 245-yard tenth hole hit the flag and stopped 6 inches from the pin, for an eagle deuce.

INDIAN SPRING'S Ladies White Elephant tournament was won by Mrs. R. R. Hayman, 57-won by Mrs. Ray Weisberg, 69—20—49 and Mrs. E. B. Clark, 64—15—49. In another Indian Spring tournament—the qualifying round of the club two-man team championship—three teams tied for the low medal. William Summers-Garland Bowers, 35-34—69; Jim Huntt-Volney Burnett, 34, 35—69 and Buddy Sharkey-George Thornton, 35, 34—69, led the qualifiers. Next were Pres Burrows and Paul Dobrowolski, 34, 36—70, while William McFerren-Douglas Jackson and Dr. Mike Oliveri-Lou Ordelle had 71s. Match play starts next week . . .

AT WASHINGTON Golf and Country Club, Mrs. M. M. Alexander and C. M. Featherstone took low gross honors at yesterday's mixed Scotch foursome event, and Mrs. R. D. Young and Comdr. H. J. Webb won the low net prize with 84-13—71. Second low gross went to Mrs. M. H. Dinneen and S. S. Carroll, with 85, while Mrs. D. E. Ball-Billy Martin had a 93-21—72 for low net runner-up honors. Third low net was had by Mrs. Joel Broyhill and R. E. Aldred, 95-22—73. High gross prize was achieved by Mr. and Mrs. L. Fortney's 115, and high net award went to Mrs. Gus Dimberg and H. Egenroad, who had 106-15—91 . . .

ARMY-NAVY'S blind bogey tournament ended with five men tied for first—Fred Cresswell, 96-18—78; A. H. Ridorn, 95-17—78; N. M. Magee, 82-4—78; H. Hall, 96-18—78, and L. Jacobson, 87-9—78. Second was F. G. Smith, 96-6—73 . . . Manor Club put on a men's Scotch foursome event, with W. N. Talkes-Tom Corwin winning with 74-7—67, followed by W. F. Pounder-A. F. Schmidt, 82-10—72 . . . Manor also held a ladies' Scotch foursome and Mrs. Flora Nooter teamed with Mrs. E. W. Lawson to score a 50-12—38. Mrs. F. E. Lambert and Mrs. H. F. Farrell turned in a 49-11—38 to share the prize . . .

CONGRESSIONAL'S selective nine-hole tournament with half handicap was won by J. D. Kendall, jr., 35-6—29 and South Trimble, 41-12-29. In a blind bogey, 91-18—73; C. E. Bush, 85-12—73; L. L. Harvey, 93-20—73 and J. L. Geddes, 83-10—73 tied for second . . . At Chevy Chase, the second round of the four-ball match play handicap Treasurer's Cup tournament is now under way . . . The Prince Georges Mens Board of Governor's Trophy play began this week and ends next Sunday . . .

CABOT FELDMAN and Pat Berger won the Woodmont Class A Sweepstakes yesterday. Feldman shot a 74-5—69 and Berger had 79-10—69. Jack Rubin, 82-10—72 and Willard Goldheim, 82-10—72, were next. In Class B, Rolly Lamensdorf, 89-18—71 and Sam Roth, 84-13—71, finished on top and in Class C, Dave Silverman, 98-25—73 and Sam Block, 93-20—73, took first honors . . . Eight men tied for the Bethesda Country Club blind bogey prize with net 76s. They were E. W. Welch, 94-18; T. D. Dutton, 89-13; C. F. Batchelder, 98-22; Frank LeGost, 87-11; Allen E. Freeze, 92-16; Phil Donaldson, 80-4; W. Kelly, 107-31 and John Leavell, 80-4.

Jeff Heath Hits Homer; Spahn Loses

St. Louis, May 9 (AP).—The St. Louis Cardinals knocked in six runs in the sixth and seventh innings to drive Warren Spahn from the mound and defeat the Boston Braves 6 to 4 today. Jeff Heath and Jim Russell led the Boston attack with a home run apiece.

The victory sent the Redbirds into first place in the National League as the Chicago Cubs defeated the New York Giants.

Terry Moore opened the Redbirds' sixth with a walk and singles by Stan Musial and Whitey Kurowski and a ground out by Enos Slaughter gave St. Louis two runs.

Singles by Red Schoendienst, Musial and Slaughter and Kurowski's two-bagger accounted for four more runs in the seventh and the Cardinal victory.

Giants Lose to Cubs, 2-0, On Kerr's 2-Run Error

Chicago, May 9 (AP).—A wild throw by Buddy Kerr allowed two runs to score in the eighth inning giving the Cubs a 2-0 victory over the Giants here today. Russ Meyer held the Giants to three hits to defeat Dave Koslo in an airtight pitching duel.

The Cubs collected only six hits off Koslo. They bunched three of them in the decisive eighth, two being bunts on a turf made treacherous by drizzling rain throughout the game.

to strike out the next two hitters which he did with his big curve ball.

IN SHORT—Ken Wood's powerful throw to the plate from right field that caught Yost trying to score came as no surprise to the Browns . . . They were bragging about the throwing arm of Rookie Wood before the game . . . Manager Joe Kuhel claimed Rookie Ned Garver was balking but was voted down by the umpires but they swept off the pitching rubber the better to watch him . . . Platt hit into a double play in the third inning but it was no fault of Priddy's, who was on base. Priddy barged into Kozar as if to wrestle him one fall to a finish, but Kozar held the ball and whipped it to first . . . The Browns are supposed to be a poverty-stricken club, but the players declare "we travel as first class as the Yankees." . . . Sam Zoldak, supposedly the best pitcher on the Browns and a left-handed Nemesis of the Nats last year, tonight will be making his first start of the season. Hurt his shoulder earlier in the year, stumbling over first base . . . Wynn will pitch for the Nats.

O'Donnell Wins Virginia Open

Hampton, Va., May 9 (AP).—Professional Johnny O'Donnell of Norfolk came through with a sizzling five-under-par 67 late today to win the Virginia State open golf championship for 1948.

O'Donnell's afternoon 67, lowest round fired during the three-day tournament, gave him a 72-hole total of eight-under-par 280.

It appeared that game little Eddie Dodson, an unattached professional from Richmond, was going to win but he had to be content with second place with his 72-hole total of 285.

Fletcher Released By Cleveland

Boston, May 9 (AP).—First Baseman Elbie Fletcher who began his big league career when he joined the Boston Braves from high school today was given his unconditional release by the Cleveland Indians.

Phils Rout Reds Twice, 14-2 and 8-0

Cincinnati, May 9 (AP). — The Philadelphia Phillies rolled over the hapless Cincinnati Reds in both games of a twin bill today, 14-2 and 8-0, before a crowd of 20,831, thousands of whom left the park midway in the second game.

Lefty Ken Heintzelman twirled a four-hitter for the nightcap victory after the Phillies' prize rookie, Curt Simmons, had won the opener for his first victory as against two defeats.

Junior Results

In the Intercity Junior League the widest margin was un up by Mount Calvary with a 14-3 victory over Holy Name. Victory Post No. 4 defeated McDaniel's, 8-5; Caichness Aces trampled the McQuinn Yankees, 13-4, and Forestville took a 10-8 nod over Carmody Hills.

At National Capitol Show

Mercer's Copper King Takes Saddle Horse Championship

By Harry De Mawby, jr.

A. C. McDormand's Mercers Copper King out-performed a classy group of gaited horses to win the saddle horse championship at yesterday's National Capitol Saddle Horse Association show at Meadowbrook Horse Show Grounds, Chevy Chase, Md.

The handsome 5-year-old chestnut stallion by Mercer Rex-Gavotte defeated one of the largest and best fields of saddle bred horses seen in any area show for many seasons. Mercers Copper King, ridden by Mr. McDormand, triumphed in the model and fine harness classes to edge the reserve champion, Idle Boy, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Warner Pumphrey of Silver Spring.

Idle Boy picked up second place awards in the fine harness, model and five-gaited classes. Mrs. Warner Pumphrey, making her show ring debut, handled Idle Boy in an accomplished manner in the fine harness division.

Charles Carrico's good bay mare Refrain again showed her adaptness for the show ring by winning the coveted hunter championships with blues in both the hunter hack and open hunters. A three-way tie, four points behind the champion, between Mr. and Mrs. Gardner Hallman's Gray Lark, Carrol Curran's Be Fit, and Peyton Balleger's Brandon King was decided on conformation with the reserve honors going to Brandon King.

The jumper division was a clean sweep for Charles Gartrell's Reno Kurd, jumping in consistently good form to run up a large total of 16 points fo rthe championship. Reserve was George Fitzpatrick's Baltimore entry Party Miss with 8 points.

Eiker's 2 Homers Pace Silver Spring

Lenny Eiker smacked out two homers and a single as Silver Spring trimmed Elks Club, 8-2, yesterday in a Montgomery County Park League game at Montgomery Blair High.

It was the first home game for the Elks and Brooks John, Republican Commissioner for Montgomery County, tossed out the first ball.

In other league games: Norman Schumacher gave up only two hits and struck out 16 as Glen Echo beat Myron Crowell, 6-3; Cissel-Saxon nosed out Kensington Fire Department, 9-8; Veterans of Foreign Wars defeated Atchison-Keller, 8-3.

Bamby Bread won over Groveton, 11-7, yesterday at Groveton to take the lead in the Fairfax County Junior League. In other games, Vienna downed Annandale, 10-3, and McLean nosed out Falls Church, 4-3.

The Sentelle Contractors softball team took on two opponents yesterday and won both games at Takoma Park. The Contractors whipped Mollins Construction, 3-1, in the first game, and then romped over Barnes-Kimmell, 6-3.

Greenbelt smashed Triangle, 28-1, at Triangle, and Lee's Tavern outslugged Bladensburg, 11-7, at Hyattsville yesterday to take over first place in the Prince Georges County League with 2-0 records. In the only other league game, Snug Harbor nosed out Randolph Village, 8-7.

Bud Thompson, Al Savia and Bob Pond each had six for six yesterday as Vienna steamrollered Herndon, 31-1, in an Eastern Fairfax County League game at Herndon. It was Vienna's first start this season.

Potomac Wins Over Wheaton Behind Wolfe

Harry Wolfe, former Central High righthander, turned in one of the finest pitching performances of the Montgomery County League season yesterday as he blanked Wheaton, 8-0, for Potomac.

He embarrassed the Wheaton sluggers on their home grounds by fanning eight of them at least once, winding up with a total of 18 strikeouts. He gave only two hits and walked only three.

Colesville took over the loop lead with a 2-1 victory over Sandy Spring, and Bethesda edged out Rockville, 5-4.

The Sports Reel

Snow Cancels Two Utah Sports Events

Logan, Utah, Maq 9 (AP)—It may be spring but two athletic events at Utah State Agaiculture College were called of yesterday because of snow.

Melting snow left the college track and field in a slushy condition. As a result, the Brigham Young Utah State track meet was cancelled.

Montana University and the Aggie golf team found the Greenward in about the same condition and a scheduled links match was abandoned.

Canisius Signs Niland

Buffauo, N. Y., May 9 (AP)—Joe Niland was signed today to a three-year contract as head coach of basketball and baseball at Canisius.

The contract takes effect in September. Niland, a Canisius graduate, was director of athletics at Gannon (Erie, Pa.) until he returned to take over the basketball squad in midseason this year.

Another Primo?

New York, May 9 (AP)—Jim Cully, a seven-foot, two-inch hunk of man from Ireland with ambitions to emulate the feats of another ring goliath, Primo Carnera, makes his United States boxing debut here Wednesday.

The 24-year-old 280-pounder will face Wally Baden, an obscure heavyweight from Scranton, Pa., in an eight-rounder at the Jamaica Arena. Baden is six feet three.

96 and Still a Golfer

London, May 9 (U.P.)—Alexander McCann, elected president of the Donaghaadee (County Down) Colf Club Saturday, is 96 and plays two rounds of golf a week.

Special 2-Man Team Wrestles Wednesday

George Macricostas and Jesse James, will meet Irish Pat Welsh, of Boston, and Milwaukee's Fred Corona in a special two-man team wrestling match at Turner's Arena on Wednesday night.

In the main event, Benito Gardini, of Brooklyn, goes against Babe Sharkey.

Eastern, Central in Top Contest

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

A busy week of Interhigh League baseball opens today with three games scheduled.

Unbeaten Eastern, only a half-game out of first place, invades Central, Coolidge plays at Anacostia and Roosevelt at McKinley Tech, all at 3:30 p. m.

The hard-hitting Ramblers from Eastern face a tough climb this week in overtaking the first-place Wilson Green Tigers. The second-placers play three league games before Friday to only two for Wilson. All told, 11 league games are carded this week.

However, the race for the top spot in the playoffs will probably be decided Tuesday when Eastern and Wilson meet head-on at Eastern. The scramble for the other two playoff berths is still wide-open, with Tech, Anacostia, Central, Coolidge and Western all conceded a fair chance.

Eastern is pretty well fortified for this week's drive with three topflight pitchers ready to work. Eddie Kline has a 2-0 record in league play. Frank Utley pitched a one-hitter in winning Eastern's other game.

Two important games are on the northern Virginia Class A slate this week too. Washington-Lee of Arlington can clinch at least a tie for first by beating Fairfax tonight at Fairfax. On Friday night, W-L plays at George Washington of Alexandria in the game which will most likely decide this area's representative in the Virginia State tournament in Norfolk May 22.

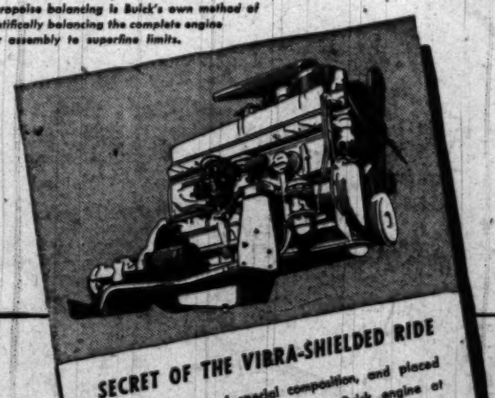
We can hardly believe our Engine Ears

Illustrated is the Buick SUPER with 115 hp Hi-Poised Fireball straight-eight. White sidewall tires, as shown, available at extra cost.
WE don't mind admitting we've been pretty proud of our big Fireball straight-eight engine.
A lot of brain-sweat went into making it lively — and as for smoothness, we don't know of any power plant that gets the loving care lavished on this Micropoised* beauty.
So we thought we knew the song and the feel of an engine as smooth as automobile engines could be.
Then — well, then our engineers came up with Hi-Poised mountings and really opened our eyes — and ears.
At idling speed, you have to shush all conversation and cock an alert ear to make sure the engine's running.
Rolling along the road, the whisper of your tires rises higher than this smoothie's contented murmur.
More than that, you find that the whole ride seems smoother, quieter, more restful and easy in these tidy '48 Buicks.
You soon discover that it's unnecessary to ease yourself over rough spots where ordinarily you would engage in a little extra clutch work, while many a little shudder that used to pass for clutch chatter has been wiped away.
In short, as one owner has put it, "Now it seems that Fireball power is wearing velvet gloves!"
Add all this to other things — to steady-going size and weight, to gentle coil springing, to big, cushiony low-pressure tires on the widest rims in the industry — and you've got something too good to miss.
So we suggest — get your hands on a '48 Buick, any '48 Buick, and see just what we mean.
You'll meet a ride story so sweetly convincing, you'll want to get an order in — but quick! And you can do that, you know, with or without a car to trade.
*Micropoise balancing is Buick's own method of scientifically balancing the complete engine after assembly to superfine limits.


SECRET OF THE VIBRA-SHIELDED RIDE
Two fat cushions of special composition, and placed with scientific accuracy, suspend the Buick engine at the points where vibration is most readily controlled. A third new mounting at the rear completes a precise system of controlling engine vibration frequencies. The result is to shield the entire car against vibration build-up and make a noticeably smoother ride.

The Federal Diary

by Jerry Kluttz

FBI Plans Return To 40-Hour Week To Avoid Firings

FBI: It must cut its staff an average of 837 employes during the new fiscal year that begins July 1. About half of the drop must be in this city. The Federal Bureau of Investigation now has 10,000 employes. It has funds for an average of 9163 for the 1949 fiscal year.

However, FBI officials hope not to lay off a single employe. They do not now plan to fire anyone to get within the smaller budget. The FBI staff is now on a 6-day, 48-hour week. On July 1 it will return to the 5-day, 40-hour week. This will mean a 20 per cent loss in income for the low-paid workers who get time-and-a-half for Saturday work. A number can be expected to resign voluntarily after the shift is made.

PAYDAY: The 600 employes in Commerce's Office of International Trade will get their delayed paychecks either Tuesday or Wednesday. Congress finally got around to enacting a deficiency bill which releases funds to pay them off.

However, the matter was complicated because all the checks must be recounted and rewritten because of the May 1 change in the withholding tax law.

G-GIRLS who live at Arlington Farms are opposed to any increase in their rents. Instead, a group of them has suggested that the service personnel be reduced—maids, recreational directors, and helpers—in order to cut operating costs. These girls say they would be glad to clean their own rooms to prevent higher rents. No rent increase has been officially ordered, but one is being talked about.

COMMERCE Secretary Sawyer has assured his employes that the personnel considerations under my "principle of merit will govern all administration." The new Secretary also told his employes:

"The Department of Commerce has an enviable reputation in the field of Government administration, and it is my earnest desire that this not only be maintained but raised to an even higher standard. You may be sure that my policies and actions as Secretary will be guided by the single objective of improving the many significant public services of this great agency during the critical period now confronting our country."

CENTRAL INTELLIGENCE has adopted a tough employe transfer policy. This super-secret intelligence won't release an employe who wants to transfer to another job within CIA, or to another Federal agency until:

A formal letter of release is given the employe, and that won't be given until a suitable replacement is on hand to assume the duties of the departing employe.

The order, which was signed by Lyman B. Kirkpatrick, acting chief of OO/C, (and what OO/C is I wouldn't know) also reveals that most Federal agencies have agreed not to hire CIA employes unless they are formally and officially released by CIA.

CIA is not under Civil Service and that's why it can get away with a semi-freeze of its employes in their present jobs. Civil Service abolished the release system shortly after the war's end.

STATE has informed Federal agencies that hereafter it will require its own security clearances of all Government employes who are designated as delegates to international conferences. After what happened at Bogota, the department is suspicious of everyone.

FHA: Maurice R. "Buzz" Massey will resign as assistant Federal Housing commissioner in charge of field operations. He will take a better paying job with a Philadelphia mortgage firm. Like other FHA officials, Massey began his Federal service in a low-paid job and worked himself up the ladder by his drive and ability. Warren Lockwood, another FHA career man, will succeed Massey.

NATIONAL ARCHIVES has given cash awards for worthwhile suggestions to Harry M. Forker, Willis A. Lambert, Leon D. Poyner and Louise O. Pettit . . . CAA: Members of the committee to plan an election of an employe member to the Civil Aeronautics efficiency rating board are: Marshall I. Stewart, Helen Schu, Andrew Frey, Mildred Grimm and J. L. Schaffer . . . HOUSING: The House Appropriation Committee has recommended that salaries of the Farm Credit governor and the Housing and Home Finance administrator be raised from $10,000 to $12,000 a year.

PUBLIC HOUSING: The legislative rider which requires it to limit salaries of $4500 and more to 30 per cent of its employes has been dropped by the House Appropriations Committee. The committee, however, said the PHA gives too much freedom to its regional offices. It urged that steps be taken immediately to bring about closer supervision of field operations.

At Cana Meeting

Priest Hits Selfishness In Marriage

"Marriage," the Rev. Edward P. Dowling of St. Louis said paradoxically last night, "is founded on two ugly things—justice and love."

Why are justice and love ugly? Because both put someone else first. Both place "somebody else ahead of that beautiful thing—me."

And what happens to marriage when couples strive "to get what they can out of each other?" Wedlock becomes "an experience in cooperative antagonism."

That, and a lot of other things on day-to-day relationships in marriage, was what Father Dowling disclosed at the final Cana conference of the season at the parish hall of St. Paul's Church, 15th and Vsts. nw. Cana conferences are a Nation-wide movement among Catholic married couples "to fit themselves more positively to achieve the full potentialities of their state."

Father Dowling, one of the Cana movement's founders, said he had yet to see a good marriage in the real meaning of the phrase. "What you think is a good marriage," he said, "probably is good people married."

Mutual "status" among a couple is gained by making the husband "feel superior to his obligations," and the wife having "someone near her who needs and wants her." If the wife can make her husband "feel big," he will in turn "need and want her."

An epidemic of sex literature, he said, is current today, but it fails to take into account the spiritual side of a married couple's sex life. Although it has been of some assistance, he said, it deals with sex problems "like trying to cure a stiff neck by taking a ride on cobblestones."

One question that stumped the nearly 200 persons present was answered by St. Thomas Aquinas and Geoffrey Chaucer centuries ago—"What do women most desire?"

The answer: "Sovereignty over their husbands as well as their love."

That is achieved, said Father Dowling, only after she has been submissive, with the ideal "mutual submission."

And both husband and wife are obedient to one another best, he declared, by being humble together in the face of another greater than both of them . . . Christ.

Divine Mary Is Held Only Hope for U. S.

Catholic U. Dean Stresses Need at Sodality Day Service

The growth of lawlessness and irreverance for authority will make the United States fourth-rate among Nations unless Mary, the mother of Christ, comes to our aid, the Rev. Ignatious Smith, O. P., declared yesterday.

Speaking at an observance of World Sodality Day at St. Matthew's Cathedral, Father Smith, dean of the department of Philosophy at Catholic University, said that the Nation would be "defeated in war and unstable in peace" if it had not been for the help of Mary.

"Our Nation and or church will have great need for the protection of Mary in the dark days which lie ahead," he declared. He called for her aid in resisting the growth of racial bigotry, and the internal aggressions of divorce and birth control.

Mary, he said, is the real mother of the Catholic Church. She is an inspiration toward victory in times of difficulty.

He paid tribute to Catholic institutions devoted to education and care of the sick, which are all possible because of the men and women who have consecrated themselves to devotion to Mary.

The Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, Archbishop of Washington, presided at the service. It was preceded by the annual May procession of children from Calvert School.

Notre Dame Sisters Celebrate Anniversary

The Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle yesterday presided at a solemn pontifical mass at St. Aloysius Church celebrating the seventy-fifth anniversary of the coming of the Sisters of Notre Dame de Namur to the parish.

A special section of the church was reserved for the Sisters and members of their families. Following the mass, an informal reception for alumnae of Notre Dame de Namur was held in the auditorium of Notre Dame Academy.

The mass was celebrated by the Very Rev. Neil J. Gargan, rector of St. Aloysius, with the Rev. Francis E. Garner as deacon and the Rev. John Berchmans Lanahan as subdeacon. The Rev. Ferdinand Wheeler of Woodstock College gave the sermon.

To Be Missionary

Girl of 21 Is Ordained As Minister

A life of mission work in China lies ahead for Marian Louise Duncan, 21, who last night was ordained into the ministry of the Disciples of Christ (Christian Church) at Alexandria.

Born in China while her parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Marion H. Duncan, were Christian missionaries there, Marian Louise came to this country when she was 5 years old. She moved to Alexandria from Bellefontaine, Ohio, six years ago, and later attended Mount Vernon High School there.

On June 7, Marian will be graduated from Lynchburg College, Lynchburg, Va. On that same day she will be married to Raymond Adams, 21 of Salem, Va., who also plans to become a missionary.

The two future missionaries met at Lynchburg College. Raymond will be ordained as a Christian minister at his home church in Salem on May 23.

For the past year, Marian's father has been in Tokyo as a civilian employe of the War Department. Shortly after the wedding, her mother, who now is in this country, will leave for Tokyo to join her husband.

As missionaries for the Christian Church, Marian Louise and Raymond will spend next year at Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., studying agriculture. The following year they will complete advanced religious and Bible training at the College of the Bible, Lexington, Ky.

After that, the two will study Chinese language and culture at Yale University for a year and then will spend six months interning in San Francisco's Chinatown before going to China to begin their mission work.

At the ceremonies last night at the First Christian Church, DeWitt and Raymond aves., Alexandria, the Rev. William H. Erskine, a former missionary in Japan, gave the prayer of ordination, the Rev. William Lineback, secretary of the Capital area Christian Missionary Society, gave the charge to the candidates and the Rev. Lloyd Black of the Ninth Street Christian Church, Washington, delivered the sermon of ordination. Raymond assisted in the service.

Five Youths Beat, Rob News Vendor On 14th St.

Wife Sees Assault; Three Suspects Held, One of Them Also Beaten, Robbed

A news vendor was beaten and robbed at 2 a. m. yesterday by five youths, one of whom was found beaten and apparently robbed nearby several hours later.

In another holdup-beating, a taxicab driver was yoked by two patients of St. Elizabeths Hospital, shortly after they escaped about 1 a. m. from the hospital with a home-made key.

The news vendor was Edward Alves, 1422 N st. nw., who was robbed of $60 while at his newsstand at 14th and Irving sts. nw.

His wife, witness to the assault, called police, who began a search of the neighborhood after getting descriptions of the quintet. They found two of the suspects, Bernard A. Smith, 21, of 607 N. Columbus st., Alexandria, and a 15-year-old boy in a lunchroom on 14th st.

In the alley beside the lunchroom they found a third alleged member of the group, Henry B. Mosby, 21, of 217 East Nelson ave., Alexandria, unconscious and robbed. All three youths were charged with robbery. The other two were still at large.

The cab driver, Samuel O. Goldman, 57, of 7392 Allentown rd., Allentown, Md., told police he picked up two passengers at 7th st. and Pennsylvania ave., se. about 1 a. m.

After riding around several hours, they reached 14th and N sts. nw., where they yoked and robbed him of $16. Several other cab drivers saw the attack and called for police as the two men fled on foot.

One of them, John Murphy, 47, was arrested near the scene and returned to St. Elizabeths Hospital. The other, Robert Burlgame, 36, was still at large. Hospital officials said they escaped shortly after midnight with a key they had managed to duplicate.

Doctor Dead, Drug Addict Held as Forger

A drug addict, who printed prescription forms and forged the name of his doctor, now dead, to get morphine, was arrested yesterday by District police.

Police first learned of the forged prescriptions when, on a routine check of drugstores, they found the forms signed by a doctor they knew to be dead.

The prescriptions were made out to Robert Jerome Dixon, 35, a radio repairman, of Marshall Hall, Md. At his home, police said they found a hand printing press and 300 printed blanks, duplicates of the forms once used by the doctor.

From Dixon, they learned this story:

Sometime ago, Dixon, suffering after eight operations, went to a southern Maryland doctor, who gave him prescriptions for morphine to ease his pain.

Last December, the doctor died and Dixon was unable to get the drug. In desperation, he made a plate, duplicating the doctor's forms, and with his hand press printed the blanks, wrote out the prescription and signed the doctor's name.

Motorcyclist, 19, Killed As He Flees Police Car

Runs From Between Cars . . .

The Washington Post

VICTIM—William R. Stewart, 5, of 702 17th st. ne., is placed on stretcher by Casualty Hospital ambulance driver after running into path of auto operated by Walter M. Collins, 58, of 1820 A st. ne. The boy suffered cuts and bruises

Youth Allegedly Passed Stop Light And Then Crashed Into Side of Taxicab

D. C. traffic deaths, 1948.....30
Total traffic deaths, 1947.....72

A 19-year-old youth was killed instantly yesterday when the motorcycle on which he was fleeing from police crashed into a taxicab. Another man died of injuries suffered last Wednesday when struck by a streetcar.

Their deaths brought the number of traffic fatalities in the District this year to 30 as compared to 28 this time last year.

W. R. Kelty

The motorcyclist, Robert Brooks, of 519 F st. ne., was pronounced dead on arrival at Casualty Hospital at 2 a. m. Police Scout Car Pvts. William C. Burkett and Thomas G. Quinn said they were chasing Brooks east on G st. se., when he failed to obey a stop sign at 11th st. se. They said he crashed head-on into the side of a taxicab.

Cab Driver Unhurt

Two soldiers in the cab, John Markinel, 18, and James McDonnall, 18, both of Bolling Field, were treated at Casualty Hospital for face cuts from flying glass. The cab driver, Lucius Pinkney, 32, of 704 Half st. se., was uninjured.

The pedestrian, William R. Kelty, sr., 44, of 1660 Trinidad ave. ne., died at noon at Casualty Hospital, where he was admitted last Wednesday with a skull fracture after being struck by a streetcar at 13th and H sts. ne.

Operator of the streetcar, James W. Ferguson, 27, of 2915 N st. se., will appear at a coroner's inquest in Kelty's death at noon today.

Employed as a photoengraver for the Advertisers Engraving Service at The Washington Post for the last two years, Kelty came here 21 years ago from Baltimore, where he was born. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Florence Kelty; a son, William R. Kelty, jr., and a daughter, Jean Kelty, all of Washington; his mother, Mrs. Emma Kelty, and a sister, Mrs. Esther Gibson, both of Baltimore, and a sister, Mrs. Grace Clark of Silver Spring, Md.

Inquest Set Today

A coroner's inquest will also be held today at 11:30 a. m. in the death of Bartholomew Shea, 80, of 705 6th st. nw., the District's twenty-eighth traffic fatality.

Shea died Saturday at St. Elizabeths Hospital of injuries received February 26, when he was struck at 6th and G sts. nw. by a streetcar, operated by Roy L. Mayo, 53, of 1834 4th st. ne.

William R. Stewart, 5, of 702 17th st. ne., received bruises when he ran from between parked cars into the path of an auto operated by Walter M. Collins, 58, of 1820 A st. se., on Benning rd. near 17th st. ne. The boy was treated at Casualty Hospital.

Boy Suffers Scratches

Two-year-old Donald Schupp, of 3941 Newdale rd., Chevy Chase, Md., received scratches when an auto, operated by Robert L. West, of 3935 Newdale rd., coasted backward and struck him while he was riding on his tricycle. The child required no hospital treatment.

Montgomery County Policeman Preston Walters, 34, of Evans pkwy., Silver Spring, Md., was admitted to the Washington Sanitarium, Takoma Park, Md., with several fractured ribs, a fractured collarbone and cuts and bruises.

Walters, who is attached to the Silver Spring substation, was injured when his motorcycle skidded on loose dirt on the Colesville pike while he was responding to a brush fire in Avenel.

Area Traffic Deaths Drop, Accidents Up in 1st Quarter

Fewer persons were killed in Greater Washington traffic accidents during the first four months of this year than in the same period last year. Collisions and injuries increased markedly.

Fatalities dropped to 51 in the first third of 1948, five less than January through April of last year, but there were 1093 more accidents and 241 more injuries.

There were 13 traffic deaths in Greater Washington last month, one fewer than in March. Accidents, however, increased from 1319 in March to 1426 in April. Forty-eight more persons were injured.

The District's five fatalities were one fewer than in the previous month and March, 1947. Injuries in April increased 43 over March, and accidents jumped 97.

Alexandria had no traffic deaths last month for the second time in a row, and Arlington County also went without a fatality. Montgomery County had one, Prince Georges three, and Fairfax County had four, one more than in March.

The figures, as compiled from the records, show:

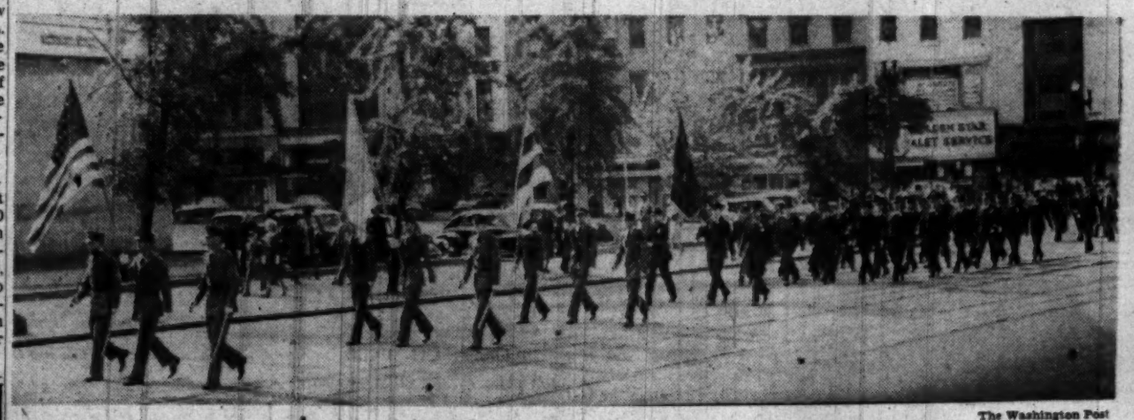
Police, Firemen at Mother's Day Breakfast Hear Plea for Draft



The Washington Post

Chief Murphy, John Russell Young and Maj. Barrett walk down the Aisle of St. Patrick's Representative Edward J. Devitt (R., Minn.) yesterday used a Mother's Day observance to answer the mothers among his constituents who have asked him not to support a military draft.

Addressing the fourteenth annual communion breakfast of the Catholic Police and Firemen's Society at the Casino Royal, Representative Devitt drew applause as he championed the resumption of selective service so that "this time" we would be prepared for war. He said he thought war "imminent" in two to five years.

The Congressman pleased his audience as he also spoke for the European Recovery Program, a "good, strong, stout Air Force," and a "tough policy in dealing with Stalin," to avert war.

Some 500 policemen and firemen, members of their families and local officials attended the breakfast, following an annual Mother's Day Communion mass celebration by Archbishop Patrick A. O'Boyle at St. Patrick's.

A parade by the two departments, sparked by the Police Band, marched from Knights of Columbus Hall, 920 10th st. nw., to the church prior to the mass. They were reviewed by the Archbishop from a rectory balcony. Color guards were provided by the two departments and by St. John's College cadets. Marshals of the parade, which was resumed for a march to the breakfast, were Police Lieut. John F. Ryan and Deputy Fire Chief Joseph A. Mayhew.

The Archbishop commended the firemen and policemen for their "remarkable service" to the city, and said there was probably no group in the country formed for a higher purpose than the Police and Firemen's Society. He welcomed District Commissioner John Russell Young and the other officials.

The Rev. Thomas B. Dade, assistant pastor of St. Patrick's the founder and chaplain of the Society, spoke of the good effects of the Catholic and Protestant Police and Firemen's Societies on the relationships between the departments.

"Chief (Robert J.) Barrett and Chief (Clement) Murphy get together now, and fight together, too, even against the newspapers," he joked. "As soon as Bob gets on the front page, Murphy gets jealous. I'll bet in two weeks he'll get there again."

Msgr. Patrick J. Ryan, Army deputy chief of chaplains and a veteran of the campaigns in Africa and Italy, said it was fitting for the group to commemorate Mother's Day, as the servicemen did during the war, "as you live a life of danger."

Area News in Brief

2 D. C. Policemen Win Pistol Honors

Two "sharpshooters" from the Metropolitan Police force yesterday outclassed 20 teams from the Washington and Baltimore areas to win top honors at the two-day pistol match held at Stemmer's Run pistol range near Baltimore.

Lieut. J. B. Layton, head of a special team of the Homicide Squad, won the grand aggregate of the .22, .38 and .45-caliber pistol matches.

Layton

Pvt. R. D. Marshall of the 12th Precinct, took second place in the grand aggregate matches.

In team matches, the D. C. Police first four-man team won the .22-caliber match on a 50-yard range yesterday, and the second team of 4 men won second place in the .38-caliber pistol matches on Saturday. Results of the competition are officially registered with the National Rifle Association headquarters here, Sergt. S. R. McKee, who was in charge of the teams, said.

Lieutenant Layton, who won six placques at the matches, shot on Saturday with Officers Marshall, B. R. Campbell and J. H. Barron, both of the Thirteenth Precenct. Members of the team yesterday, besides Layton and Marshall, included Officers M. I. Bridges of the First Precinct and R. B. McMayhill of the Second Precinct.

Postlude

Rare Talent Displayed by Child Pianist

By Donald Engle

The gifted young American composer-pianist, Phillipa Schuyler, presented a recital of unusual interest yesterday afternoon at the Asbury Methodist Church, under the auspices of the Washington Metropolitan Council of the National Council of Negro Women.

Miss Schuyler, not yet 17, is a child prodigy who has been playing and composing since she was 3. In her program of representative works by Scarlatti, Franck, Chopin, Brahms and Ravel, she displayed a technical virtuosity well beyond her years, but more important and more rare, she has a thorough understanding of the composer's intentions, and the ability to subjugate her own personality in expressing them through the language of music. Her playing of several Chopin pieces, and Ravel's Jeux d'Eau, was particularly imaginative and expressive.

Her creative talents were forcefully displayed in three compositions of her own. Two of them, Manhattan Nocturne, and Rumpelstilskin, have won national prizes in her orchestral version, while the other, Maelstrom, based on the familiar tale of Poe, shows an even greater ability in developing musical ideas and portraying a descriptive mood.

Her recital yesterday was proof that Miss Schuyler is one of the most promising and most precocious young artists in our country today, with an extremely promising career ahead of her.

Richard Bales Conducts Gallery Orchestra

Richard Bales conducted the National Gallery Orchestra last night in the second of a series of five Sunday evening programs devoted to American music.

Three works were listed as first performances anywhere, while two were first hearings in Washington. Of the former, Gardner Read's Quiet Music for Strings exploited to the fullest extent the darker sonorities of the string choir, while the three brief movements of Mabel Daniels' Digressions for Strings provided an interesting contrast in mood within the limits of string color. Mrs. Daniels was present to acknowledge the very warm applause of a typically appreciative Gallery audience.

Ulusses Kay's Brief Elegy for Oboe and Strings was also given its first public performance, with Leonard Shifyrin as soloist. Actually, the solo line is generally submerged into the tonal fabric of the whole, since the oboe lacks sufficient contrast to stand out from the violins, but this may be exactly the effect the composer wished to achieve.

First Washington hearings were given Eric DeLamarter's witty curtain-raiser, the Huckleberry Finn Overture, and Godfrey Turner's Chorale, from Trinity Concerto. If the latter was intended to have any relation to a known chorale tune, it was not apparent, nor will its somber setting be likely to garner much popular interest.

Virgil's Thomson's suite, The Plow That Broke the Plains, and Richard Bales' arrangements of three early American songs, had both been presented at the Gallery previously, and were well received again by yesterday's audience.

The brightest spot on the whole program was the closing suite of fiddler's tunes, by George Frederick McKay, played with obvious relish by the orchestra, and lapped up like whipped cream by listeners who must have found the general mood of the entire listings on the dark side.

'American Day' To Be Celebrated At Conference

Observance of "I Am An American Day" May 16 will highlight opening of the third National Conference on Citizenship, which opens here next Sunday, to run through May 19.

The conference, jointly sponsored by the Department of Justice and the National Education Association, will hold sessions at the Interior Department Building, with about 1000 delegates expected to be in attendance.

Honorary chairman of the conference will be former Supreme Court Justice Charles Evans Hughes. General theme is "Citizenship — Responsibilities and Rights." Related problems to be considered by delegates will be the "World-Minded American Citizen," "Basic Human Rights and Attendant Responsibilities" and "Citizenship in Action in the Local Community."

'Boys' Godwin's Topic

"Our Boys and Their America" will be discussed by Earl Godwin, radio commentator, at the monthly luncheon of the Opti-Mrs. Club today at 12:30 o'clock in the Sky Room of the Washington Hotel. Plans for a silver tea for the benefit of the Boys Club of Washington will be discussed at the luncheon.

Dogs to Be Vaccinated

Clinics to provide free dog vaccination against rabies will be conducted in Prince Georges County, Md., for the fifth successive year, County Veterinarian C. J. Gibbs of Upper Marlboro announced yesterday. The clinics will be sponsored by Prince Georges County commissioners and the Livestock Sanitary Service.

The vaccinations, Gibbs said, are effective for only one year and all dogs therefore should be vaccinated again this year, even though they were vaccinated last year. About 60 per cent of the dog population of the county was vaccinated last year.

Dates and places for the clinics, Gibbs said, will be announced soon.

Franchise Referendum

Referendum on renewal of the Potomac Electric Power Co. franchise in Hyattsville for another 10 years will be held in the Hyattsville firehouse from 9 a. m. to 7 p. m. today. The referendum is a formality required by the city charter.

The city council has voted to request the Maryland Legislature to make the franchise permanent, revocable on six months' notice by either the city or by the utility.

Hearings on Streets

Hyattsville City Council will hold public hearings at 8 tonight in the council hall on improvement of six streets in the West Hyattsville area.

Thirty-sixth ave. from Hamilton st. to its northern terminus would be paved and curbs and gutters constructed. Other improvements call for construction of sidewalks on the north side of Hamilton st. from Queens Chapel rd. to 36th ave.; Jefferson st. from Queens Chapel rd. to 36th ave.; Lancer dr. from Queens Chapel rd. to 35th pl.; 35th ave. from Hamilton st. to Lancer dr., and 35th pl. from Jefferson st. to Lancer dr.

Quads Hail Mother's Day . . .

By Charles DelVecchio—The Washington Post

GREETINGS—Cirminello quads greet their "Mommy" with impromptu greeting on Mother's Day morn at their home at 1633 Colonial terrace, Arlington. Left to right on the stairs are: Kathleen, Maureen, Michael and Eileen. Daddy is Joseph A. Cirminello, a corporation analyst for the Securities and Exchange Commission

The mothers of the Nation yesterday were saluted with special sermons and services in many of Washington's churches.

President Truman marked Mother's Day by sending a basket of flowers to the First Baptist Church, 16th and O sts. nw, in memory of his mother, Mrs. Martha Ellen Truman, who died last year. The President himself was unable to attend the services.

The Rev. Edward Hughes Pruden, pastor of the church which the President often attends, said Mr. Truman "asked for the privilege of providing the flowers from the White House garden."

In his sermon, Mr. Pruden stated that "Christian homes are the beason lights against darkness. The greatest community work a woman can do is to rear her children in the fear and admiration of the Lord," he declared.

He deplored the forces which are at work today to destroy the home, and urged that the Christian home be maintained as the principal factor which will "maintain the greatness of the Nation."

"It is our honor to pay tribute to the qualities of soul rather than the biological fact of motherhood," the Rev. Lloyd Black said in his sermon at the Ninth Street Christian Church.

The true mark of honorable motherhood is the "sacrificial spirit" and "thread of love" which runs through every phase of a mother's associations with her family, friends, church, and society at large, he stated. "This must be maintained and defended if we are to retain the greatness which is the true American democracy," Mr. Black concluded.

The Rev. Fred Sherman Buschmeyer called for "not once-a-year trinkets but everyday thoughtfulness" for mother in his sermon at Mount Pleasant Congregational Church.

"As the family goes, so goes the final success or failure of all our domestic and world political and economic policy," he declared. "No society can improve itself by failing to recognize that the basic unit is still the human family," he said.

"If only organized pressure groups would see families above and beyond their own narrow interests, our domestic and world problems would be much more happily solved." Mr. Buschmeyer asserted.

At Grace Lutheran Church, the summer schedule of services was initiated yesterday. At the morning worship, Dr. Gerhard E. Lenski declared that "family life is the way of life which God has ordained —the way he wanted his earthly children to live."

"In last week's national conference on family life a glittering array of speakers gave expression to this same truth," Pastor Lenski said. "If you do not learn love and affection at home the chanches are that you will learn it nowhere else in this world. The home is the source of the greatest earthly happiness, it is a place of refuge from the worst storms that blow."

The Rev. C. Stanley Lowell, pastor of Wesley Methodist Church, devoted his Mother's Day sermon to a plea for discipline. "Americans are living in a fool's paradise, supposing that we can preserve our democracy with loose morals, a disintegrating family life, and self-interest taking precedence over public welfare."

"The most conspicuous failure of discipline has been in the home," he asserted. "It is much easier to let a child go than to discipline him," he continued. "Yet to be a good parent is the most distinguished accolade a person can win. If one fails there, no other success can compensate."

Mrs. Richman Is Dead at 37; Wife of Rabbi

Mrs. Mariam Blum Richman, 37, wife of Rabbi Paul Richman, director of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, died at 9:50 o'clock last night at Homeopathic Hospital.

Mrs. Richman was well known in New York and Washington art circles. An exhibit of her oil paintings closed in New York on March 5. Among her oils is a portrait of Secretary of State Marshall.

Mrs. Richman was born in Cleveland and came to Washington with her husband about 10 years ago.

At the age of 5 in Cleveland she went to the Tucker School of Expression to study dramatics, then to Western Reserve University, and finally to Carnegie Tech where she received a fine arts degree. She also did sculpturing and water colors as well as oil painting.

Her home was in Kensington, Md.

Besides her husband, she is survived by a daughter, Paullette, aged 6; a son, Roger; all of Washington; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Saul Blum; two brothers, Leonard and Roger Blum; and a sister, Miss Helaine Blum, all of Cleveland.

Joseph E. Atkinson

Toronto, May 9 (AP).—Joseph E. Atkinson, 82, owner and publisher of the Toronto Daily Star, died at his home last night.

Death was caused by heart trouble.

His death closed a notable publishing career which began in 1899 when he was invited by a group of Toronto liberals to head the Star, then a small and struggling paper. He had learned newspaper work first on the weekly Port Hope Times, later as a political reporter on the Toronto Globe and managing editor of the Montreal Herald.

Under Atkinson's ownership the Daily Star grew to its present circulation of about 350,000 and the Star Weekly, published Saturdays, to a circulation of about 900,000.

Barbershop Singers Plan Busy Week

The Potomac Clippers, members of the Washington Chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America, Inc., are in for a busy week.

The Clippers, who recently won top honors in the Midatlantic States contest in Carnegie Hall, will entertain the Mount Pleasant Businessmen's Association Monday night, the Silver Spring Board of Trade on Tuesday, the Kenwood Citizens Association on Wednesday and will be the guests of Johnny Bradford on his WNBW television show Thursday night.

Next month they plan to go to Oklahoma City to compete in the international quartet contest.

Community Service Plans to Be Studied

Brooks Potter, president of Family Service Association of America, will discuss the responsibilities and opportunities for members of the community in family service at the annual meeting of the Family Service Association of Washington Wednesday at 4:30 o'clock in the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Inka Taki Trio Sings For Guests at Embassy

By Marie McNair

Peru's Inka Taki Trio which has been dancing and singing for a number of years, here and abroad, put on a program yesterday for a hundred or so guests of the Peruvian Ambassador and Senora de Ferreyros who entertained at cocktails at the embassy. The singers dressed in rich velvets embroidered in jewels worn with Peruvian silver headdresses and ornaments, enchanted an audience which had gathered in the garden. They sat under gay red, green and white umbrellas sheltering tables set out on the rolling lawn.

Before that there were cocktails served inside and the afternoon wasn't over until the singers appeared again in the drawing room with an additional group of songs and Indian dances.

The last of the dogwood, Senora de Ferreyros said,, she had picked to arrange as a lacelike screen before a picture window looking out on the terrace and the greensward with its backdrop of waving trees. The bar was on the terrace and a buffet offered native Peruvian tea time accompaniments, along with wafer-thin slices of turkey and ham and strawberry ice cream and cake.

Hostess Wears Print

Suiting her costume to the day, Senora de Ferreyros wore a print frock with pink flowers on a background of black scrolls. Senorita Ana Rosa, daughter of the house, had chosen a print, too, of fuchsia and white in a close all-over design.

"What a nice idea this is," more than one guest remarked, for the Ambassador to let his amigos Americanos learn something of his native land in this pleasant way. The Dominican Ambassador, Luis Thoman, who's young and progressive, hopes to do the same thing before long and he has in mind a violinist, still a student, who give promise of being a virtuoso.

Countess Szechenyi, lorgnette in hand, was dressed in navy blue gown and hat and sat with Col. and Mrs. Robert Guggenheim, Polly also in dark blue with pink flowers on her hat.

English Visitor Here

Miss Frederica Montague, who's an English visitor, staying with Ana Rosa Ferreyros, stood on the terrace, and others who preferred that vantage point were Robert Hadow, counselor of the British Embassy who's soon to leave for San Francisco to be Consul General; William Dawson, United States Ambassador to the Pan American Union, and William Sanders of the State Department, and Mrs. Sanders.

The Colombian Ambassador and Senora de Restrepo brought along their pretty daughter, Elena, and the Baraibar sisters—Anita and Teresa, daughters of the charge d'affaires of Spain.

Dark eyed Zulita Fernandez-Davila, was with her father, the Minister-Counselor of the embassy, and also from the embassy staff were Carlos Alzamora and Senora de Alzamora, smart in stiff blue bengaline, and Carol Gibson and Senora de Gibson who wore a blue, green and black patterned frock.

Admiral and Mrs. Clarke Woodward dwere there, Mrs. Woodward in a trim navy blue suit, and others were Will Clayton, Col. and Mrs. Charles Martin, Mr. and Mrs. James Souby, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Morris; Judge Clarence Norton Goodwin; Mrs. Goodwin in sheer black, and their son, Norton who was busy focusing his camera on the singers.

Then there were Senora Julia McLean, the Guatemalan Ambassador and his pretty wife with a turquoise blue turban wound about her dark hair; Mrs. Randolph Huntington Miner in brown and white print, squired by Paul Murphy of the Pan American Union and Bill Comby; Senorita Elena Calderon with pink cabbage roses on her hat; Dr. Carl Seegar, Mr. and Mrs. William T. Bennett, jr., Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Mills and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Dreyfus.

Bachelor Gives Party

From the Peruvian Embassy I looked in on a Georgetown bachelor's party at Edward Weintal's little white house on 34th st. with a bricked garden and green and white striped fence.

I found the host tanned from a morning on his boat; his guests relaxing with drinks at small tables outside.

Mrs. John Paterson said she had been working in her garden most of the day, but she looked as fresh as the proverbial daisy and ever so smart in a fitted black satin suit. Mrs. Lee Murphy was there and Rafal Lepkowski, Teddy Weintal's old friend since both were on the staff of the Polish Embassy several years ago.

Arthur Vandenberg, jr., who lives not far away on N st., dropped in and I met Mrs. Peter Dewey in a becoming print frock; Comdr. F. H. E. Hopkins, Naval Air Attache of the British Embassy; Mrs. James L. Houghteling and Elim O'Shaunessey, who has just bought the former Harry Hopkins house in Georgetown.

Card Party Is Benefit

The annual card party for the benefit of the Episcopal Church Home on Wisconsin ave., is to be held Wednesday at the Shoreham from 2 to 6 under the patronage of representative women of Washington who always turn out in goodly numbers for this favorite cause.

With Washington inaugurating practically a new industry, that of exhibiting its houses and gardens, what more fitting than to help maintain the home, where many who for one cause or another have lost their own homes now find shelter. Among the treasures that some fortunate guest at the card party may acquire is a lovely patchwork donated by Mrs. John Sevier and fashioned while she and Mr. Sevier were in the international circle in Paris. Mrs. Sevier has established the" John Sevier Foundation," the nucleus of which is the old Georgian mansion, one of the finest in Washington, where she makes her home, and which will someday be an addition to the church home. Built in Georgetown by one of the Maryland Bowies, it has had as its guests Lafayette and Thomas Jefferson. Mr. Sevier, who purchased it some years ago, was the great-grandson of the first Governor of Tennessee—John Sevier.

Patronesses for this coming party, under Mrs. William Channing Johnson, chairman of the entertainment committee, include Mrs. James L. Houghteling, Mrs. ZeBarney Phillips, Mrs. Charles Stanley White, Mrs. Luther Sheldon, Mrs. Frederick M. Brooke, Mrs. David Sellers, Mrs. Ralph Sabin, Mrs. A. P. Niblack, Mrs. Camp Stanley, Mrs. William R. Castle, Mrs. A. R. Shands, Mrs. Chester Wells, Mrs. Charles McVay, jr., Mrs. Edward B. Meigs, Mrs. William F. Pearson, Mrs. G. Lynn Woodruff, Miss Emily Matthews, Mrs. Powell Minnegerode, Mrs. A. H. Cousins, Mrs. Finley Calvert, Mrs. T. Nelson Conrad, Mrs. Paul Johnson, Miss Vera Bloom, Mrs. Arthur Chichester, Miss Bertha Looker, Mrs. Sevier, Mr. and Mrs. James Green and Henry P. Blair.

Mrs. Jacqueline Marshall, telephone Emerson 2235, has charge of the selling of tickets.

In Bridal Procession

Mitchell—McPherson

The marriage of Miss Evelyn Ann McPherson to Raymond Eugene Mitchell took place on May 1 in the Church of the Nativity. The Rev. Walter J. Norris officiated.

Mrs. Mitchell is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henry McPherson of Aquasco, Md. Her husband's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Raymond L. Mitchell.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore white marquisette and lace. An orange blossom headdress held her fingertip veil and she carried roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Margaret M. McPherson, maid of honor for her sister, wore a yellow gown and carried yellow roses. The bridesmaids were Miss Dorothy McPherson, wearing orchid, and Miss Shirley Hughes, gowned in nile green.

Charles Herbert was best man and the ushers were Jack McPherson and Jack Maggio. A reception followed at the home of the bridegroom's parents. On return from their motor trip through the South, Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell will be at home in Washington.

Rosenfeld—Talpalar

Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Talpalar announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Eleanor Talpalar, to Samuel Vay Rosenfeld, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Rosenfeld. The ceremony took place on May 2, at Hotel 2400, Rabbi Solomon H. Metz officiating.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was costumed in white slipper satin with seed pearl trimmings. Her veil was held by a seed pearl tiara and she carried a fan of gardenias, lilies of the valley and a white orchid. Mrs. Wolfe Filderman, matron of honor, wore a navy blue lace gown and carried Brandywine roses. The bridesmaids were Miss Rita Rosenfeld, a sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Esther Resnick. They both wore pale blue lace and carried Brandywine roses. Arnold Seigel was best man and the ushers were Vay Talpalar, Morton Silberstein, Avron Maser and Alfred Burka. The newlyweds will spend their honeymoon in New York and Bermuda.

Thacker—Tarr

Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church was the scene of the marriage on April 30 of Miss Betty Lou Tarr to Joseph Thacker. The Rev. John W. Rustin officiated.

The bride is the granddaughter of Joseph Thacker of Washington and of Mrs. Joseph W. Jefferson of Saint Michaels, Md.

Attendants for the couple were Mrs. Mary M. Parker and Aubrey Thacker. A reception followed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Thacker. The newlyweds will return from their motor trip through the South to reside in Washington.

Horner—Paris

Fort Myer Chapel was the scene of the wedding Saturday of Miss Mary D. Paris, daughter of Michael Paris, of Rochester, N. Y., and James Russell Horner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Arnold Horner, sr., of Flint, Mich. The Rev. Anthony I. DeMaria, S. J., of Fordham University, officiated at the 6 o'clock ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white eyelet embroidered organdy fashioned with a draped skirt and long sweeping train. Her veil was of silk illusion attached to a Mary Queen of Scots headdress, and she carried a white prayer book overlaid with a white orchid and streamers of lilies of the valley.

The matron of honor, Mrs. George M. Warnke, wore an eyelet frock of pink silk fashioned like that of the bride. Her headdress was a halo of pink net, and she carried an old-fashioned bouquet of white sweetpeas. The bridesmaids, who were similarly attired, were Miss Delia T. Reddington and Miss Bernetta Leiden.

F. A. Horner, jr., was his brother's best man and the ushers included Carl S. Paris and Donald M. Paris, brothers of the bride. A reception followed at the Officers' Club, Naval Gun Factory. After a wedding trip, the couple will reside in Philadelphia.

Vogel—Deamer

Memorial Methodist Church in Hyattsville, Md., was the scene of the marriage on May 1 of Miss Violet Mary Deamer of Lewiston, Pa., to John Walter Vogel of Hyattsville. The Rev. Harry Evaul officiated.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Lewis A. Deamer of Detroit, Mich., and Miss Margaret Haley was maid of honor. Mrs. Vogel chose for her wedding a navy blue dress with a white flowered hat and a corsage of white roses. F. Lester Vogel was best man for his brother. On return from their wedding trip to the Pocono Mountains and Lewiston, Mr. and Mrs. Vogel will be at home in Berwyn, Md.

Miss Mackall to Be Spring Debutante

One of this spring's debutantes, Miss Anne Mackall, will graduate from Madeira in June. She is the daughter of Mrs. Charles Green Mackall and the late Mr. Mackall of Washington and The Lawn, Greenwich, Va.

A buffet supper and dance planned for Miss Mackall will be postponed until later, owing to the death of her grandmother, Mrs. John Hill Carter Beverley of Selby, The Plains, Va. The dance was to have been given in June at her grandmother's house.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Widowed, Then Divorced, Girl of 26 Is Crux Of Dispute Between Mother and Grandmother; Latter Would Forbid Girl to Have Men Friends

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Our daughter Jane, 26, is once a widow and once a divorcee; and she and her daughter, a lovely child, now almost 2 years old, live with us. Also we have a son, Jimmie, now 16.

Six years ago Jane married John, who was then a bomber pilot. He was a wonderful lad, fine, understanding, kind, everything one could want in a son. Jane had met him in college, and after they married, she started housekeeping near his training station, where they lived for six months.

John was killed on his first mission and Jane came home a broken-hearted girl. She went back to work; things seemed to go pretty well for a while; and then, as her girl friends' husbands and beaux began drifting back from the service, she seemed more mixed-up than ever.

Second Husband Deserted Bride

SHE STARTED going out with boys, but none interested her until Bob came home. She'd known him in college, too, but he just wasn't good for her. He was everything that John wasn't, but despite our pleading and reasoning, she married him. Four months later Bob deserted her and again Jane came home, this time to get a divorce and await the birth of her child.

Now for my problem: At Christmas, an old school friend of Jane's, in town for the holidays, came to call on her and took her to a show that evening. My husband's mother (Jane's grandmother) was here, and after Jane and her friend had gone out, Gran took me to task severely.

She said I was a terrible mother, allowing Jane to go out; asked me what kind of mother I am for my son, etc., and said that Jane never should be allowed out with another man. I disagreed with her and she is still provoked. Did I do wrong?

V. N.

Grandmother's Being Stuffy

DEAR V. N.: Gran is a stuffy creature, it seems, whose concepts of social mores binding on womanhood are borrowed from nineteenth century patterns of genteel conduct exemplified by royal queens of that era: hence her conviction that a granddaughter of hers should renounce the world and address herself wholly to family duties, related good works and spiritual pursuits, in the event of widowhood and/or a husband's desertion.

This is the kindest construction I can put on her rigid pronouncement that Jane never should be allowed out with a man again. Her agitation over Jane's casual outing with a friend in town for the holidays, which exploded in a scathing indictment of your character and judgment, is absurd.

On Jane's behalf may I say: The fact that John was killed in battle and that Bob deserted her and their unborn child can't be adduced as circumstantial evidence that she is fit subject for custodial restraint! As a divorced woman, 26 years old, Jane is legal mistress of her actions and eligible to court from interested eligible men, and Gran can't reasonably argue anything to the contrary.

Maybe Mother Coddles Girl

AS FOR your position, it is my impression that you are an exceedingly conscientious mother, although it's possible you err on the side of coddling your children too much, perhaps loving them with more warmth than wisdom, with the result that, as long as you live, they may feel free to act foolhardily, on the theory that it's mother's pleasure to rush to the rescue and pick up the pieces if things go smash.

In any event, it was your privilege to defend yourself and Jane against Gran's censorious attack; she was grossly discourteous in precipitating the scene, and is behaving badly in seething about it since. All things considered, my advice is: Don't take her seriously. You're not under obligation to justify yourself to her, and when you realize that, you'll stop feeling defensive.

Soapy Water for Clothesline

Can a clothesline be washed in soap without having it shrink? Just wiping it has not done away with the dirt. P. B. R.

It is not clear to me whether you mean immersing the clothesline in soapy water to wash it, or washing it with soap as it hangs. However, if you meant to immerse the line in soapy water, this sometimes develops into a difficult job. The line will shrink somewhat, but it will also kink and tangle. Rather than immerse it, I would suggest you rub it thoroughly with a soapy cloth as it hangs, following this rubbing with a cloth wrung out of clear water. When finished the line may not look clean, but if you are thorough in rubbing it, both with the soapy cloth then rinse cloth all the dirt will be removed which would come off onto the clothes.

I have a pottery bowl which can be used either as a vase or casserole. It has a crack in it just big enough to let liquids leak through. Is there any way of stopping up this crack without marring its appearance? P. B. R.

For use as a vase, the crack could be closed by applying china cement to it on the inside of the bowl. If the crack is not too wide, this cement would probably make it usable as a casserole too.

I would like some advice on how to dye a sweater. It is yellow and I would like to make it gray. If this cannot be done, I'd like to know how it may be tinted to make it a brighter shade.

If you wish the sweater a medium or darker gray, you can probably dye it successfully without first removing all color from the sweater. However, if you wish a pearly gray or light gray, you will achieve a truer color by first removing the yellow. Buy the color remover where you buy your dyes and follow the directions which come with the kind you buy. If you do not remove the color, wash the sweater well, rinsing very thoroughly to remove every trace of soap. Prepare the dye according to directions on the package. Be sure to use a large enough utensil for the dye bath so that the sweater can be completely immersed without crowding. Dip wet sweater in the dye bath, stirring constantly and allowing to remain until color you wish is attained. All colors look darker when wet, so dye it a little darker than you wish the dry sweater to be. Remove from dye and rinse in successive waters until rinse water is clear. Spread flat on a bath towel and adjust to the original measurements, allowing to dry in this position. If you wish to tint it to a brighter yellow, dip the freshly washed and rinsed sweater in bright yellow dye solution following directions given above.

I am planning to give a party on June 14 for my daughter who will be 5 years old that day. The party will be held on my back lawn which is rather large. I should appreciate your suggesting refreshments and games for 8 to 12 boys and girls. Can you refer me to any books on games and parties for childrpn? T. T. S.

Serving ice cream and cake seems as much a part of a birthday party as singing "Happy Birthday." However, to make these old favorites a little different, you could serve the ice cream in cones. (Many drug stores will sell the cones separately.)

Where party refreshments are concerned, here's another idea worth mentioning: Because of the ruinous effect of ice cream and cake eaten in the late afternoon on dinner appetites, some mothers plan to invite the guests for the late afternoon hours and precede the cake and ice cream with sandwiches and a simple fruit or vegetable salad. For an out-of-door party, this could be set up in picnic style and would add to the afternoon's fun.

For games, you could start the party on a gay note with "Huntsman and Hounds." Divide the players into two packs of hounds. Each pack selects a leader, the Huntsman, who is given a basket. Before the party, hide packages of peanuts (several peanuts tied together in bright paper so they are easier to find) throughout the yard. (Semiinflated balloons could be hidden instead of the peanuts.) At a signal, the hounds start in pairs to find the packages of peanuts. When they find a package they do not touch it, but bark until their leader (the Huntsman) comes to collect it. The Huntsman must learn to recognize the barking of his hounds. When rival hounds find the same package of nuts they both bark, the Huntsman getting there first gets the nuts. The team which gets the most nuts wins.

Or, a similar game which is simpler, is Big Game Hunt. Hide animal crackers (wrapped in wax paper) around the yard. The child finding the largest number wins the prize.

Relays are fun out-of-doors. Divide the group again into teams and provide each team with a spoon, a saucer containing two beans for each player. The first saucer is placed on a chair at the starting line, the second on a chair at the turning point. At the signal, each Captain carries two beans on the spoon to the empty saucer, places them there, returns, passes the spoon to the next player and so on. Only the spoon may touch the beans.

"The Complete Book of Games" by Clement Wood and Gloria Goddard (published by Garden City Publishing Co., Inc., Garden City, N. Y.) contains games for all ages. "Year Around Party Book" by William P. Young and Horace J. Gardner (by J. B. Lippincott Co., Philadelphia) has lots of party ideas and games.

Is there any way to prevent the peeling off of the veneer of modern blond furniturt, or to cover the peeled-off spots, short of removnig the entire veneer? U. S. G.

You might be able to fill in the peeled-off spots in your veneer if they are not too large. Use a stick shellac in a color to exactly match the color of the wood. This is applied to the damaged spot with a heated tool such as a cheap screwdriver. When the shellac is softened place it in the break, working it in well with the finger. Apply more than enough to fill the spot and the excess, when hard, is shaved away with a razor blade or chisel. The surface is then smoothed with fine sandpaper and polished. Stick shellac can be purchased at most paint stores. Removing the entire veneer is not a solution to such a problem, for the wood under the veneer is not at all attractive. Patching the small spots when they appear will do much to prevent their becoming larger. Also, keeping a good protective coat of wax on the piece will help to keep it in good condition.

What You Eat Is Important When Dieting

By Ida Jean Kain

Some overweights could reduce more efficiently and faster by eating more food! How's that again, you're apt to ponder at this paradoxical statement. It's this way . . . Dame nature is a very thrifty lady, and when we cut down too low on calories, she eventually stops using as many.

We'll take a specific case . . .

"I've been on a diet since January 7. I have only one meal a day, supper, containing 500 to 600 calories. When I first went on a diet, I weighed 224 pounds. Now, March 2, I weigh 200 pounds and I stay at that weight in spite of so few calories. Some days I don't even have my supper . . . just a half cucumber or a few stalks of celery. Please tell me what is wrong. I am 5 feet 10 inches tall."

By taking so few calories, our courageous, but foolish, reducer has thrown her system into low gear, and fewer calories are used. Scientifically, this is what happens—on a prolonged low-calorie diet, the body adjusts itself to running with less fuel by lowering the metabolism . . . slowing down the internal body processes.

To reduce, you must take fewer calories than you use daily. Right? The greater the difference between the amount eaten and the amount used daily, the more weight you can expect to lose, for weight is lost when stored fat is tapped for energy.

So what should our overweight in this case do? Eat more food! She is seriously endangering her health by this starvation method. The body cannot run for long without food—she is breaking down her body tissues . . . that occurs at starvation levels.

She should also shift into high with more protein . . . ½ pound of lean meat a day, not fried; 2 eggs, not fried; a pint of skim milk or buttermilk, and an ounce of cheese, furnish over 90 grams of protein. She should have a dark green leafy vegetable, and two thin slices of bread.

Have You Tried These . . .?

Add a half-cup of coarsely chopped sweet pickle and a teaspoon of grated onion to a fish loaf to give it piquant flavor.

When servings of meat for dinner are going to be small, serve eggs for breakfast or lunch to add to the family's day's supply of protein.

Grated American cheese is excellent added to French dressing or mayonnaise and used on a cooked vegetable salad. Serve on a bed of crisp greens such as escarole, chicory, watercress.

Grind leftover meat, moisten it with any leftover gravy, season as desired and put in a greased casserole, top with rounds of baking powder biscuit dough and bake in a hot oven.

Fried bananas will help make a main course hearty. Serve them with chicken, veal, ham.

Keeps It Well

When putting away the uncooked pie crust to be used a few days later, brush it all over with shortening and then wrap in a piece of waxed paper and put in the refrigerator. This method will prevent drying out.

To the Members of the United States Senate

Honorable Sirs: We respectfully submit to your consideration the wording of Bill H. R. 4068; or, as it is listed in the Senate Documentary records, S. 1634, concerning the proposed General Accounting Office Building. If you vote for this Bill as it stands because of the wording "to construct UPON Square 518," you are voting for the condemnation of St. Mary, Mother of God, Church, School, Convent and Rectory located on 5th Street, N.W., between G and H Streets. The word UPON signifies authorization to take over the entire Square 518. We plead with you, therefore, to insist that the amendment which has been proposed at the Senate Public Hearings on this Bill, and taken under advisement by the Committee, be included in the Bill. We have been assured by the Federal Works Administration that the church property will not be taken over, but at the same time they are proposing a Bill which is condemnatory of our Church. Therefore, we ask you to include the following amendment in the Bill: Insert after line 7 on page 1 of H. R. 4068 the following words: "Land heretofore acquired in." This will make the entire context read: "The Federal Works Administrator is hereby authorized to construct upon land heretofore acquired in Square 518 in the District of Columbia a building for the use and occupancy of the General Accounting Office."

WE ESPECIALLY APPEAL TO THE MEMBERS OF THE PUBLIC WORKS COMMITTEE TO PRESENT THE BILL WITH THE AMENDMENT

Junior Police To Open Drive For $25,000

The Junior Police and Citizens' Corps will launch a drive Friday to raise $25,000 operating funds.

Founded by Police Pvt. Oliver A. Cowan to take children off the streets and give them a feeling of responsibility in caring for their community, the organization now numbers 13,000 youths.

Central headquarters are at 720 Barry pl. nw. and there are 181 field units. A number of the neighborhood clubrooms have had to be shut down, however, because of lack of funds. There are no dues for members and operation of the JPCC depends entirely on funds raised during the drive.

G. Howland Shaw, Joseph Ottenstein and John Carter will head a special fund-raising committee in the drive.

Monoxide Fumes Overcome 2 in Gin Rummy Game

A retired police lieutenant and his 67-year-old gin rummy rival last night were partially overcome by carbon monoxide fumes in the basement of the policeman's home, 4824 Piney Branch rd. nw.

A. W. Guyer, 72, who retired in 1937 after 32 years on the police force here, and Lieut. Col. Bruce R. Campbell, USA (retired), of 1516 Emerson st. nw., were administered oxygen by the Fire Department Rescue Squad.

Campbell said they both became ill about 9 p. m., as they were starting their fifth gin rummy game. The colonel added that he tried to stand up and seemed to "blackout." Then he crawled up the basement stairs to call Mrs. Guyer for help.

Police reported the two men were in a room near the furnace.

Tom Clark to Lay Cornerstone for Police Boys Club

Attorney General Tom Clark today at 4 p. m. will lay the cornerstone of the Police Boys Club's new $160,000 clubhouse to be erected at 816 6th st. nw.

During the ceremony, Southwest Washington boys, who are members of the new club, No. 4, will fill a metal basket with their marbles, toys, handicraft and a front page of The Washington Post.

Winner of the essay contest on "What My Club Means to Me" will place his winning paper in the casket before it is buried within the cornerstone.

The Police Boys Club Band will play.

Symposium Wednesday On Cerebral Palsy

A symposium on cerebral palsy will be presented by the section on pediatrics of the D. C. Medical Society at 8:15 p. m. Wednesday at 1718 M st. nw. Discussions will be held on the neurological, orthopedic, pediatric and obstretrical aspects.

Speakers include Temple Fay, M. D., medical director of the Neuro-Physical Reh. bilitation Clinic, Chestnut Hill, Pa.; Winthrop Phelps, M. D., director of the Rehabilitation Institute, Cockesville, Md.; Joseph S. Wall, M. D., chairman of the staff of Children's Hospital, and John L. Parks, M. D., professor of obstetrics and gynecology, George Washington University.

Relief Group to Elect

The Junior Jewish Consumptive Relief Society will meet at 8 p. m. tomorrow at the Willard Hotel. New officers will be elected.

Wallace Backers Meet in Richmond, Plan Convention

Richmond, Va., May 9 (AP).—Some 100 Virginia supporters of Henry Wallace for President met here today and worked out plans for a State third party convention, June 26-27. The site of the convention was not determined.

Mrs. Virginia Foster Durr of Alexandria was elected State chairman of the Virginia Wallace-for-President Committee. She is the wife of Federal Communications Commissioner Clifford L. Durr.

Besides Mrs. Durr, other State third party officers elected today were George Elwood, executive secretary; Dr. L. F. Palmer, head of the Department of Education at Hampton Institute, vice chairman; Herbert R. White, secretary of an AFL Metal Workers local in Richmond, secretary, and A. W. Williams of Norfolk, treasurer.

The 10-man executive committee is comprised of Herbert George, University of Richmond student; Mrs. Adele Ellis, Richmond; Mrs. Sarah D'Avila of Fairfax County; William A. Lawrence, Nansemond County; Moses Riddick, Nansemond County; Max Sussman, Richmond; William Johnson, South Norfolk; Russell Johnson, Roanoke; Mrs. Anne Ruffin, Suffolk, and Mrs. Virginia Spellman, Arlington.

Police Arrest 8 In Raid on Home At Takoma Park

Eight persons were arrested by Montgomery County police yesterday in a raid on 105 Geneva ave., Takoma Park, Md.

Leroy Thompson, 43, of the Geneva ave. address, was charged with operating a disorderly house and John W. Daugherty, 1866 California st. nw., was charged with setting up a gaming table. Both were released on bonds of $500 each.

The six others were charged with gaming and released on collateral of $7.50 each. They were listed as Marvin Taylor, 1211 Potomac st. nw.; Ernest C. Garnett, 72 Ritchie ave., Silver Spring; Walter W. Crawford, 41 Oswego ave., Silver Spring; Joseph Long, Jones Mill rd., North Chevy Chase, Md.; James L. Byrd, Wheaton, Md., and Kemon Jones, 449 Newton st. nw.

The raid was led by Inspector James S. McAuliffe and Detective Sergt. James Anderson of the Silver Spring substation. The men were found shooting craps, police said.

Social Security Coverage Planned For 6,500,000 More

A House Ways and Means Subcommittee this week will recommend some extensions of social security coverage but "far short" of President Truman's goals, it was disclosed yesterday.

Informed sources also said the group, headed by Representative Reed (R., N.Y.) will issue a report sharply criticizing the way the Social Security system is being run.

The subcommittee will propose extending social security coverage to State and municipal employes when a State and the Federal Government enter into a voluntary compact. Coverage also would be extended to employes of nonprofit, charitable institutions, but again on "voluntary" basis.

It is estimated that the two committee recommendations would extend coverage to some 6,500,000 persons not now included, but they still would leave uncovered 13,500,000 self-employed and domestic and agriculture workers.

16 Jet Fighters Stage War Games Aboard Carrier

By the United Press

The Navy revealed last night that 16 jet fighter planes went through war exercises aboard the carrier Saipan last week in the largest jet operation ever made at sea.

The maneuvers took place in the Atlantic with the jet "phantoms" built by McDonnell Aircraft Corp. that make up the squadron stationed at Quonset Point, R. I.

Last March the Navy tried out its jet squadron stationed at San Diego, Calif., aboard the carrier Boxer in the Pacific. But those fighters operated only in groups of twos and threes.

The Phantoms have a top speed of more than 450 miles an hour and a range of more than 1000 miles.

Silver Spring Chamber To Hear Aviation Talk

A panel of aviation experts will discuss "The J. C.'s Look at Aviation" at a meeting of the Silver Spring Chamber of Commerce tonight at 6:30 o'clock at Stone House Inn, Four Corners, Md.

Speakers will include Don Ryan Mockler, chief of the Aircraft Industries Association and producer of WGAY's "National Aviation Forum"; Russ Nichols, executive director of the Academy of Model Aeronautics, and Joseph T. Geuting, manager of the Personal Aircraft Council, former president of the Philadelphia Junior Chamber of Commerce, and past national director of the Jaycees.

Bethesda Fire Dept. To Hold Open House

The Bethesda Fire Board and Fire Department will hold open house Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. at Fire Department headquarters, 7620 Old Georgetown rd., Bethesda.

New fire-fighting equipment will be on display. In case of rain, the open house will be held at the same time Thursday.

D. C. Foundation To Open Drive For Members

A drive for membership in the District of Columbia Foundation for Rheumatic Diseases will open Friday night at 8:30 o'clock in the Medical Society Building auditorium.

The local foundation was created last year to secure public support for badly needed clinical and research projects at local hospitals and universities. There is now only one clinic in the country, at Georgetown Hospital, operating from 8:30 to 10:30 a. m. each Thursday.

The foundation hopes to endow a fellowship at Georgetown and George Washington Hospitals to spread knowledge on rheumatic diseases. It also hopes to assist financially in supporting clinics at local hospitals. Persons who can donate time to aid work now under way at Georgetown Hospital may call Mrs. Mary P. Elward, foundation founder, at Woodley 4973.

P-TA Institute Due Thursday At Maryland U.

The second annual parents' institute of the Prince Georges County Council of Parent-Teacher Associations will be held Thursday at the University of Maryland.

Theme of the all-day institute, which will be open to the public, will be "Mental Health and the Happy Family." Facilities for care of preschool children have been provided.

Dr. Mabel Ross, director of the Prince Georges County Mental Health Clinic, will speak at 9:30 a. m., followed by three parent group discussions of behavior problems of children.

A film on family problems will be shown at 1:15 p. m. and the discussion following its showing will be led by Charles Coser, professor of psychology at the University of Maryland, and Herbert L. Rooney, chief psychiatric social worker at the mental health clinic.

The evening panel group will discuss "How Important Are Fathers?" followed by a summary by William S. Schmidt, director of instruction for the county board of education.

Drive to Educate Public to Open On Hospital Day

A month-long program to educate the public on services and problems of the community's hospitals will start Wednesday as hospitals in the metropolitan Washington area mark National Hospital Day.

W. R. Castle, president of the Hospital Council of the National Capital area, said his organization is sponsoring the project, which will extend through June 12.

At the same time, the D. C. Graduate Nurses Association announced a series of open houses, featuring tours of special interest to high school girls, at local hospitals during the remainder of the month.

Open house dates are Gallinger, May 12; Providence, May 18; St. Elizabeths, May 21, and Emergency, May 26. Garfield Hospital entertained April 30. There was an open house at Doctors Hospital yesterday.

Knights Templar To Hold Annual Conclave Today

The annual conclave of the Grand Commandery of Knights Templar in the District of Columbia will begin sessions at 2 p. m. today in the Masonic Temple, 13th st. and New York ave. nw.

Hugh L. Murrell, grand commander here, said only routine business will be transacted in the afternoon. The conclave will be resumed at 7 p. m. when A. A. Packard, grand warder of the grand encampment of the United States, will present the address of the grand master of Templars of the United States.

Final business of the session will be election and installation of local officers for the next year. Wives and girl friends of members and visitors of the grand commander will be entertained at a dinner at the Statler Hotel at 7 o'clock tonight.

Jewish Congress Says U. S. Aide 'Insulted' Race

New York, May 9 (U.P.).—The World Jewish Congress today protested to the State and War Departments against the action of an American official in Germany who allegedly refused to extradite war criminals because the Jewish witnesses against them "cannot be considered objective and impartial."

The WJC said the alleged statement by Ben Smith, head of the extradition section of the military government, was "an insult" to all Jews.

"If the testimony of Jewish survivors, frequently the only living witnesses of crimes in question, cannot be considered," the protest letter said, "this disqualification on grounds of race may very well destroy the possibility of ever bringing certain notorious war criminals to justice."

Lady Astor Gives Bowl To Lee Foundation

Fredericksburg, Va., May 9 (AP). An eighteenth century silver bowl was given to the Robert E. Lee Memorial Foundation today by Lady Astor. The presentation was made by Lady Astor's sister, Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson at Stratford, the Lee home, in Westmoreland County.

During the course of her brief remarks, Mrs. Gibson said that Lady Astor praises Americans while she is in England, but that when she is in this country she "kids us."

Takoma Iris Show To Be Held Saturday

The thirty-second annual iris show of the Takoma Horticultural Club will be held Saturday, May 15, from 4 until 9 p. m. in the Takoma branch of the Public Library, Fifth and Cedar sts. nw.

Awards will include the silver and bronze medals of the American Iris Society and an annual membership in the society. Exhibits will be accepted from 12 noon to 3 p. m.

Cohen to Discuss Indian Resources

Indian resources will be discussed by Felix S. Cohen Tuesday at 3:45 p. m. in the Interior Department auditorium as the second in a series of lectures conducted by the Indian Bureau Employes' Association to eliminate misunderstandings and enhance public enlightenment on the American Indian.

THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

And That's Why William Missed Choir Practice

This will explain why William F. Chatmon of 303 42d st. ne. failed to show up for choir practice at the Sargent Memorial Presbyterian Church.

Bill was sent a postcard notice of an impending rehearsal, as usual, but somebody in the Postoffice Department thought that "D. C." looked like "B. C."

So the postcard went to Victoria, British Columbia, instead of to Washington, District of Columbia, and Bill got his notice several weeks after the rehearsal was held.

COUTH, WITH VARIATIONS

Some time ago I wondered whether readers could suggest other words like "uncouth," whose positive forms are rarely (if ever) used.

Ever since then, I've been looking for space in which to tabulate the replies.

Elinor P. Griest of 1808 Connecticut ave. nw., suggests unkempt, uncanny, inept, unnerved and unbeknownst.

Mrs. Russell Roller of 7135 Chestnut st. nw., prefers positive forms, like: scrutable, maculate, trepid and nocent. Virginia Haaga of 3324 Coryell lane, Alexandria, Va., keeps the ball rolling with gruntled.

Mrs. Donald E. V. Henderson of 4460 Greenwick pkwy. nw., confides: "I am often filled with gust when I read your column. I believe the best way to commode your readers and convenience yourself is to avoid all putatious matters, and never fall into the astrous habit of bosoming secrets that come your way."

Alice and Hart Wadsworth of 1532 29th st. nw. content themselves with the remark: "We are combobulated and tracted to find that you have turbed our language."

Margaret Thurston of 214 Newcomb st. se. drops her pregnable reserve momentarily to inquire what should be done about pudent and solent childen.

Sibyl M. Greenleaf of 3149 Newark st. nw. and Constance Steel of 1743 P st. nw. hope that at least the children have ruly hair.

M. B. Callahan of 1512 Roosevelt ave., Falls Church, Va., asks: "If Orientals are invariably described as 'inscrutable,' are Occidentals 'scrutable'?"

A. P. Jensen of Charlotte Hall School, Charlotte Hall, Md., wonders whether we've ever stopped to think that "ravel" and "unravel" mean the same thing.

And William Plampin of 4108 Tunlaw ter. nw., points out that "loosen" and "unloosen" also mean exactly the same thing. (Does all this daunt you? Me too.)

Douglas B. Netherwood of 4936 Rodman st. nw. disposes of the entire issue (I trust) with the lines:

Are we ruly, ept and ane,
Ert and dignant, highly sipid?
No—I fear we shall remain
Nocent, nocuous, scrutable and trepid.

REMINDER

Wilbur O. Snyder of 138 Tennessee ave. ne. says that my private feud with the weatherman reminds him of the story of Christopher Sauer.

Old Chris lived in Germantown (Pa.) back in the days before the Revolutionary War. He ran a printing plant in which, among other things, he published an almanac.

The farmers of the area consulted the almanac with great diligence, because it provided their best (if not only) weather forecasts.

But one day a local farmer was hauling a load of grain in to Philadelphia on what was supposed to be a nice day—and got caught in a downpour. So, on his return to Germantown, he made a point of telling Chris exactly what he thought of the almanac and of its publisher.

Sauer listened with great patience, and when his visitor was quite finished he calmly replied:

"You are right, brother. It rained today, and the almanac said that it would not.

"But please remember that Christopher Sauer makes only the almanac; the good God makes the weather."

PERSONAL NOTES

Gunnar E. Rath, 3912 Ames st. ne.: Thanks for a most interesting tip. On checking, I find that the situation is made possible through a loophole in postal regulations; but I think it would be in the public interest not to publicize the matter. Agreed?

CRITIC

Ruth H. Lane of 619 N. Jefferson st., Arlington, Va., writes:

"As our car was bumping along over two of Arlington's main highways, Glebe rd. and Wilson blvd., an old-timer informed us that these were once Indian trails.

"It would appear that, since the coming of the white man, they have been permitted to fall into disrepair."

Leonard Lyons . . .

NEW YORK.—Harnett Kane, the New Orleans author, tells of a literary tea attended by a group of New Orleans writers. The hostess greeted a young pretty lady, and introduced her to the guests: "I'd like you to meet," she began, "Truman Capote, Eudora Welty, Burdette Huggins, Tennessee Williams, Joe Marshall, Roark Bradford, Telesphore Roman and Alibiades Stephens" . . . When the introductions were over, the New Orleans hostess whispered to the lady: "Joe, as you probably have surmised, is from out of town."

Lorraine Miller, who appeared in the Helen Hayes show, "Happy Birthday," said to Joe DiMaggio: "Before I return to Hollywood, I'd like to know this: would you give me the shirt off your back?" DiMaggio said: "Of course. What can I do for you?" Miss Miller replied: "I'd really like the shirt off your back." The actress returned to California with DiMaggio's Yankee shirt, with its No. "4" on the sleeve and back.

One of Nevada's most famous gambling establishments will be unable to get a renewal of its license this year . . . When Carveth Wells, the explorer, flies to the African jungle shortly, his plane will have a Crosley station wagon in the luggage compartment.

Lobbying Now No. 1 Industry Here

By Drew Pearson

No. 1 industry in the Nation's Capital has now become lobbying. Despite the Lobbying Act, the hotels, the cocktail lounges, the corridors of Congress now swarm with more of these oleaginous back-slappers than during the war. Standing out above the rest is the oil lobby — kingpin of them all.

Sen. Moore

The oil lobby has scored one great victory — Palestine — about which more later. Now it's concentrating on perhaps the richest of all prizes—tidelands oil.

Tidelands oil, the great continental shelf extending under the water off the Pacific and Gulf Coasts, is estimated by some as more valuable than Arabia and the oil fields of the United States combined. Around 100 billion barrels lie buried in these underwater oil fields, as against only 20 billion barrels remaining in the dry-land oil fields of the United States.

"The petroleum resources of the continental shelf are ours to exploit whenever to exploit them becomes worth while," said Standard Oil in a statement to stockholders. And since the Supreme Court now takes a contrary view that the continental shelf belongs to the Federal Government, not the States, the oil lobby is focusing all its power on a bill introduced by Senator Moore of Oklahoma, himself an oilman, which would reverse the Supreme Court.

Having reversed the United Nations on Palestine, the oil lobbyists quite openly boast that they can put a law through Congress reversing the highest tribunal of the land.

The Lobbyist Army

Like a well-organized army, the oil lobby operates through a front-line commander, shock troops, deputy commanders, plus psychological warfare agents, financial backers, and camp followers.

Front-line commander—is Senator Ed Moore, Oklahoma Republican, who made millions out of oil, is about to retire from the Senate, doesn't care what the voters think of him, and has introduced bill 1988 turning the continental oil shelf of the United States back to the States — chiefly to California and Texas. Senator Moore was able to afford a $25,000 contribution to Senator Pappy O'Daniel's radio fund in 1944.

Shock troop commander — is Walter Johnson, Attorney General of Nebraska, who draws a salary of $1500 a month from the oil lobby and spends part of his time in Washington directing its legislative battle, despite the fact that he is supposed to be atending to the law business of Nebraska.

Just why Nebraska, a land-locked State, with no oil lands remotely near the sea, should be so interested in the tidelands oil bill, is difficult for the average person to understand. The reasons and ramifications will become evident later.

Deputy shock troop commander —is William W. Clary, Assistant Attorney General of California. Although working for the State of California and paid $6500 a year by the taxpayers of that State, Clary also works for the law firm of O'Malvoney and Myers, which in turn represents 23 oil and utility companies, most of which will profit from tidelands oil. A lush bonanza of $270,000 in attorney's fees was dropped into the lap of Mr. Clary and his associates by various clients last year, and Mr. Clary even explains that he pays his salary as a State official into his law firm's kitty, splitting it with his partners.

How these State officials can get away with working for their State governments and for the oil companies at one and the same time is not only interesting but indicates why the oil companies are so anxious for State control of tidelands oil. State officials will be so nice and easy to get along with.

Psychological warfare chief—is Dr. Edward A. Rumley, who is amazingly and sanctimoniously successful at enticing all sorts of people to put money into the tidelands oil fight.

Rumely employs a staff of 50 people to shovel out propaganda to the American public, and has a neat game whereby big businessmen can buy up his literature for so-called "educational" purposes and send it to schools and colleges. This makes it deductible from income taxes.

One of Rumley's camp followers and assistant propagandists is amiable Homer Dodge, former Washington newsman, frequently seen in the National Press Club, and who drew $2073 from Rumely's Committee for Constitutional Government during the last three months of 1947.

Another deputy in the army of oil-lobby propagandists is able Eugene Kelly, another former Washington newspaperman, who was hired by Attorney General Fred Howser of California at $500 a week. Admitting this to a Senate committee, Howser explained: "The money has not been appropriated nor have I obtained it from the State of California. I must go home and get it for him."

Howser did go home, and did get the money appropriated—$43,000 by the California Legislature. However, when it was reported that $25,000 of this was "earmarked for lunches and entertainment of Congressmen," California Congressmen raised cain and Governor Warren, in the end, vetoed the bill.

This leaves Attorney General Howser, Eugene Kelly and some of the other eager battlers in the army for tidelands oil, with a big hole in their pockets—at least theoretically. From a practical viewpoint, the oil companies will fill up the hole.

THOMAS TREATMENT
is sweet music to my scalp

"I ENJOY Thomas treatment immensely. It seems to soothe and relax me, but at the same time it leaves my scalp tingling with a healthy, invigorated sensation. Dandruff flakes have disappeared, and my scalp feels grand now," says Lawrence Welk, orchestra leader.

Each day more than 1600 other persons are enjoying comparable benefits from Thomas treatment. They find that Thomas treatment is not only pleasant, but that it readily removes aggravating dandruff scales and relieves the itch which they cause. Thomas can help you, too! Come in today for free advice and consultation—see for yourself exactly how this reliable, time-tested treatment works.

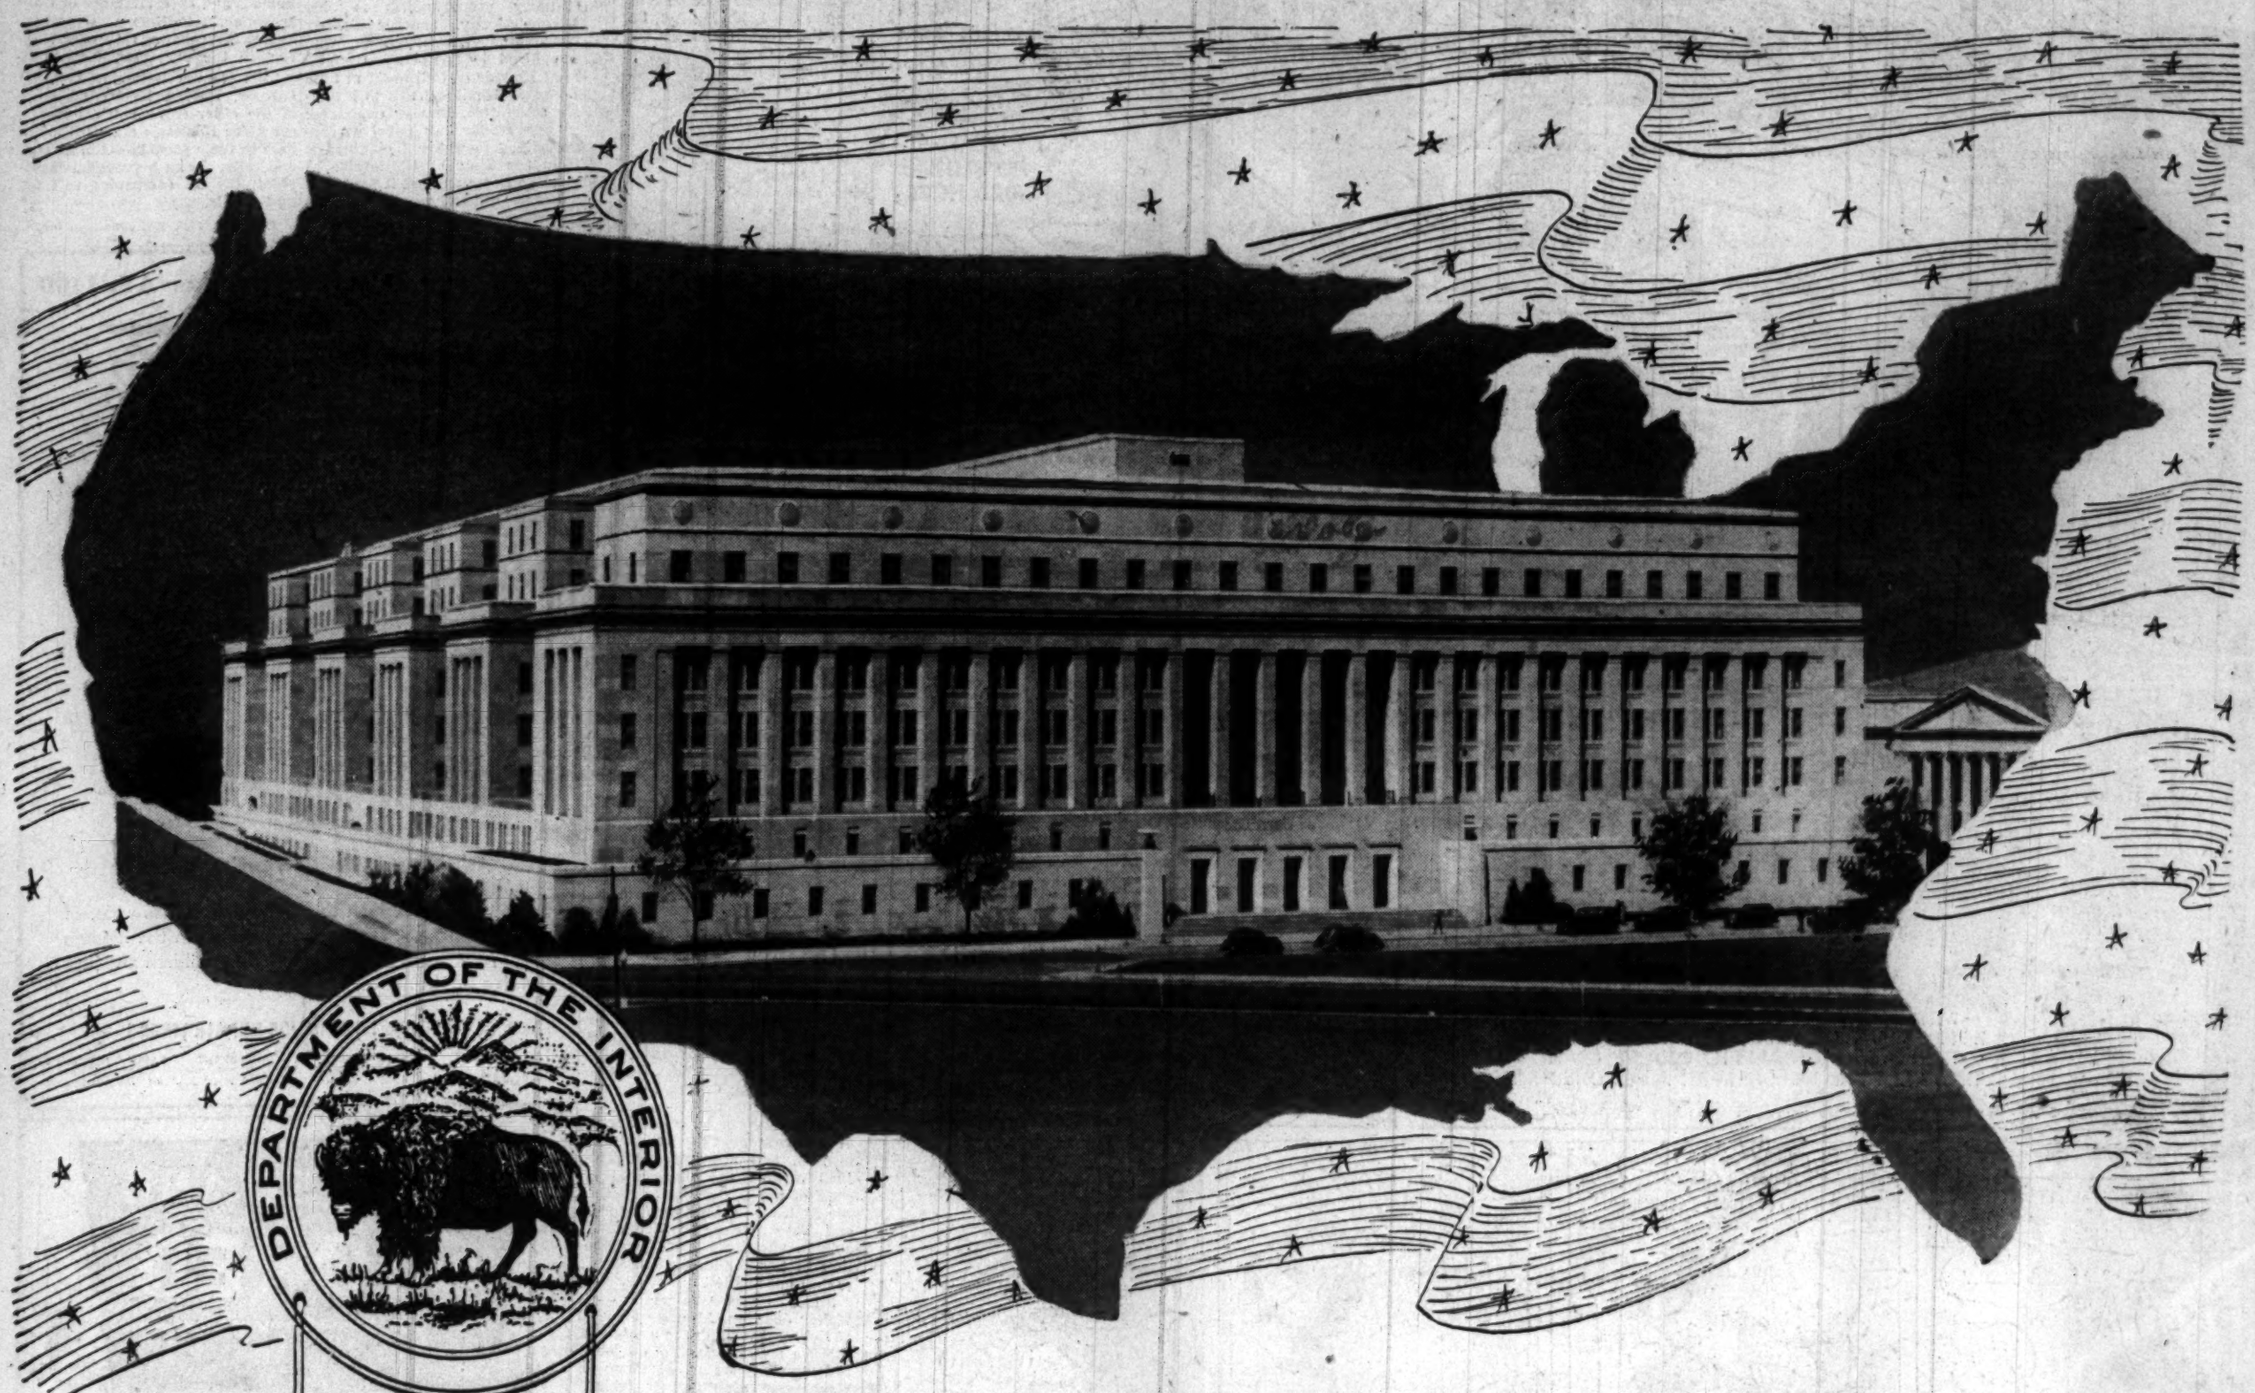
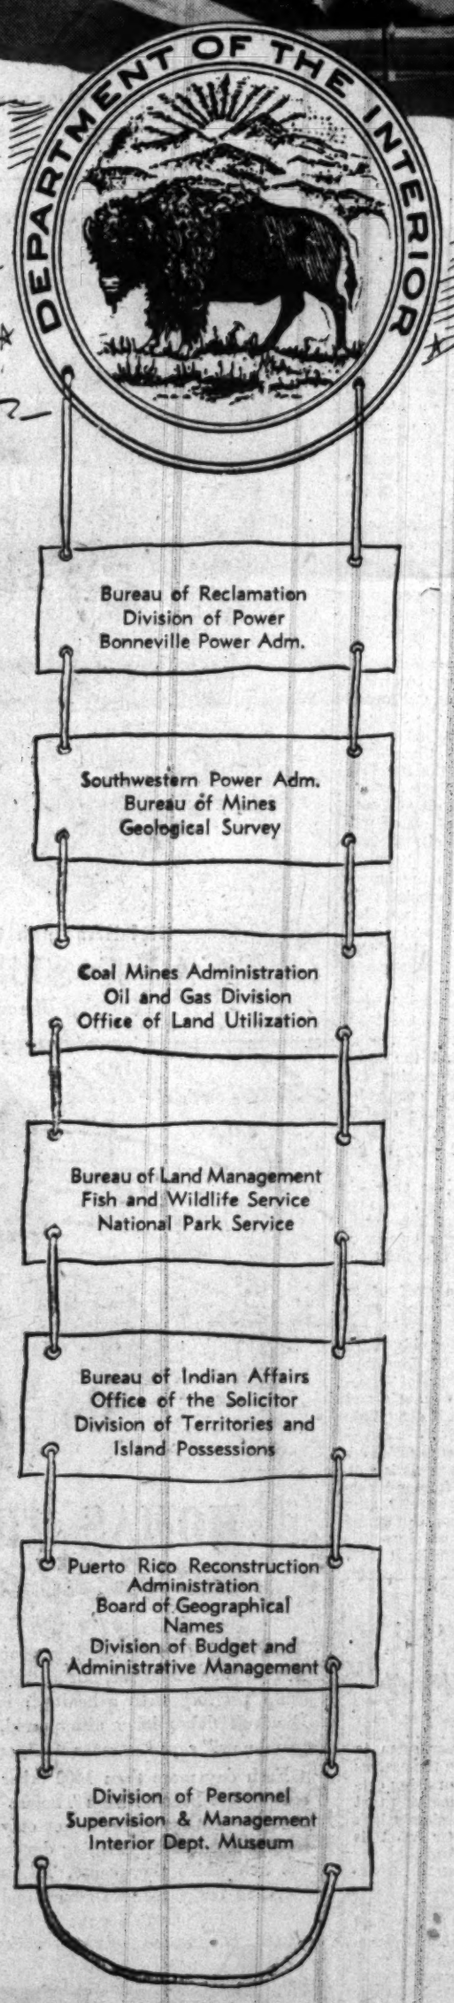
Some people never seem to know . . . They give themselves away . . . By merely raising eyebrows or . . . By something that they say . . . They simply lack diplomacy . . . Or what is called finesse . . . And they are not concerned about . . . Their neighbor's happiness . . . They figure they are smarter than . . . The smartest in the land . . . And everyone should recognize . . . The wisdom they command . . . But they are neither wise nor great . . . And all their neighbors know . . . That they are only acting up . . . And putting on a show . . . And though they may succeed at times . . . In getting pretty far . . . Eventually they all find out . . . How dumb they really are.

★ No. 6 IN A SERIES DEDICATED TO THE NATION'S CAPITAL, Washington . . . ITS INSTITUTIONS AND ITS PEOPLE ★





THIS WEEK THE HECHT COMPANY SALUTES THE

Department of the Interior

and its people who promote our domestic welfare and conserve our natural resources

• The Department of The Interior . . . is combating the loss of half a million acres of topsoil taking place annually as a result of the effects of wind, rain and misuse. Tremendous dams have been built to aid in the reclamation and preservation of valuable farmland . . . as well as to supply electric power to thousands of communities.

• The Department of The Interior . . . National Park Service . . . is charged with the preservation of places of scenic beauty and scientific value. Millions of tourists visit our many beautiful national parks annually . . . and pre-historic remains of now-extinct races have been preserved for the scrutiny of modern man.

• The Department of The Interior . . . Fish and Wildlife Service . . . oversees the protection of all wildlife and fish in the country. As our nation grows, there is a tendency for wild animals, birds and fish to die off . . . and unceasing vigilance is necessary to prevent the total extinction of many species.

• The Department of The Interior . . . Geological Survey . . . has completed plans to map the entire country . . . for the benefit of road builders, irrigators, flood control and soil conservation engineers, and many others. For fifty-three years the Geological Survey has been concerned with water measurement . . . important in the planning of reservoirs, irrigation projects and flood control works . . . and necessary for our comfort, well-being and prosperity.

• The Department of The Interior . . . has undertaken many programs to conserve our natural resources . . . and is continually searching for new methods to utilize them more efficiently. It also seeks new ways to create Energy . . . from coal, petroleum, natural gas and water power . . . to drive our factories, heat our homes, improve our transportation. The better utilization of Energy has been responsible for the steady advance of our civilization . . . which literally depends on Energy for its existence.

The four thousand Washingtonians who work in the Department of the Interior dedicate themselves to the all-important task of conserving our natural resources . . . which were God-given us in our rich and fruitful land. Resources are not limitless . . . they can be wasted and misused . . . and once depleted, can never be replenished. It takes hundreds of years for Nature to grow a forest . . . hundreds of thousands for it to produce a coal field. The people of Interior see to it that Nature is not misused . . . that forests cut down are replanted . . . that waste is eliminated in the mining of coal and oil.

To build upon a weak foundation is dangerous . . . and that applies to a nation's economy as well as it does to a house. We depend upon huge supplies of basic materials . . . coal, minerals, petroleum, farmland, electric power . . . to keep our factories producing and our people busy. Without resources to feed upon, our economy would starve . . . and all of our technological genius, our tens of millions of skilled workers . . . would be useless.

To make certain that we may operate at full capacity . . . at a time in our history when the need is urgent . . . to us and to much of the world . . . we must be sure that our foundation is firm . . . that our tremendous wealth of resources is carefully husbanded, that waste is minimized, that our lands are kept fertile, that our deserts are turned into gardens.

The Hecht Company raises its hand in salute to the workers of the Department of the Interior . . . who safeguard our resources, the foundation of our economic life.
